

NEW YORK CITY DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
HEARING BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL
COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION
June 28, 2013

Good afternoon Chairman Vacca and members of the Transportation Committee. My name is Kate Slevin and I am the Assistant Commissioner of Intergovernmental Affairs for the New York City Department of Transportation (DOT). I am joined by James DeSimone, Chief Operating Officer of the Staten Island Ferry. We thank you for the opportunity to testify on Intro 1049 regarding Staten Island Ferry service. While this bill is a well-intentioned attempt to provide additional transit options to Staten Islanders, DOT does not support it.

The Staten Island Ferry carries over 22 million passengers annually on a 5.2-mile run between the St. George Terminal in Staten Island and the Whitehall Terminal in Lower Manhattan. The Ferry currently runs 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, with 109 trips on a typical weekday. It is a very reliable form of mass transit, with a peak on-time performance of over 90 percent. We have been able to maintain this superb level of service despite budget cuts to the agency's operations.

Currently, ferries run at least every half-hour during most times of the week, with daily rush hour service running every 15 minutes. During the overnight the ferry runs hourly, which appears to meet the demand for service at that time. Of the 70,000 people who ride the Ferry on a given day, total overnight ridership accounts for about 3% of the daily average. On some nights, the number of late-night passengers utilizing the ferry can range from the single digits to just a few dozen. Given the demand for service during these times, we do not support Intro 1049 to increase ferry service to every half-hour, 24/7.

As we have stated at previous hearings, the extra nighttime service proposed in this bill is not warranted given not only the low demand for the service, but also the corresponding costs involved. Our current overnight schedule costs the City approximately $3 million annually with a corresponding cost per passenger of $4.59 per trip. This bill to require half-hour service at all times would cost the City an additional $23 million annually for operating costs, including $2.6 million in annual fuel costs alone. This figure does not include the costs associated with additional wear and tear of the boats. This cost comes at a time of decreasing federal and state funding for transportation, exacerbating an already difficult situation. That being said, if demand for ferry service begins to exceed the current service schedule, whether overnight or during any other time of day, DOT would explore ways to make additional service financially and operationally possible.

Lastly, with regard to providing increased overnight service, the MTA's bus, subway and Staten Island Railway schedules are all built around meeting Staten Island Ferry departures and arrivals. If these entities do not choose to incur the additional costs of increasing transit service to match the proposed ferry schedule, there would be no transit links to serve the passengers on the additional boats.

While we'd be happy to work with the Council to develop ferry service levels to meet future demand, we do not support mandating a specific ferry schedule by law. Thank you again for this opportunity to testify. We would be happy to answer any questions you may have at this time.

Testimony of Joseph J. Lhota in support of Int 1049 - 2013
JUNE 28, 2013

FOR THE RECORD

My name is Joe Lhota and I am currently a candidate for Mayor of New York City. Previously, I served as Chairman and CEO of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority. I also served in the administration of Mayor Rudolph W. Giuliani as the Budget Director and Deputy Mayor for Operations.

I thank you for the opportunity to speak in support of Int 1049-2013, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the City of New York, in relation to the Staten Island Ferry service.

I want to thank City Councilmembers James Oddo and Vincent Ignizio for their leadership and for calling attention to this important transportation issue.

No New Yorker should have to wait more than a half-hour for the Staten Island Ferry.

For centuries, the New York Harbor has served as a vital transportation artery for the city and the nation. Though the days of ships ferrying immigrants to Ellis Island have passed, our waters nonetheless remain an essential conduit for people traveling between the boroughs, be it for work or leisure. The ability to commute regularly over the New York waterways is crucial for a robust economy, and necessary for a vibrant quality of life.

The Staten Island Ferry is among the most important forms of public transportation for the borough of Staten Island. Staten Islanders depend on the ferry to go to work, or enjoy a night out. Unfortunately, Staten Islanders must wait an hour for late night ferry service. This ferry schedule is inequitable.

Furthermore, it is unconscionable that we treat Staten Island differently than other boroughs for transportation purposes. While some in New York enjoy nine-to-five jobs, many do not and cannot take advantage of the ferry's more frequent rush hour service. It simply is not fair that Staten Islanders must wait up to an hour for ferry service in the evening, while everyone else in the city enjoys frequent subway service.

It is time to correct this inequity. As Budget Director, I worked with Mayor Giuliani on the plan to eliminate the fare on the Staten Island Ferry in 1997. In this spirit, we must continue to fight for Staten Island transportation equity. This is why I strongly urge the City Council to support legislation increasing night and weekend service on the Staten Island Ferry.

Testimony of
Staten Island Chamber of Commerce President & CEO – Linda M. Baran
NYC City Council
Int. No. 1049 - In relation to Staten Island ferry service
June 28, 2013 1:00p.m.

Good afternoon, my name is Linda Baran, President and CEO of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce. On behalf of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce and our 800 small business members who employ over 20,000 people, I would like to thank you for the opportunity to address the NYC City Council in support of increasing service on the Staten Island Ferry.

As we all know, the Staten Island Ferry is often seen as an iconic symbol of Staten Island. This 108 year old service carries over 65,000 passengers a day, including over 2 million tourists each year. However, service on the Ferry ranges from every 15 minutes during rush hour to every hour overnight.

Ensuring increased ferry service and a reliable public transportation system are the keys to a robust economy on Staten Island. Alternative options for Staten Islanders are extremely limited, and with ever increasing transportation costs, the norm more expensive too. Though the ferry is a free method of public transportation that runs 24 hours a day, commuters often find themselves left high and dry during off-peak hours or inclement weather. The only existing alternative for Staten Islanders is the express bus, but service is intermittent during overnight and weekend hours. Only three express buses, the X1, X10 and the X17, run 7 days a week, but only the X1 provides overnight service. The X1's route is incredibly limited as well, running from Eltingville on Staten Island to Midtown Manhattan, and commuters face even longer wait times for decreased hourly bus service overnight.

However, as evidenced by the fact that Staten Islanders are burdened with the longest commute times in the nation, even the bus alternative is a painful option for commuters with atypical hours. Many commuters who are struggling with time constraints are faced with the choice of shelling out over $50 to take a cab from Manhattan to Staten Island, or waiting an hour in the ferry terminal. Long commute times preclude Staten Island businesses from attracting quality employees from the other boroughs and forces residents to rely particularly heavily on driving, leading to congestion on local roads.

Imagine just missing the ferry on your way home from work at 2am. You sit in the ferry terminal until the next boat arrives, which is an hour away, then you catch the train to Great Kills or a bus to Mariner's Harbor; a commute that should only take less than 60 minutes ends up totaling over 2 hours. In the other boroughs, the wait time for most subway lines during overnight and weekend hours is no longer than 20 minutes; even the wait for a PATH train to NJ is no more than 35 minutes. It is only fair for Staten Island to receive the same level of service as the rest of the boroughs. The ferry is our lifeline to Manhattan and the rest of NYC and without it, commuters, residents, and visitors are stranded. There is no other borough that has to wait an hour for public transportation within NYC.

Over the past few years, St. George area has begun to see a renaissance. Staten Island has sought out new and innovative projects like the NY Wheel, Empire Outlets, Ironstate Development, and a new courthouse, in order to kick-start economic activity and to take advantage of prime real estate along the St. George waterfront. A mixture of public and private investment has started bringing more people to the area and there is much more on the horizon. Although St. George is a transportation hub for Staten Island, increased Ferry service is essential to keep up with these new development projects. Not only will Staten Islanders suffer without increased ferry service, the success of these developments depends on increased transportation options.

It is time the City recognizes the onerous burden public transportation puts on Staten Island residents, commuters, and visitors and approves this measure to expand Staten Island Ferry service.

Testimony of Frank Morano before the New York City Council Transportation Committee

June 28th, 2013

Mr. Chairman, thank you for the opportunity to offer my perspective on this proposal, which I believe, at least for Staten Islanders, is one of the most important pieces of legislation that you're likely to consider this year. First, I'd like to begin by thanking so many of you and the overwhelming majority of the members of the City Council. At a time when many New Yorkers and a great many Staten Islanders feel that government is completely out of touch at every level, the fact that there are already 43 members of this body that have signed on to co-sponsor this legislation is inspiring proof that not only do you understand the problems outer borough New Yorkers face, but you're prepared to act in a positive manner in order to remedy them. I'd especially like to thank the three members of Staten Island's Council delegation: Council Members Rose, Oddo and Ignizio. Aside from the fact that they're all friends of mine, I can tell you without reservation that if you look at the combined accomplishments of Staten Island's delegation, they are the most effective, the hardest working and most attentive Council delegation, Staten Island has ever seen.

I'd also like to acknowledge the efforts of a previous City Council, which some of you were a part of, that passed a bill for increased ferry service back in 2005 and then overrode the Mayor's veto, so I'd be remiss if I didn't acknowledge the efforts of then Council Speaker Gifford Miller, along with Andrew Lanza and Mike McMahon, who represented Staten Island in the Council at that time.

The need to increase Ferry service to every thirty minutes, around the clock is not some sort of a luxury, for residents of a borough that's already spoiled by getting too much in city services. It is absolutely essential and long overdue for the residents of a community that consistently get the short end of the stick when it comes to everything from policing to business tax credits. Maybe, I'm a bit selfish, because I stand to benefit from this legislation, but let me offer you my perspective as someone who has always worked unusual hours. For about two years, I worked a night shift, which ended at 1AM. The last hour and a half of my shift was focused on one thing....making the 1:30 AM boat. I would sprint out of our office like Fred Flintstone after the closing bell, have my things all packed up and then make a tactical decision of whether to go for the 1 train or the N,R. If I was more than a few minutes behind schedule, I'd quickly do a cost benefit analysis to see if it was worth getting a taxi to take me there and if a taxi would make it in time. Unfortunately, about half the time I'd arrive at 1:33, 1:34, 1:35 or 1:36 and narrowly miss that 1:30 boat. This meant that I'd have to just wait around for an hour. Time completely wasted, exhausted from working all day, alone and frustrated listening to the three minute video about Staten Island, which plays in the terminal, in a continuous loop....for an hour! To make matters worse, at least once a week, a booming voice would announce to those of us in the terminal that we had to leave and wait outside because the waiting area was going to be cleaned. This included in December or January, when it was freezing cold. I can't begin to describe to you the frustrated looks I would see on people's faces as they sprinted into the ferry terminal only to see that they'd just miss the doors closing by a minute- they knew exactly what they were in store for and that there was no getting around it. I now work early mornings, where the stories I could tell you of waiting for the ferry bound for Manhattan at 3am, would curl your hair.

I know that several members of this body over the last few years and many politicians from around the country have tried to engage in something called the Food Stamp Challenge, where they try to live on $3 per day. I would love for elected officials, the DOT Commissioner and politicians from around the country to start taking something called the Ferry Challenge, where they try to get to the South Shore of Staten Island at 2AM using mass transit. I have a feeling if folks started doing this, I have a feeling ferry service would improve in a hurry.

So, in my view this half hour ferry service was badly needed back in 2005 and it's even more needed now. Just to give you an idea of how much more, we need ferry service now as opposed to then, let's look at the numbers. Ferry ridership in 2004, when the last version of this bill was first introduced was just under 20 Million. Last year it was 22.2 Million! Conservatively, ferry ridership has continued to grow by about 2.5% each year. How can the solution to increased ferry ridership not be to have an enhanced service schedule?

Now, these numbers don't even include the new attractions coming to Staten Island's North Shore, within the next few years. In the area just a stone's throw from the ferry, Staten Island is slated to become the new home of the world's largest observation wheel, the only retail outlet mall in city, a new beer brewery, a new lighthouse museum, hundreds of units of luxury housing, hundreds of units of affordable housing and even more retail shopping. As Councilmember Rose correctly pointed out recently, Staten Island's North Shore is on the precipice of a Renaissance, the likes of which this city hasn't seen in generations. Why should that growth opportunity be hindered because people have to wait an hour to get there?

On top of the professional and tourist related reasons to add increased ferry service, there are a number of leisure and even public safety reasons to do so. There are many young Staten Islanders, who realize that they'll be getting home late from a night out on the town, on a Friday or Saturday evening and are cognizant of the fact that they'll have to wait an hour for the ferry. This often leads to people driving when they shouldn't and I have no doubt this has led to an uptick in drunken driving accidents and drunken driving arrests. Giving folks an affordable, convenient alternative to driving into Manhattan will mitigate this. People in their early and mid-20s have already told me that if they knew they had a ferry option at night, this is what they'd take. On this front, I'm reminded of one Staten Island elected official I know, who once told me that as a young man, he'd fallen asleep at the ferry terminal one night after having one too many, only to wake up a couple of hours later to find that not only had his wallet been stolen, but his shoes had been stolen! His shoes! When you have drunken 23 year olds falling asleep at the ferry terminal at 3am, that is a public safety hazard, even if there is a member of law enforcement holding a dog there.

I understand that there will be significant costs involved in increasing ferry service and realizing the city's precarious fiscal situation, I'm not looking for new ways to spend taxpayer money but I truly believe that there will be an overall economic benefit to improving ferry service. I don't have any correlating data to back this up, but a great deal of anecdotal support that logic would seem to corroborate. Conservatively, I'd say in a given year I spend at least 20 hours waiting for the ferry at off-peak times. How many other New Yorkers are in this position?

Thousands? Tens of thousands? What is twenty thousand hours or more of lost productivity worth? That's real money that's being lost. These hours count for something. If you gave us this time back, these hours wouldn't be disappear into a vacuum, they'd count for something- if not work, then maybe even something more valuable, like time with family or loved ones.

In addition to the time lost, the lack of adequate mass transit options at night equals a substantial amount of MONEY lost. For instance, just a few months ago, Staten Island was fortunate enough to get round-the-clock express bus service, something which we went decades without having. So for folks like me who have to be into work at 4:30 in the morning, we'd take the express bus at the newly improved fare of $6 each day. That's $12 a day, $60 a week and about $3,000 a year as opposed to the ferry which is free! Think of that! $3,000 a year that you could be saving Staten Island commuters. That's real money, the equivalent of giving all of us a $3,000 pay raise. This is money that would go right back to being spent in NYC. Maybe it would add up to a few more nice dinners per year, maybe it would be some clothes for school children or some other services, but any way you look at it, that's $3,000 per commuter, which will act as a neighborhood economic stimulus! This number doesn't even include the people who get frustrated waiting for the ferry and opt to take a taxi cab instead. That number by the way might surprise you. All of that money would be saved.

So for economic reasons, for tourism reasons, for professional reasons, I do hope you'll pass this bill quickly. I'd like to share with you a conversation I had recently with my nineteen year old brother Nicholas, who is incredibly bright and like all nineteen year olds believes he knows everything about everything. He is a frequent critic of Staten Island's mass transit infrastructure and a frequent ferry rider, so I asked him to join me here today to share his perspective on ferry service, but he told me that he wouldn't come to support the bill because he doesn't want increased ferry service to be thought of as an adequate substitute for significant mass transit improvements, perhaps including a subway from Staten Island to Brooklyn or Manhattan. So, while I do disagree with him vehemently about making the perfect the enemy of the good, I do think he has a point about the myriad of ways in which Staten Island is underserved by mass transit. With that in mind, I would urge you that even if this bill passes and becomes law, please don't think you've solved the public transportation crisis in Staten Island. We have a long way to go and while this bill will help, it won't be a panacea by any means.

If the Mayor vetoes this or this ends up with a battle in the courts, I would urge you not to back down. I know Staten Island's delegation will stand strong, but I really am speaking to the rest of you. I realize that for those of you that don't live or work in Staten Island, this might be a lot to ask, but we're asking and I can assure you that Staten Islanders will remember your votes on this one way or another. If you're there for our community, Staten Island and her representatives will be there for you when your community needs something.

Thank you.

Metropolitan Waterfront Alliance

Testimony of Roland Lewis, President and CEO

Before the Committee on Transportation

June 28, 2013

Good afternoon, and thank you for the opportunity to submit this testimony. I am Roland Lewis, President and CEO of the Metropolitan Waterfront Alliance (MWA). The MWA is a coalition of over 730 businesses, community and recreational groups, educational institutions, and other stakeholders committed to transforming the New York and New Jersey Harbor and its waterways to make them cleaner and more accessible, a vibrant place to play, learn, and work with great parks, great jobs, and great transportation for all.

Staten Island is a transit-starved borough, where residents often feel disconnected from other parts of the city. The Staten Island Ferry provides a crucial link to Manhattan's CBD, which is why, despite the borough's population of less than 500,000, the Ferry has the largest ridership of any ferry system in North America, moving 21 million commuters between Lower Manhattan and St. George every year. After Sandy, the Staten Island Ferry, together with temporary services implemented by EDC and DOT, was a lifeline for areas hard-hit by the storm and New York's disabled transit network. Sandy served to underscore the importance of ferries to the City's contingency plans and the growing need for water mass transit citywide. With ferry advocacy taking shape in waterfront communities in the five boroughs, now is the time to improve and expand existing ferry service, including the Staten Island Ferry.

Staten Island is growing rapidly, with new projects ranging from parks, to commercial and residential development slated for completion in the next few years. Earlier this month, Staten Island Community Board 1 approved the Mayor's plan to build the world's largest Ferris Wheel and a major retail complex on the North Shore. These developments will bring new populations to the North, East, and South Shores, who will rely on the Staten Island Ferry to provide dependable service to Manhattan. However, at present, the Ferry operates too infrequently during off-peak hours to effectively accommodate commuters or tourists. During the week the Ferry maintains an inconsistent schedule, with hour-long peak headways between 1 am and 5 am. On weekends, the Ferry runs once per hour from 7 pm to 9 am. Without more frequent service, the Staten Island Ferry will not be able to accommodate future demand for water mass transit and inter-borough connections on Staten Island.

We understand that additional ferry service can be a costly amenity, but it is possible to offset these costs. For example, late at night, when ridership is lower, DOT could run smaller boats that use less fuel, thereby reducing some of the costs associated with more frequent ferry runs. Moreover, by offering more flexible travel options, a more consistent and reliable schedule will also encourage tourists to leave the ferry terminal and explore the Island itself, spending money at new attractions like the New York Wheel, well-established institutions like Snug Harbor, and in diverse neighborhoods across the Island. Easier access to and from Staten Island will be a boon to the borough, and we therefore urge City Council to amend NYC Administrative Code regulations governing the Staten Island Ferry to provide more frequent, reliable, and efficient operations for passengers to and from the Island.

City Council
Transportation Committee Hearing
250 Broadway June 28th 2013
Staten Island Ferry Service Every 30 minutes
24 Hours a Day 7 Days a week

Transportation is the lifeblood of our city. **soon to double.*
Staten Island with 2 I/2 million tourists a year who ride the Staten Island Ferry, one of the greatest tourist attractions in the world, and the 500,000 people who live in this borough, and 40,000 commuters cannot be cut off from public transportation, which we encourage all people to take.

The St. George Theatre, Art shows, restaurants and bars, SI Museum events, Snug Harbor Cultural Centre many events, and many others have regular events that end at 11 pm.

People cannot have the hardship of missing a boat and waiting one hour for another one ,

This is destructive to our economy in the midst of a fiscal crisis, the well being and quality of life of people, visitors and the people who pay taxes here. It is wrong and it is not good for our city.

All that is being asked is a ferry service every half hour. If this were true of any subway it would be unthinkable.

People who live, have quests, and work etc.
still have a 30 minute trip once they board the ferry; it may be added in all kinds of weather.
And another trip after they arrive on either landing.

For many years I have been a commuter and must attend many necessary meetings and events, and I can attest that this is extremely difficult and a hardship.

Soon we will have a North Shore Waterfront Greenway Trail that will allow people to walk, bike or ride along a historic waterfront that tells the story of our country that is also a Native American footpath. This is a place of great historic sites and houses, historic waterfront communities; The restoration of this historic important waterfront is one of NYC greatest assets. This and public transportation of millions of people cannot be destroyed. A great future, always sustainable because it's what people want and need, and the well being of our people and our city must not be harmed or compromised.

Staten Island Ferry Riders Committee

Recipient: Mayor Michael Bloomberg and Commissioner Janette Sadik-Khan

Letter: Greetings,

We support increasing Staten Island Ferry service to half hourly around the clock, 7 days a week, while maintaining weekday rush hour frequency.

Currently, the Staten Island Ferry runs hourly from 1 AM to 5 AM on weekdays, hourly on Saturdays from 7 PM to 9 AM Sunday, and hourly on Sunday from 7 PM until 5 AM Monday. The lack of more frequent and consistent service is a detriment to Staten Island's tourism, a disservice to Staten Islanders who commute or travel to Manhattan, and a deterrent to those who would consider moving to Staten Island.

Restoration of late night half hourly ferry service has seen broad public support for over a decade. Increasing frequency of service would better serve Staten Island residents, commuters, and tourists, especially in anticipation of the new developments planned for the North Shore such as the New York Wheel, Harbor Commons, and Stapleton Homeport.

Testimony of Nicholas Zvegintzov, Chair, Staten Island Ferry Riders Committee, before NYC Council Transportation Committee, Friday, May 28, 2013

I am Nicholas Zvegintzov, Chair of the Staten Island Ferry Riders Committee, <http://www.statenislandferryriders.com/>.

Staten Island to Manhattan is 5 miles or 22 minutes by water, and 13-1/2 miles and 40 minutes by land. 30 years ago during a fiscal crisis the Ferry schedule was cut back to once per hour on week-nights, and on evenings and nights on Saturday and Sunday. Making the ferry a miserable transit service for linking the island to the rest of the city.

A 1-boat once-per-hour ferry soon turns into a 0-boat many-hours-to-wait ferry if there is any problem on the boat or on the harbor. Last Saturday, for example, more than a thousand travelers waited up to two hours for delayed and canceled ferries.

I am filing now with the Committee 1466 signatures, 95% from Staten Island, on a petition (<http://bit.ly/SIFerry30>) addressed to the Mayor and the DOT Commissioner "We support increasing Staten Island Ferry service to half hourly around the clock, 7 days a week, while maintaining weekday rush hour frequency."

Many petitioners wrote comments (which I am also filing), and I will quote just four of them.

Antoinette Dickenson of Staten Island writes: The off hours ferry schedule is so poor that I wind up doing more environmentally unsound driving. The commuting improvement is way overdue!

Margaret Chase of Staten Island write: At any point in the 24-hour cycle that the ferry is running only hourly, it presents not only a great inconvenience to commuters but has greater impact as well on any logistics on "the other side of the harbor." Job interviews, doctors' appointments, logistical arrangements of all kinds would benefit ENORMOUSLY from more frequent and regular ferry service. Can you imagine a subway line that only comes every hour? Didn't think so! Thank you for making this happen.

Kathy Melka of Staten Island writes: I support this - no one should have to wait more than 30 minutes for a ferry. It stifles tourism and more importantly is unfair to those who work overnight shifts. It is easier and faster to commute to New Jersey at night than it is to Staten Island.

And Melissa Moreira of Staten Island writes: My teen works late hours and I worry the days she has to take it and only running every hour.

We need - you need - to get the Staten Island Ferry back as reliable and essential as it was since 1817 (first motorized ferry). Please recommend to the Council to pass this bill.

Thank you.
