INVOCATION

The Invocation was delivered by Reverend Kevin Sweeney, St. Michael's Church of Sunset Park, 352 42nd Street Brooklyn, New York 11232.

Let us pray.

God of love and mercy, God of life and light,
we praise you and we give you thanks
today and every day for all of your blessings and gifts.
We thank you especially for our City and our Country and for all the women and men, especially our elected officials who serve the common good.
We pray for them as we pray for ourselves, especially we pray for the members of this City Council who gather here today.
We ask for the gifts of wisdom and courage, compassion and generosity, justice and mercy.
In this great City of ours, we especially give you thanks for the gifts and blessings that we share as we strive for unity in the midst of diversity, in this City and community, blessed by the gifts of language, culture and traditions that have come to us from all corners of the Earth and from so many nations and peoples.
We ask you to help us to always be mindful of our common humanity and that we may all be instruments of your peace.
Tonight, and tomorrow we pray in a special way with our sisters and brothers from Mexico as they celebrate the one, they call la Virgen, Our Lady of Guadalupe.
As those who turn to her, see in her a sign both of your motherly and fatherly care for all of your children.
We ask you to continue bless us all.
Bless our gatherings, our gathering and deliberations here today and continue to bless our beautiful City of New York.
Amen.

Council Member Menchaca moved to spread the Invocation in full upon the record.

During the Communication from the Speaker segment of this Meeting, the Speaker (Council Member Johnson) asked for a Moment of Silence for the following individuals:

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) acknowledged that Council Community Engagement Unit Director Jenny Low was seriously injured and hospitalized after being struck by an auto on the night of December 7, 2018. He related how he and his Chief of Staff Jason Goldman had visited and spoken to Ms. Low at Bellevue Hospital. He recounted that they had also met her husband and sixteen year old son there as well. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) described Ms. Low as one of the nicest, most generous, and kindest persons one could meet. He pointed out that she was a fighter and someone who was strong enough to make it through a challenging recovery. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) thanked the surgeons, doctors, nurses, and staff at Bellevue Hospital for taking care of Ms. Low and he asked everyone assembled to keep her in their hearts and prayers.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) asked everyone to keep a hospitalized NYPD officer in their thoughts and prayers. Officer Amir Pali, 26, was wounded on December 9, 2018 during a confrontation in Staten Island between police and an armed suspect. He thanked all the brave men and women of the NYPD for putting their lives on the line to help keep New Yorkers safe.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) noted the death of construction worker Over Paredes, 44. Mr. Paredes was killed during the course of his employment on November 21, 2018 as the result of an on-site accident in Council Member Cornegy's district in Brooklyn. On behalf of the entire Council, the Speaker (Council Member Johnson) extended his deepest condolences to Mr. Paredes's family.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) acknowledged the death of FDNY Firefighter Faizal Codo, 33, who was killed on December 9, 2018 while off-duty in a Brooklyn road rage incident. On behalf of the Council, he extended his condolences to Mr. Codo's family. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) also expressed his gratitude to law enforcement for quickly apprehending the suspected perpetrator.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) noted the deaths of several more first responders who had passed away due to 9/11 related illnesses: FDNY Captain John Moschella, FDNY Fire Fighter Rory M. Maze, Chief Raymond Blackus, and New Jersey State Trooper Robert Nagle. He asked everyone to keep their families in their hearts.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) acknowledged the death of former U.S. President George H. W. Bush. The former president passed away on November 30, 2018 at the age of 94. He noted that President Bush's life of service to the country had inspired millions of Americans including those who had disagreed with him. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) offered his condolences to the Bush family.

At this point a Moment of Silence was observed in the Chambers.

REPORTS OF THE STANDING COMMITTEES

Report of the Committee on Civil and Human Rights

Report for Int. No. 752-A

Report of the Committee on Civil and Human Rights in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law in relation to amending the New York city charter, to create an office of diversity and inclusion within the department of citywide administrative services.

The Committee on Civil and Human Rights, to which the annexed proposed amended local law was referred on April 11, 2018 (Minutes, page 1445), respectfully

REPORTS:

INTRODUCTION

On December 10, 2018, the Committee on Civil and Human Rights, chaired by Council Member Mathieu Eugene, will hold a vote on three pieces of legislation: Proposed Introductory Bill Number 752-A (Int. 752-A), in relation to creating an office of diversity and inclusion within the Department of Citywide Administrative Services; Proposed Introductory Bill Number. 755-A, (Int. 755-A), in relation to requiring the Equal Employment Practices Commission to analyze and report annually on citywide racial and ethnic classification underutilization; and Proposed Introductory Bill Number 756-A (Int. 756-A), in relation to requiring the Department of Citywide Administrative Services to review and report annually on the City's efforts to collect racial and ethnic demographic information, including a review of racial classification categories and employee response rates. In April of 2018, the Committee held a joint hearing with the Committee on Civil Service and Labor, chaired by Council Member Miller, on these bills. The Committees heard testimony from the Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS), the Equal Employment Practices Commission (EEOC), advocates, stakeholders, and members of the public. This feedback has informed changes made to the bills since the hearing April hearing.

BACKGROUND

Equal treatment in the workplace and equal employment opportunities are cornerstones of the anti-discrimination framework. Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) policies aim to prevent and/or address adverse treatment that occurs in the workplace, while also actively pursuing practices that promote a diverse and inclusive workforce. New York City is one of the most diverse cities in the country,¹ and its public agencies employ over 383,700 people, making it one of the largest employers in the country.² The City of New York is therefore uniquely positioned to lead the way on equal employment opportunity policies. In order to facilitate this process and provide a clear snapshot of the current composition of the City's public workforce, reliable data collection and analysis are essential tools.

Federal Equal Employment Reporting

The civil rights era ushered in a wave of new laws and policies aimed at addressing and preventing discrimination practices. The central piece of legislation was the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964. Title VII of the Civil Rights Act specifically prohibits discrimination in the workplace based on race, color, national origin, sex, religion, and retaliation.³ The passage of other pieces of legislation, such as the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, and the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008, further expanded the protected classes.

Title VII also established the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). In addition to investigating and addressing workplace discrimination complaints, the EEOC has been fundamental in shaping equal employment opportunity laws, best practices, and definitions of discrimination. For example, after reviewing a number of its earliest cases, the EEOC acknowledged that discrimination was not limited to explicit discriminatory actions and rather, it often transpired “when neutral policies or practices had a disproportionate, adverse impact on any protected class, usually minorities or women.”⁴ In expanding the focus of examination to include “broad employment systems that operated as barriers to equal employment opportunities”, “[t]he Commission utilized statistics to demonstrate the disparate impact of facially neutral hiring and employment systems.”⁵

Title VII therefore requires all states and other jurisdictions with 100 or more employees to report on its workforce composition through the EEO-4 survey, every two years. Local governments with 15 or more employees are still required to collect and keep (for three years) the data that could be used for the survey, but they are not required to formally submit the information to the EEOC.⁶

Current New York City Data

Each fiscal year, DCAS produces a report that provides an overview of New York City’s civil service, titled “The New York City Government Workforce Profile Report,” (Workforce Report). The Workforce Report examines the workforce composition of 71 City agencies; boards and commissions, including the Civil Service Commission and Board of Correction; other agencies that report to the Mayor, including the New York Housing Authority (NYCHA), the Department of Education (DOE), and NYC Health and Hospitals (NYCHH); as well as elected bodies such as the City Council, the offices of the Public Advocate, District Attorneys, and the Borough Presidents.⁷ The Workforce Report profiles the age, employment status and civil service title of the City’s employees and often includes these breakdowns according to gender and race. These gender and racial data for the majority⁸ of the agencies examined “was extracted from the Citywide Equal Employment Database System (CEEDS), and was provided by the DCAS Office of Citywide Diversity and Equal Employment Opportunity (CDEEO).”⁹

The most recent release of the Workforce Report provides a general snapshot of the diversity of New York City’s workforce. According to the data, at the 2016 fiscal year, the City’s workforce was comprised of 59% women and 60% people of color, as seen in the chart below.

New York City employees by ethnicity and gender (fiscal year 2016)¹⁰

The demographic composition of the City's workforce has been steady over the past ten years:

- the American Indian/Alaskan Native employee population has been a consistent 0.5% of the City's workforce since 2007;
- the Asian employee population has grown slightly from 7% in 2007 to 9% in 2016;
- the Hispanic employee population has also slightly increased from 19% in 2007 to 20% in 2016;
- the Black employee population has decreased from 32% in 2007 to 31% in 2016; and
- the number of women in the City's workforce has increased slightly from 58% in 2007 to 59% in 2016.¹¹

Compared to the whole of the employed population of New York City, the City's public service is comprised of more female workers (59% v. 49%); more White workers (40% v. 36%); more Black workers (30% v. 21%); less Hispanic workers (21% v. 28%); and less Asian workers (9% v. 15%).¹²

Compared to the federal statistics available, New York City's employment diversity fares somewhat better. At the end of the 2016 financial year, the federal workforce was:

18.4% Black
 8.6% Hispanic
 5.8% Asian
 0.5% Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander
 1.6% American Indian/Alaska Native
 63.6% White
 56.8% male
 43.2% female.¹³

ISSUES AND CONCERNS

As one of the most diverse cities in the country and as one of New York City's biggest employers, it is vital the City's civil service reflect the people it serves. It is also crucial that the civil service is as diverse as the City because, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, "historically, one route to upward social mobility has been employment in local government."¹⁵ As the most recent data available makes clear, however, currently there are certain groups whose participation in the City's workforce remains low. The Hispanic workforce, for example, sits around 20% even though this group makes up 28% of the employed population. Similarly, Asian civil servants comprise only 9% of the City's workforce and 15% of the whole labor force.¹⁶ The City's procedure of collecting equal employment opportunity data is an essential component in evaluating the City's workforce diversity goals. Section 814 (13) of the New York City Charter, which outlines the duties of DCAS, requires that it establish a uniform format for agencies to follow when preparing their quarterly reports. It also states that:

Such format shall provide for the presentation of statistical information...in a manner which facilitates understanding of an agency's efforts to provide fair and effective equal opportunity employment for minority group members, women and members of other groups who are employed by, or who seek employment, with city agencies.¹⁷

The City does currently collect and collate some data that provide a snapshot of the racial and gender makeup of the civil service, but these statistics do not offer a complete picture. For example, while the annual Workforce Report, produced by DCAS, provides comparative data on the racial and gender composition of the City's workforce for new hires, separations, retirements and resignations there are no gender or racial breakdowns for salary brackets, promotions or level of seniority – all of which would be clear indicators to measure upward mobility. In contrast, the City of Philadelphia, which also publishes a workforce report, provides the gender and racial composition of categories such as executive level (those making over $90,000 per year), Commissioners and Directors (including the heads of departments), and the report also provides a section specifically looking at salary disparities within the different groups.¹⁸

The federal data also collates the racial and gender composition of senior positions in order to provide a comparison between the makeup of the federal workforce as a whole, and as a percentage of all senior positions held by minorities and underrepresented groups.¹⁹ The New York City data, on the other hand, provides this information according to title and classification, making it difficult to determine whether there is diversity in salary brackets and senior-level positions – both of which are key to measuring the effectiveness of City agencies' EEO polices.

The gender and race categories (based on the categories required for the federal EEO-4 reporting),²⁰ are also quite broad and do not necessarily reflect the groups that employees identify with. The Workforce Report has indicated that, going forward, it will address this by “allowing applicants and employees to self-identify as two or more races, separating Asians from Pacific Islander and Hawaiian race category, offering Hispanics the option of reporting both by ethnicity and race and, in the gender category, reinforcing the option to not disclose. These changes will be reflected in the next iteration of the Workforce Profile Report.”²¹

While this represents a beneficial change, these new categories may not go far enough. For example, according to the National Institute for Latino Policy, the Latino community in New York City is one of the most diverse in the country, in terms of national-origin.²² Using data from the 2010 census, New York City's Latino population is:

- 31% Puerto Rican
- 24.7% Dominican
- 13.7% Mexican
- 7.2% Ecuadoran
- 4.1% Colombian
- 19.3% Central and South American.²³

As the report by the National Institute for Latino Policy argues, identifying with the different national-origins has important implications, especially with regards to legal status. For example, people of Puerto Rican national-origin hold U.S. citizenship whereas those born in other parts of the Latin world may not.²⁴

The limited categories also fail to acknowledge the spectrum of gender identities and categories currently classified as ‘white.’ Again, by overlooking differences that exist within the broad categories, important implications are missed. It will be difficult to ascertain and address structural biases and prejudice against groups that identify as Arab, North African and Middle-Eastern or Trans, for example, when they are conflated with White or female/male, respectively. Several countries have broadened their census racial categories to capture the myriad of groups that exist and improve response rates. Canada, for example, recognizes 250 categories and permits multiple responses for mixed race individuals.²⁵ The United Kingdom has begun research and consultation to include information on gender identity within its census.²⁶

ANALYSIS OF LEGISLATION

Proposed Int. 752-A

Int. 752-A creates an Office of Diversity and Inclusion. It builds upon existing programs at DCAS and codifies much of what the agency currently does, with a view towards incorporating more accountability mechanisms to identify gaps and areas for improvement. Section 2 of the bill adds the following tasks to DCAS through its Office of Diversity and Inclusion:

1. Compile and release employment statistics related to hiring, salary and promotion of city employees, disaggregated by gender, race, civil service title classification, and other categories as appropriate, and make such reports publicly available online on an annual basis.
2. Ensure accountability by evaluating each city agency in accordance with the procedures and standards set by the office. The office must ensure that each evaluation includes the following: (i) a determination for each city agency of whether such agency is compliant with such procedures and standards; (iii) an analysis of whether and how such procedures and standards should be expanded or modified for the next annual reporting period, with a view towards improving upon prior benchmarks; and (iv) any other information the office deems relevant.
3. Develop policies and best practices to ensure that adequate support, training and mentorship is made available to underrepresented city employees to assist with career advancement in the civil service.
4. Develop recruitment, hiring and career advancement procedures that address unconscious biases and systemic barriers to achieve greater diversity in the recruitment and career advancement of city employees, and provide trainings for city agency employees responsible for recruitment, discretionary hiring, and career advancement.

The evaluations are to be compiled and included in an annual report to the mayor, the city council, and the EEPC, and made available online.

Section 3 of the bill requires city agency heads to fully cooperate with the Office. Section 3 of the bill sets the effective date 120 days after the bill becomes law.

Proposed Int. No. 755-A

Int. 755-A requires the EEPC to issue an annual report evaluating whether city agencies are meeting their racial and ethnic affirmative employment goals, and to issue recommendations on corrective actions to improve diversity in recruitment, selection, retention and promotion. Currently, the EEPC issues relatively generic assessments of agencies indicating whether they are or are not in compliance. This bill would require the EEPC to analyze and report annually on citywide racial and ethnic classification underutilization that could facilitate improving the legal, regulatory and policy frameworks of existing city affirmative action programs or initiatives.

Section 1, subdivision c requires the EEPC to issue to the mayor and the speaker of the City Council, and make available to the public, a report including the following:

- (1) information identifying the racial and ethnic groups underutilized, disaggregated by agency, and aggregate, citywide results;
- (2) information regarding previously issued correction action plans or determinations of non-compliance related to underutilization;
- (3) recommendations for correcting underutilization, disaggregated by agency and by underutilized group;
- (4) recommendations regarding how the collection of racial and ethnic classification data of city employees, based on a review of the city's racial and ethnic classification categories and an assessment of whether such categories accurately capture the racial and ethnic composition of the city's government workforce, including a review of employee response rates to racial and ethnic classification questions;
- (5) recommendations for strengthening agency affirmative employment plan oversight and enforcement, including funding recommendations; and

(6) recommendations for citywide corrective actions, including legislative, regulatory and budgetary changes, to address:

- a. chronic or systemic underutilization;
- b. reach citywide affirmative employment objectives; and
- c. increase diversity in the recruitment, selection, retention and promotion of city employees.

Subdivision d requires city agencies to cooperate with the EEPC and provide it with the necessary data and information.

The EEPC must publish its first report on February 15, 2021, and no later than February 15 annually. The law would be deemed repealed after it becomes law.

Proposed Int. No. 756-A

Int. 756-A requires DCAS to, in its annual report, provide: an analysis of employee response rates to efforts to collect demographic information over time, and whether changes in the racial and ethnic classification categories used to collect demographic information have had an impact on employee response rates; and a review of racial and ethnic classification categories used to collect demographic information and recommendations for how to improve the use of such categories to reflect the city government workforce. As noted earlier in this Committee Report, several groups have complained about their omission on Census Bureau data, and the City ought to ensure it does not contribute to the continuing erasure of minority groups.

Report for Int. No. 1014-B

Report of the Committee on Education in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to requiring a single reporting bill on department of education spending allocations, including fair student funding, for schools citywide

The Committee on Education, to which the annexed proposed amended local law was referred on June 28, 2018 (Minutes, page 2603), respectfully

REPORTS:

INTRODUCTION

On December 10, 2018, the Committee on Education, chaired by Council Member Mark Treyger, will consider Proposed Introduction Number 1014-B ("Prop. Int. 1014-B"), sponsored by Council Member Treyger; Proposed Introduction Number 1174-A ("Prop. Int. 1174-A"), sponsored by Council Member Treyger; and Proposed Resolution Number 569-A ("Res. 569-A"), sponsored by Council Member Treyger. The Committee previously heard this legislation on October 30, 2018. Representatives from the New York City Department of Education ("DOE"), unions, and other members of the public testified at that hearing.

BACKGROUND

The City's over 1,800 public schools each have individual school budgets that are funded by DOE through a combination of funding sources. Fair Student Funding ("FSF") is the main source of this funding for most schools, providing on average 67.4 percent of an individual school's budget through a "weighted pupil-funding formula."¹ In addition to FSF, funding for school budgets is comprised of categorical allocations and programmatic allocations, which are dollars restricted by the City, State, and federal governments in how they can be used.² The FSF formula is not designed to cover all costs associated with educating a student, but rather the base cost to cover essential academic programs. FSF does not support District 75 and District 79 schools because of their "distinct instructional models."³ Under the formula, money is attached to the student, not the school, and schools receive a base level of funding related to the students' grade level and the needs of each individual student. Principals may spend FSF funding at their discretion, with flexibility to decide how much to spend on teachers and other instructional resources.

The FSF formula is based on the number and demographics of the student population in each individual school. The FSF formula allocates funding to schools through five categories: 1) Foundation, which is a fixed amount of $225,000 for each school; 2) Grade weights, based on student grade levels; 3) Needs weights, based on students' needs; 4) School weights; and 5) Collective Bargaining related to increases for staff funded with FSF.⁴ The weights in the FSF formula are intended to provide adequate funding to support students with the greatest needs while also providing base support for all students. The reason the $225,000 is applied to the formula is to set a floor for administrative costs that all schools should have and is not related to students. This funding is not tied to a particular position, so a principal may decide to use it to hire administrative staff, teachers, or other services.⁵ According to DOE, schools should also be able to support additional administrative staff using resources from the per-student allocation in the FSF formula, and other programmatic allocations provided to individual schools.⁶

Once the FSF formula is allocated based on the number of enrolled students, their grade level, and their weighted needs, the amount is adjusted based on the school's funding percentage. The funding percentage reflects the ratio of the school's actual funding compared to the FSF entitlement. Not all schools are operating with 100 percent of their FSF entitlement. Out of 1,627 schools that are funded with the FSF formula, there are only 238 schools operating at 100 percent of FSF this school year. There are 824 schools operating with the current base level of FSF at 90 percent and no school is operating with less than 90 percent. The average amount of FSF schools are operating with is 93 percent. For the 2018-2019 school year, it would cost $756.2 million to raise all schools to 100 percent of their FSF entitlement.⁷

The Administration's plan to get all schools to 100 percent of their FSF level by Fiscal 2021 is dependent on State aid. The City does not have a plan to fund schools at 100 percent of their FSF entitlement without the $1.2 billion in State funding required by the landmark lawsuit Campaign for Fiscal Equity ("CFE") v. State of New York, which successfully challenged New York State for under-funding schools, resulting in a large increase in court-ordered state education funding.⁸ It is worth noting that this FSF funding plan is not out of necessity, but rather, reflects the funding decisions made by this Administration. Since Fiscal 2015, the Administration has invested $4 billion in new educational programs as part of the Mayor’s Equity and Excellence Initiatives.⁹ However, this funding is directed to schools through SAMs for specific programs. The amount invested in Equity and Excellence Initiatives is much larger than the $756.2 million needed for all schools to operate with 100 percent of FSF. The de Blasio Administration has prioritized other school fund allocations, and chosen to rely on an influx on State aid from the State’s obligation under the CFE to fully fund school budgets through FSF.

According to the Council of School Supervisors and Administrators (“CSA”), principals feel that FSF is “highly flawed” and often fails to meet the basic needs of many schools.¹⁰ Among the flaws in FSF cited by CSA and others is that it penalizes schools with experienced teachers, as it does not provide a budget supplement to schools that have teachers with above average salaries.¹¹ Therefore, if a school has a number of teachers earning significantly more than the average, it could result in a budget deficit. It also serves as an incentive to hire inexperienced, cheaper teachers and a disincentive to hire veteran, higher cost teachers. This has likely contributed to veteran teachers leaving the City school system, or lingering in the Absent Teacher Reserve pool, which consists primarily of more experienced high salary teachers,¹² further exacerbating teacher shortages.

Critics also question some of the formula weights, such as the weight that gives extra money to selective schools that enroll higher-achieving students.¹³ Others contend that existing weights are not high enough to meet the needs of vulnerable students, such as students with disabilities, or that new weights should be added, for instance, to better meet the needs of low-income students.

Finally, the FSF methodology has not brought true funding equity to City schools as it has never been fully funded.

BILL ANALYSIS

Prop. Int. 1014-B - A Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to requiring a single reporting bill on department of education spending allocations, including fair student funding, for schools citywide

This bill would require the DOE to report annually on all the school budget allocations allocated to each school in the prior school year. The report would include the amount of funding determined to be owed to the school pursuant to DOE’s fair student funding formula, and the percentage of that amount actually allocated to the school. The bill would also require the report to be in machine-readable format.

Prop. Int. 1014-B has been amended since it was heard by the Committee as Introduction Number 1014-A. The prior version of the bill required DOE, or the Office of Management and Budget (“OMB”), to report on spending allocations, including fair student funding, for schools citywide three times per year. This requirement was modified to remove OMB, and require DOE to report once annually on the prior school year. As with the original version of the bill, the law would take effect 60 days after it becomes law.

Prop. Int. 1174-A - A Local Law in relation to the creation of a fair student funding task force

This bill would create a task force to review and make recommendations relating to the formula use by the DOE to determine individual school budgets. The task force would include the Chancellor or his designee, the Speaker or his designee, representatives from Community Education Councils from each borough, a representative from a union representing teachers, a representative from a union representing principals, a parent of a currently enrolled student, and advocates who specialize in working with vulnerable student populations. The task force would convene on March 1, 2019, and would be required to submit its report and recommendations by September 30, 2019.

Prop. Int. 1174-A has been amended since it was introduced as Introduction Number 1174. The original version of the bill required DOE personnel such as the Chancellor or his designee, principals and teachers, OMB, the Council, and advocates who specialize in working with vulnerable student populations, to review and make recommendations relating to the formula used by DOE to determine school funding. The task force composition was amended to remove OMB, principals, and teachers, and add a representative from a union that represents principals, a representative from a union that represents teachers, and representatives from Community Education Councils from each borough. Additionally, the original version of the bill required the task force to submit annual reports. This was amended to require the task force to submit one report with recommendations by September 30, 2019. As with the original version of the bill, the law would take effect immediately.

RE: Finance Committee Agenda of December 11, 2018- Resolutions approving a tax exemption for five Land Use items (Council District 6, 7, 9, 10, 15, 17, 49)

Item 1: Turin House

Turin House consists of one building with 189 units of cooperative housing, and commercial and community facility spaces in Manhattan. The 189 units include nine studios, 45 one-bedroom units, 90 two-bedroom units, 36 three-bedroom units and 9 four-bedroom units (inclusive of one superintendent unit).

The Turin Housing Development Fund Company, Inc. (“Owner” or “HDFC”) acquired the Exemption Area in 1969. The Exemption Area received an exemption from real property taxation pursuant to Section 577 of the Private Housing Finance Law that expired in 2009 and has subsequently accrued significant tax arrears. A reversionary deed, provided by the Department of Housing and Preservation Development (“HPD”), soon after took effect and was extended several times. HDFC eventually repurchased the reversionary deed pursuant to its terms. The HDFC will receive a rehabilitation loan from the New York City Housing Development Corporation (“HDC”) to assist with addressing necessary repairs, such as roof, façade, sidewalk repair, and outstanding housing code violations.

Under the proposed project, the Owner and HPD will enter into a regulatory agreement establishing certain controls upon the operation of the Exemption Area. HDFC will receive a rehabilitation loan from HDC to assist with addressing necessary repairs, such as roof, façade, sidewalk repair, and outstanding housing code violations.

HPD is requesting that the Council approve a partial, 30-year Article XI property tax exemption that would be retroactive to 2009. HPD and the HDFC will enter into a regulatory agreement ensuring that the units would be rented only to households earning up to 165% of the Area Median Income (“AMI”).

Item 2: 388 Richmond Terrace

388 Richmond Terrace Street consists of one building with 122 residential units and 72 residential parking spaces, located in the St. George neighborhood of Staten Island. The 122 units include 19 studio apartments, 88 one-bedroom apartments, and 15 two-bedroom apartments, inclusive of one unit for the superintendent.

388 Richmond Terrace was developed in 1986 with financing from the Housing Assistance Corporation, a subsidiary of the New York City Housing Development Corporation (“HDC”). The project entered into a Tenant Assistance Contract (“TAC”) which required agreeing to restrictive covenants. The covenants, which expired in April 2016, originally required 20% of units to be set aside for families earning up to 80% of AMI, and the remaining 80% of units to families earning up to 180% of AMI. Since the TAC expired, the project is no longer encumbered by a regulatory agreement restricting rents, but is subject to rent-stabilization restrictions. Remaining low- or moderate-income tenants have thus far been able to continue paying the same rent that they were paying under the TAC. The present blended AMI for the project is 65% of AMI. The project does not currently receive a real estate tax exemption since its 25-year 421-a tax exemption expired in 2014.

The current owner, 388 Richmond Terrace, LLC, has agreed to keep the property affordable in exchange for receiving a partial Article XI exemption under HPD’s Housing Preservation Opportunities program.

At closing, Harbor View HDFC will acquire the Exemption Area, the LLC will be the beneficial owner and will operate the Exemption Area, and the HDFC and the LLC will enter into a new 40-year regulatory agreement with HPD restricting incomes at four regulatory AMI tiers:

Units	Income Limits (% AMI)
20	70%
78	80%
19	90%
4	110%

This project will include a homeless set-aside requirement, in which 12% of units (or 14 units), upon turnover, will be required to be filled as referrals of eligible homeless tenants to fill vacancies. The anticipated blended AMI target for the project is 71% of AMI.

Item 3: West Farms

West Farms Apartments consists of an 11-building portfolio comprised of 343 residential units and two commercial spaces, clustered in two areas approximately 0.5 miles apart, in the Tremont and West Farms neighborhoods of the Bronx. The 343 residential units include: 12 studio apartments; 92 one-bedroom apartments, inclusive of one unit for a superintendent; 135 two-bedroom apartments; 101 three-bedroom apartments, inclusive of one unit for a superintendent; and 3 four-bedroom apartments.

All eleven buildings were all originally constructed between 1910 and 1925 and acquired in the late 1970s by affiliate entities of a single corporate owner. The portfolio is comprised of market rate units and units with temporary rent stabilization protections that will expires in 2020 pursuant to the terms of the 2010 dissolution of the owner's Article V redevelopment entities. The project does not currently receive a property tax exemption.

The current owner, Camber Property Group LLC, went into contract to acquire the 11-building portfolio in September 2018, and has agreed to keep the property affordable in exchange for receiving a partial Article XI exemption under HPD's Housing Preservation Opportunities program.

At closing, West Farms Preservation HDFC will acquire the Exemption Area and the LLC will become the beneficial owner and will operate the property. The HDFC and the Company will enter into a new 40-year regulatory agreement with HPD restricting incomes at five regulatory AMI tiers:

Units	Income Limits (% AMI)
12	55%
71	70%
125	75%
91	80%
42	85%

This project will include a homeless set-aside requirement, in which a minimum of 10% of units (or will be set aside for formerly homeless households.

Item 4: Langsam 15

The “Langsam 15” project is related to a larger portfolio known as the “Langsam 16” portfolio. The “Langsam 16” portfolio is comprised of 17 buildings containing 745 rent-stabilized residential units, 14 superintendent’s units, and 22 commercial units located in the the Bronx. Each project in the “Langsam 16” portfolio has a different corporate owner comprised of a combination of investors. The “Langsam 15” project consists of two buildings which includes commercial space and 60 residential units, exclusive of one superintendent’s unit. The properties, located at 396 and 400 East 199th Street, were built in 1927 and 1928, respectively. The properties were acquired by 400 Webster Associates LLC on April 15, 1996.

Under the proposed “Langsam 15” project, 400 Webster Associates LLC will convey the fee interest in the Exemption Area to 400 Webster HDFC. The LLC will remain the beneficial owner and will continue to operate the Exemption Area. The HDFC and the LLC will enter into a regulatory agreement with HPD establishing certain controls upon the operation of the Exemption Area. Currently, there are no existing regulatory agreements for the properties, however, the Exemption Area receives an exemption from (but not an abatement of) real property taxation pursuant to Section 489 of the Real Property Tax Law (“J-51 Benefits”).

HPD is requesting that the Council approve a partial, 30-year Article XI property tax exemption for the Exemption Area that will be reduced by an amount equal to any concurrent J-51 Benefits. According to HPD, the level of tax exemption is being sought to preserve affordability below increasing market rents while allowing for modest growth upon turnover. HPD and HDFC will enter into a regulatory agreement ensuring that 38 units would be rented only to households earning up to 55% of the AMI, 17 units would be rented only to households earning up to 65% of the AMI, and 5 units would be rented only to households earning up to 80% of the AMI.

Item 5: Manhattan Third Party Transfer Properties

The Third Party Transfer Program (“TPT”) was created by Local Law 37 of 1996, and allows the City to convey tax-delinquent residential properties to responsible third parties. These properties are then rehabilitated by qualified developers and become rent stabilized units. The current TPT round, Round X, started in 2015. After properties are identified as delinquent, selected for foreclosure action, and a foreclosure judgment is entered, a four-month mandatory redemption period is provided, during which a property can be redeemed by paying any existing debt in full. After this redemption period, the Council is notified of any remaining properties and provided with 45 days to disapprove of any TPT transfers, which is done by local law. After this process concluded for Round X, six properties in Manhattan remained subject to transfer. HPD submitted an application pursuant to Article 16 of the General Municipal Law requesting the approval of new urban development area projects and the exemption from real property taxes pursuant to Section 694 of the General Municipal Law and Section 577 of Article XI of the Private Housing Financing Law, for properties subject to a final judgment of foreclosure in the Third Party Transfer Program, Manhattan, In Rem Action No. 51, located in the Borough of Manhattan, Community Districts 7, 9, and 10.

Report of the Committee on Technology

Report for Int. No. 986-A

Report of the Committee on Technology in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the New York city charter, in relation to the format of data in agency reports.

The Committee on Technology, to which the annexed proposed amended local law was referred on June 14, 2018 (Minutes, page 2296), respectfully

REPORTS:

INTRODUCTION

On Monday, December 10, 2018, the Committee on Technology, chaired by Council Member Peter Koo, will hold a hearing on Proposed Int. No. 986-A. More information on Proposed Int. No. 986-A can be accessed online at Int 0986-2018

BACKGROUND

The New York City Council reviews and analyzes a significant number of reports from other agencies on a daily basis.¹ Only some of the reports are available in a machine-readable format. Often, the reports are submitted in unstructured formats, such as PDFs or scanned documents, pictures or graphics. Such formats are digitally accessible and useful for displaying or printing information, but cannot be further processed by automated systems without hard manual labor.

For this reason, uniformity and standardization in data formats and processing are needed. Submitting reports in machine-readable format would allow the Council to automatically process the data from the reports for further analysis.

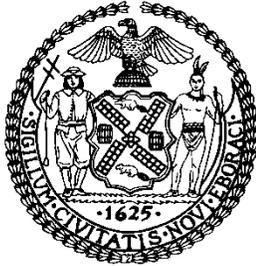

Proposed Int. No. 986-A

Proposed Int. No. 986-A would amend section 1134 of the New York City Charter, in relation to the format of data in agency reports. The proposed bill would require an agency that is obligated to transmit to the City Council copies of final audits, reports, evaluations, or studies that contains data in a list, table, graph, and chart, to submit such data in a non-proprietary format that permits automated processing.

The bill would take effect immediately.

Report for voice-vote item Res. No. 470

Report of the Committee on Health in favor of approving a Resolution calling on the State Legislature to pass and the Governor to sign A.4738-A/S.4840-A, legislation that would establish the New York Health program, a universal single payer health plan for all New York State residents.

The Committee on Health, to which the annexed preconsidered resolution was referred on August 8, 2018, (Minutes, page 3239) respectfully

REPORTS:

Introduction

On December 10, 2018 the Committee on Health, chaired by Council Member Mark Levine, held a vote on Resolution No. 470, calling on the State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, the New York Health Act (NYHA), which would establish a universal single payer health plan for all New York State residents. This resolution was originally heard at a hearing of this Committee on December 6, 2018, at which the Committee received testimony from the sponsor of the state legislation, Assembly Member Richard Gottfried, advocates, and other interested parties. On December 10, 2018, the Committee passed Resolution No. 470 by a vote of five in the affirmative, zero in the negative, and zero abstentions.

II. Background

The NYHA would create a state-sponsored single-payer health plan called New York Health (NYH).¹ All residents of New York State, regardless of age, wealth, income, employment or other status, including undocumented immigrants, would be eligible for the program.² Patients would have no deductibles, co-pays, or other out-of-pocket costs for services covered by the plan, and benefits would include comprehensive inpatient and outpatient care, primary and preventative care, prescription drugs, and other benefits.³ Medical benefits currently included in Medicare, Medicaid, Child Health Plus, and essential health benefits under the Affordable Care Act (ACA) would be covered by the plan, with the exception of long-term care benefits, which would potentially be added later.⁴

NYH would be financed through different channels.⁵ The legislation states that the State would seek to obtain waivers from the federal government allowing federal funds the State currently receives for Medicare, Medicaid, Family Health and Child Health Plus to be folded into the program.⁶ In addition to this funding, the State would need to fold its current health care funding into the model, and the remainder of the funding would come from progressive graduated State taxes.⁷ These taxes include a payroll tax paid by employers (80 percent) and employees (20 percent), and a tax on non-payroll income such as capital gains.⁸ The specifics of such taxes would be detailed in a revenue plan created by the Governor and submitted to the State Legislature.⁹

RAND Study Analysis

In an effort to understand the impact of the NYHA, the Rand Corporation was commissioned by the New York State Health Foundation to research how the plan would “affect health care use and spending in the state.”¹⁰ According to the study, New Yorkers would use more health care under the single-payer plan than under the status quo.¹¹ Despite more New Yorkers utilizing health care services and having access to coverage, overall health spending could remain about the same if the creation of NYH results in administrative efficiencies and slower provider payment growth.¹² The NYHA would open up doors for those who are currently uninsured and/or those who cannot afford health care, resulting in households with incomes below 200 percent of the federal poverty level (FPL) having larger increases in health care use than higher-income households.¹³

Although the tax structure is not outlined in the NYHA, the RAND study examines several different tax rates and shares the results under each of these models.¹⁴ For example, one set of possible progressive tax rates that could fully finance the program ranges from about 6 to 18 percent for the NYH payroll tax and 6 to 19 percent for the NYH non-payroll tax in 2022.¹⁵ Households would be affected differently, as costs would range based on household income, employer contributions to health care, and overall household compensation.¹⁶ While most New Yorkers would pay less for health care, the highest earning households may pay more. Under one hypothetical tax rate, the majority of New Yorkers (those making below $185,200 a year in 2022) would pay an average of $3,000 less per person for health care.¹⁷ Meanwhile, the top 5 percent of earners (those making on average $1,255,700 in 2022) would pay an average of $50,200 more per person.¹⁸

The RAND study noted some concerns with the NYHA and its potential consequences. Employers would see changes in cost; those currently offering coverage would likely save money, while those who do not offer coverage would likely lose money.¹⁹ The study also raised concerns that some employers, and high-income earners, may flee the state.²⁰ If high-income earners and employers left the state, the State would experience a loss in tax revenue, and subsequently would need to find ways to supplement the NYH program.

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption.

Res. No. 470

Resolution calling on the State Legislature to pass and the Governor to sign A.4738-A/S.4840-A, legislation that would establish the New York Health program, a universal single payer health plan for all New York State residents.

By The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) and Council Members Rodriguez, Espinal, Torres, Grodenchik, Levine, Perkins, Barron, Levin, Eugene, Chin, Williams, Cohen, Kallos, Brannan, Rivera, Powers, Ayala, Cumbo, Lander, Ampy-Samuel, Rosenthal, Menchaca, Reynoso, Constantinides, Richards, Rose, Maisel, Moya, Adams, Dromm, Treyger and Gibson.

Whereas, New Yorkers have experienced a rapid rise in the cost of health care and coverage in recent years; and

Whereas, This increase has resulted in a large number of people without health coverage or with reduced coverage; and

Whereas, Despite the more than 4.3 million people acquiring coverage through the New York Health Plan Marketplace as of February 2018, an unacceptable number of New Yorkers have no health coverage, and many more are severely underinsured; and

Whereas, According to data released by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in 2018, New York's uninsured rate was 4.9 percent in 2017; and

Whereas, Voluntary and public hospitals, health centers and other providers who care for patients regardless of their ability to pay now experience substantial monetary difficulties due to treating the uninsured or underinsured; and

Whereas, Patients and health care professionals are sometimes pushed into medical care decisions based on what the insurance company will cover rather than what patient and provider agree is the best course of treatment; and

Whereas, A.4738-A/S.4840-A, sponsored by Assemblyman Richard Gottfried and Senator Gustavo Rivera, would create a universal single payer health plan called New York Health to provide comprehensive health coverage for all New Yorkers; and

Whereas, Every New York resident would be eligible to enroll, regardless of age, income, wealth, employment, or other status; and

Whereas, Under New York Health, coverage would be publicly funded and there would be no premiums, deductibles, or co-payments; and

Whereas, The benefits of the New York Health program would include comprehensive outpatient and inpatient medical care, primary and preventive care, prescription drugs, laboratory tests, rehabilitative, dental, vision, and hearing; and

Whereas, A.4738-A/S.4840-A would authorize health care providers to form organizations to collectively negotiate with New York Health and providers would be paid in full by New York Health; and

Whereas, The plan would develop and phase in alternative payment methods to replace fee-for-service systems, which incentivize volume but not necessarily quality; and

Whereas, New York Health would be paid for through a progressively-graduated payroll tax (supplemented heavily by employers) and a progressively-graduated tax on other taxable income; and

Whereas, Federal waivers would be sought that would allow funding for Medicare, Medicaid, Family Health and Child Health Plus to be folded into a New York Health Trust Fund, along with State funds; and

Whereas, The single-payer New York Health plan would drastically increase access to health care and improve health outcomes for residents in New York; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls on the State Legislature to pass and the Governor to sign A.4738-A/S.4840-A, legislation that would establish the New York Health program, a universal single payer health plan for all New York State residents.

Report of the Committee on Education in favor of approving a Resolution calling upon the New York City Department of Education to factor in poverty as a weight in the Fair Student Funding formula for schools beginning at fourth grade or later.

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption, as amended.

Res. No. 569-A

Resolution calling upon the New York City Department of Education to factor in poverty as a weight in the Fair Student Funding formula for schools beginning at fourth grade or later.

By Council Members Treyger, Ampry-Samuel, Rose, Gibson, Barron, King, Lander, Rodriguez, Grodenchik, Brannan and Chin.

Whereas, The New York City Department of Education (DOE) funds the majority of schools using Fair Student Funding (FSF), which is funding used by schools to cover basic needs and which can be used at the principal's discretion; and

Whereas, The FSF formula is calculated on the basis of student needs, comprised of three factors: grade weight, portfolio weight, and need weight; and

Whereas, Grade weight is determined by each student's grade level, providing the largest allocation for middle school students, who are deemed to have the greatest social-emotional needs, and the largest risk of drop-off in student achievement; and

Whereas, Portfolio weight is determined based on students who face significant graduation challenges; and
Whereas, Need weight is determined based on a student's English language proficiency, special education needs, and academic intervention needs; and

Whereas, Academic intervention needs are defined by poverty weight for schools beginning before fourth grade, and achievement weight for schools beginning at fourth grade or later; and

Whereas, For students in schools beginning before fourth grade, poverty weight is used as a proxy for academic achievement, in the absence of test score data, and students qualify for poverty weight based on free lunch eligibility, as determined by family income; and

Whereas, For students in schools beginning in fourth grade or later, students receive achievement weights based on test score data, deemed "well below standards," or "below standards"; and

Whereas, If DOE broadened its determination of "poverty weight" to include students living in temporary housing as an additional indication of poverty, many more New York City students and schools would benefit from additional FSF allocations; and

Whereas, If DOE took into account poverty weight for schools beginning at fourth grade or later, many more New York City students and schools would benefit from additional FSF allocations; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the New York City Department of Education to factor in poverty as a weight in the Fair Student Funding formula for schools beginning at fourth grade or later.

Report for voice-vote item Res. No. 620

Report of the Committee on Technology in favor of a Resolution calling on the Federal Communications Commission to reject the proposed rules put forth in the Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking 18-131 and to create provisions that would strengthen public, educational, and governmental access television.

The Committee on Technology, to which the annexed preconsidered resolution was referred on November 14, 2018 (Minutes, page 4392), respectfully

REPORTS:

INTRODUCTION

On December 5, 2018, the Committee on Technology, chaired by Council Member Peter Koo, will hold a hearing to vote on Res. No. 620. More information on Res. No. 620 can be accessed online at <https://on.nyc.gov/2QbxZsm>.

BACKGROUND

Res. No. 620

Res. No. 620 calls on the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to reject the proposed rules put forth in the Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking 18-131 and to create provisions that would strengthen public, educational, and governmental access television. On September 25, 2018, the FCC, which implements and enforces United States communication law and regulations, released the Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (FNPRM) 18-131. FNPRM 18-131 introduces new proposed rules on how local franchising authorities (LFAs) may regulate cable operators and cable television services.

FNPRM 18-131 proposes that cable-related, “in-kind” contributions, which include services rendered free of cost or certain costs related to public, educational and governmental (PEG) access television, be treated as “franchise fees” subject to the statutory five percent cap on franchise fees set forth by Section 622 of the Communications Act of 1934. Such five percent cap would have a large negative impact on PEG access television. PEG access television provides integral and valuable services to the City, such as educational and informative television programs, training and employment in video production, video editing and additional programming.

LFAs would be required to choose between reduced annual franchise fee revenues and/or fewer PEG access channels and “in kind” service benefits as a result of FNPRM 18-131. This could burden existing companies financially and dissuade competition within the market and also prohibit LFAs from using their video franchising authority to regulate the provision of most “non-cable services,” such as broadband Internet access services offered over a cable system by an incumbent cable operator.

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption.

(The following is the text of Res. No. 620:)

Res. No. 620

Resolution calling on the Federal Communications Commission to reject the proposed rules put forth in the Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking 18-131 and to create provisions that would strengthen public, educational, and governmental access television.

By Council Members Moya, Koo, Kallos and Ulrich (at the request of the Manhattan Borough President).

Whereas, On September 25th, 2018, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), the body responsible for implementing and enforcing United States communications law and regulations, released the Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (FNPRM) 18-131, which introduces new proposed rules on how local franchising authorities (LFAs) may regulate cable operators and cable television services; and

Whereas, The FCC’s Second FNPRM 18-131 proposes that cable-related, “in-kind” contributions, which include services rendered free of cost or certain costs related to PEG access television, be treated as “franchise fees” subject to the statutory five percent cap on franchise fees set forth by Section 622 of the Communications Act of 1934; and

Whereas, This proposed rule would have a large negative impact on PEG access television, which provides integral and valuable services to New York City in the form of educational and informative television programming, and training and employment in video production, video editing, and broadcasting, among other things; and

Whereas, For example, Manhattan Neighborhood Network, a PEG access television organization, is the largest media educator in New York City, serving more than 1,200 media students every year, and airing more than 15,000 hours of original content from some 1,000 producers; and

Whereas, Ultimately, these proposed rules would require LFAs to choose between reduced annual franchise fee revenues and/or fewer PEG access channels and “in kind” service benefits, which would hurt the quality of services provided to the public, burden existing companies financially, and dissuade competition within the market; and

Whereas, The FCC’s Second FNPRM 18-131 would also prohibit LFAs from using their video franchising authority to regulate the provision of most “non-cable services,” such as broadband Internet access services, offered over a cable system by an incumbent cable operator; and

Whereas, This would prevent LFAs from adding a percentage of gross revenue for “non-cable services” provided to any franchising fees, which, considering the trend towards “cord-cutting,” with 33 million adults “cord-cutting” in 2018 according to eMarketer, could negatively impact the fiscal security of numerous television companies and PEG access television organizations; and

Whereas, The FCC’s Second FNPRM 18-131 is a gross federal overreach, as it would severely limit local governments from exerting any authority over most “non-cable services,” as well as reduce and/or dissuade competition between existing and emerging cable companies, reduce quality in PEG access television, and harm constituents’ privacy and consumer protections; and

Whereas, The FCC should reject these proposed rules and instead create provisions that would strengthen PEG access television; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls on the Federal Communications Commission to reject the proposed rules put forth in the Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking 18-131 and to create provisions that would strengthen public, educational, and governmental access television.

PETER A. KOO, Chairperson; BRADFORD S. LANDER, ROBERT F. HOLDEN, KALMAN YEGER, ERIC A. ULRICH; Committee on Technology, December 5, 2018. Other Council Members Attending: Council Member Moya.

Resolution calling on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign legislation, that would create a program to recover lost tax revenue from New York residents who register their vehicles out of state.

By Council Members Holden and Brannan.

Whereas, In New York, a person must register their vehicle with the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) within 30 days of residing in the State; and

Whereas, In order to register a vehicle in New York, a person must have New York car insurance, otherwise they cannot register a vehicle; and

Whereas, First time registrants must pay a license plate fee, title certification fee, and sales taxes; and

Whereas, According to a 2017 article in Crain's, some vehicle owners who are New York residents will register their vehicle out-of-state to avoid paying New York insurance, which is higher than other states; and

Whereas, According the same Crain's article, a 2011 state Senate report found that nearly 25 percent of all vehicles involved in collisions in Brooklyn had Pennsylvania license plates, indicating that these vehicles were owned by New York residents; and

Whereas, According to the same report, if 25 percent of residents purchase vehicles out of state then it is estimated that the state has lost $93 million in tax revenue; and

Whereas, In New York City, for example, a vehicle that costs $35,000 could have approximately $3,000 in sales taxes; and

Whereas, In addition, these drivers are potentially depriving New York of $1 million annually in fees for license plates, titles and vehicle registrations; and

Whereas, New York should create a way to identify individuals with New York mailing addresses, who have registered their vehicle out-of-state; and

Whereas, The State should be able recover lost sales taxes from these individuals and ensure that they register in New York; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Council of the City of New York calls up on the New York State legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation that that would create a program to recover lost tax revenue from New York residents who register their vehicles out of state

By Council Members Holden, Vallone, Koo, Chin, Dromm, Brannan and Levin.

Whereas, The Chinese Exclusion Act of 1882 and subsequent anti-Chinese laws severely restricted Chinese people from immigrating to the United States and prevented them from becoming American citizens; and

Whereas, The Magnuson Act sought to repeal the discriminatory exclusion laws against Chinese immigrants which, in a letter to Congress, President Roosevelt wrote the passing of the bill was vital to correcting the "historic mistake" of Chinese exclusion; and

Whereas, according to the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) Chinese Americans still face aspects of Chinese exclusion as pertain to education admissions policies among some American institutions of higher learning such as Harvard University; and

Whereas, In 2011 and 2012, the US Senate and US House of Representatives unanimously passed resolutions to condemn and express regret for the Chinese Exclusion Act and other legislation that discriminated against Chinese Americans; and

Whereas, Chinese Americans have contributed substantially to the strength of our City and nation in government, culture, business, education, science, and all fields, and have defended the nation in all wars and from all threats; and

Whereas, December 17, 2018 is the 75th anniversary of the Chinese Exclusion Repeal Act; and
