The Public Advocate (Ms. James) was not present at the Meeting. The Deputy Leader (Council Member Gentile) assumed the chair as the Acting President Pro Tempore and presiding officer for these proceedings.

The presence of a quorum was announced by the Acting President Pro Tempore (Council Member Gentile).

Council Members Borelli and Grodenchik were not included in the original Roll Call for Attendance but were later marked present and were eligible to vote following their ceremonial swearing-in during the Communication from City, County and Borough Offices segment of this Meeting.*

During the Communication from the Speaker segment of this Meeting, the Speaker (Council Member Mark-Viverito) welcomed newly sworn-in Council Members Grodenchik and Borelli to the Chambers and congratulated them on their victories. She also recognized and welcomed their gathered families and friends who were present. The Speaker (Council Member Mark-Viverito) also acknowledged the presence of Assembly Member Michael Simanowitz (27th Assembly District) as well as former Assembly Members and former Council Members David Weprin and Mark Weprin.

INVOCATION

The Invocation was delivered by Rabbi Gerald C. Skolnik, Forest Hills Jewish Center, 106-06 Queens Blvd, Forest Hills, N.Y. 11375.

Dear God, source of all blessing, sovereign of the universe.
With humility and awe we invoke the full bounty of your blessings upon the duly elected members of the New York City Council
as they gather together this afternoon.
We ask dear God that you grant them strength of body and resilience of spirit, compassion and resolve equal to the daunting challenges that they face and the wisdom to persevere in the face of the many obstacles that inevitably arise as they seek to do the critically important work of this city.

We are living through times of extraordinary anxiety, days and nights that truly try our souls.
The scourge of global terror casts a pall on our lives and threatens to dim if not extinguish the glorious and brilliant light that shines from this great city as a beacon of hope and inspiration to people around the world.
Help us all, dear God,
both elected officials and the citizens who look to them for guidance to stand firm and resolute as we confront the unique challenges of this time.
Be with the men and women of our military and our first responders who are in harm's way and shield them from danger.
Be with us all and keep us safe here in our beloved city from those who conspire to do us harm and protect our families and loved ones.
Help all the citizens of New York to withstand the relentless anxiety of these violent times to stand with heads unbowed and resolve not shaken to live the lives that we aspire to and deserve;
let the specter of terror never dim our vision, narrow our horizons or bring us to a rational fear and senseless hatred of the other.
And finally, dear God, last but most certainly not least,
as we approach the festival of Thanksgiving,
we ask that you help us to be grateful,
a condition that does not always come as easily as it should to us.
May we always understand and never forget that each and every one of us, every single person in this room has much more than he or she needs to be happy in this life.
As we struggle to ensure that those in our city who are the most needy receive the aid and support that they desperately need to make life livable day to day and paycheck to paycheck, it behooves us all to remain ever conscious of what it means to live a life of relative plenty.
We read and hear every day of men, women and children who are both literally and figuratively running for their lives from a variety of trouble points around the world.

May we always remember to acknowledge in our hearts and in our actions those for whom gratitude is too often supplanted by longing and lack.

Open our hearts always to be more gracious and more kind and may the members of this august body always find favor in the eyes of those whom they serve and in your eyes as well, and we say Amen.

Council Member Koslowitz moved to spread the Invocation in full upon the Record.

During the Communication from the Speaker segment of this Meeting, the Speaker (Council Member Mark-Viverito) asked for a Moment of Silence in memory of those who were killed in the November 13, 2015 terrorist attack in Paris and in the recent terrorist attacks in Nigeria and Lebanon. She emphasized that New York City stands with France, Nigeria, Lebanon, and with everyone around the world who has faced terrorism and moved bravely forward in the aftermath of these travesties. The Speaker (Council Member Mark-Viverito) offered her thoughts and prayers to all those who have been impacted by these attacks.

Report for Int. No. 956-A

Report of the Committee on Finance in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to extending the biotechnology credit against the unincorporated business tax and the general corporation tax.

The Committee on Finance, to which the annexed amended proposed local law was referred on October 15, 2015 (Minutes, page 3700), respectfully

REPORTS:

Today, the Finance Committee will vote on Proposed Intro. 956-A, a local law amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to extending the biotechnology credit against the unincorporated business tax and the general corporation tax. This legislation would extend the biotechnology credit, which currently sunsets December 31, 2015, to December 31, 2018.

Background

Biotechnology in New York City

Biotechnology is a form of technology involving the scientific manipulation of living organisms to produce products conducive to improving the lives and health of plants, animals and humans. This includes research on new drugs, medical devices and diagnostic tests.¹ With ten world class academic medical centers, 59 hospitals, over 900 life science-related companies, and an unparalleled talent pool, New York City has a natural advantage in emerging technologies, particularly biotechnology. It received $1.4 billion in research funding from the National Institutes of Health (“NIH”) in 2013, ranking number two in the nation for amount of funding after Boston-Cambridge. Nonetheless, New York City lags behind other cities, such as Boston, San Francisco and San Diego, in the commercialization of new technologies, though it is working to close the gap with, for example, the New York City Biotechnology Tax Credit and the recent development of laboratory space at the East River Science Park, SUNY Downstate, Harlem Biospace and BioBAT at the Brooklyn Army Terminal, much of it at affordable rents.

New York City’s Biotechnology Credit

Legislative History

In the Spring of 2009, the New York City Council urged the State Legislature and worked with them to pass legislation authorizing New York City to provide a biotechnology credit that would mirror the State’s New York State’s Emerging Technologies Facilities, Operations and Training Credit. On September 16, 2009, the Governor signed A.8131/S.4845-B into law, codified as Chapter 453 of the Laws of 2009. Shortly thereafter, on September 17, 2009, the Council passed Local Law 67 of 2009 which provides a credit against the City’s general corporation tax and the unincorporated business tax for qualified emerging technology companies (“QETCs”) located in New York City that focus primarily on biotechnology. The authorization term for the credit, referred to as the “Biotechnology Credit,” as authorized by Chapter 453, was from January 1, 2010 to December 31, 2012.

On August 17, 2012, the Governor signed Chapter 429 of the Laws of 2012, which amended the Tax Law to allow New York City to extend the existing Biotechnology Credit through December 31, 2015. On December 10, 2012, the Council passed Local Law 61 of 2012 so extending the credit.

¹ Biotechnologies is defined as “technologies involving the scientific manipulation of living organisms, especially at the molecular and/or the sub-molecular genetic level, to produce products conducive to improving the lives and health of plants, animals, and humans; and the associated scientific research, pharmacological, mechanical, and computational applications and services connected with these improvements. Activities included with such applications and services shall include, but not be limited to, alternative mRNA splicing, DNA sequence amplification, antigenetic switching, bioaugmentation, bioenrichment, bioremediation, chromosome walking, cytogenetic engineering, DNA diagnosis, fingerprinting, and sequencing, electroporation, gene translocation, genetic mapping, site-directed mutagenesis, bio-transduction, bio-mechanical and bio-electrical engineering, and bio-informatics.” §3102-E(b)(5) of the New York State Public Authorities law.

How the Credit Works

The Biotechnology Credit provides QETC firms with a refundable credit, for three types of expenses: qualifying expenses related to acquiring research and development property, certain expenses related to training employees, and other research and development expenses.

Qualifications

A taxpayer is entitled to a credit if the company:

- 1) is a qualified emerging technology company engaging in biotechnologies;
- 2) has no more than 100 full-time employees, of which at least 75 percent are employed in the City;
- 3) has a ratio of research and development funds to net sales of at least six percent;
- 4) has gross revenues not exceeding $20 million, including affiliates; and
- 5) has annual sales not exceeding $10 million. Such qualified emerging technology companies would be eligible for the credit for three consecutive years.

Credit Amount

The City's biotechnology credit provides a refundable credit to small QETCs focusing on biotechnology in the following amount:

- a. up to 18 percent of costs related to purchase or renting of equipment for testing, quality control or research;
- b. up to nine percent for qualified research expenses, primarily in-house research-related operating costs; and
- c. up to $4,000 per employee for certain training expenses.

For newly formed or newly located to the City firms, or those that have increased their employment in the City by at least five percent, the credit will be no more than $250,000 per QETC. For existing biotechnology firms that have not increased their employment by at least 5 percent to be eligible for the credit, the credit is up to $125,000, for the same expenses, but at half of the above rates. The total credits for a given year are capped at $3 million. If credits in a given year exceed the cap they will be allocated on a prorated basis by the New York City Department of Finance.

The Success of the Credit

The credit is part of a multifaceted policy to create a vibrant industry in New York City with sufficient size and density that it becomes a good place to make a career in biotechnology and to locate the kind of ancillary services that the industry needs.

In part as a result of the Biotechnology Credit, life science is a growing industry in the City. The average wage of life science-related jobs in the City was over $78,000 in 2013.² In 2013, life science-related jobs in New York City reached 12,785, a 14.4 percent increase since 2010, and the number of establishments reached 931 in 2013, a 7.3 percent increase from 2010. About 84 percent of the positions were in research and development.

For Tax Year 2013, 28 small, early-stage firms claimed the biotechnology credit, totaling approximately $2.4 million in credits.

Authorizing Legislation

On September 25, 2015, the Governor signed Chapter 260 of the Laws of 2015, which amended the Tax Law to allow New York City to again extend the Biotechnology Credit through December 31, 2018.

Proposed Intro. 956-A

This legislation amends sections 11-503 and 11-604 of the Administrative Code, and Local Law 67 of 2009, to extend the biotechnology credit, which currently sunsets December 31, 2015, to December 31, 2018.

October 22, 2015 Hearing

On October 22, 2015, the Finance held a hearing on Proposed Intro. 956-A and heard testimony from members of the biotechnology community who had benefited from the credit. They each stressed that the tax credit, in conjunction with other City-sponsored initiatives such as the development of affordable laboratory space, has made New York City an attractive place in which to base their companies.

² U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The life sciences industry is defined as a combination of: Pharmaceutical and Medicine Manufacturing (NAICS 3254); Medical Equipment and Supplies Manufacturing (NAICS 3391); R&D in the Physical, Engineering, and Life Sciences (NAICS 541710); R&D in Biotechnology (NAICS 541711); R&D in the Physical, Engineering, and Life Sciences, except Biotechnology (NAICS 541712); and Medical Laboratories (NAICS 6215).

Report for Int. No. 982-A

Report of the Committee on Finance in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to extending the rate of the additional tax on the occupancy of hotel rooms.

The Committee on Finance, to which the annexed amended proposed local law was referred on November 10, 2015 (Minutes, page 3964), respectfully

REPORTS:

BACKGROUND

The New York City Hotel Room Occupancy Tax (the “hotel tax”), is a tax imposed on the occupancy - or the right to occupancy - of a room or rooms in a hotel.¹ The term “hotel” includes an apartment hotel, motel, boardinghouse, bed-and-breakfast, bungalow, or club, whether or not meals are served.² The City charges a flat fee for rooms over $40 a night at the rate of $2.00 per day.³ The City also charges an additional tax of 5.875 percent on rent room charge.⁴ These two charges - the flat fee and the additional tax- comprise the Hotel Tax. The hotel tax is levied in addition to the combined City, State, and Metropolitan Commuter Transportation District (“MCTD”) sales tax (at 4.5 percent, 4.0 percent, 0.375 percent, respectively), bringing the aggregate hotel occupancy tax and sales tax on a hotel rental in the City to 14.75 percent.⁵ Combined, according to the Mayor’s 2015 November Financial Plan for Fiscal 2016-2019, the hotel tax is expected to generate $539 million in revenue for Fiscal 2016.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

Chapter 161 of 1970 authorizes New York City to adopt and amend local laws imposing a hotel tax. The rates of the hotel tax are set by State legislation, which dictates the fee based on the daily rental value of the hotel room occupied.⁶ As authorized by State legislation, §11-2502 of the Administrative Code imposes a graduated tax upon the occupancy of hotel rooms in the City at a rate of $.50 per day if the daily rent for the room is $10 or more, but less than $20; $1.00 per day if the daily rent is $20 or more, but less than $30; $1.50 per day of the daily rent is $30 or more, but less than $40; and $2.00 per day of the daily rent is $40 or more.

The State legislation also allows the City to impose an additional tax on persons occupying hotel rooms in New York City. The State legislation provides the City with discretion in setting the rate for the additional tax, allowing the City to set the rate up to 6 percent.⁷ Under State law, if the additional tax is imposed at the rate of 6 percent or above, then 4 1/6 percent of the total amount of the tax, including interest and penalties, must be dedicated for the sole purpose of promoting tourism and conventions in New York City and deposited in a special tourism and convention fund.⁸ Seven-eighths of this dedicated revenue would fund the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau, pursuant to an annual contract with the City.⁹ The remaining one-eighth of the dedicated fund is required to be expended on the supplemental promotion of tourism and conventions throughout the City.¹⁰ The City Council can effectively increase the rate to slightly under 6 percent, thereby allowing all of the revenue generated by the increase to further the causes of the City and be placed in the City's general fund.¹¹

Until 1986, the tax imposed only a flat fee based on the daily rental value of the hotel room occupied. In 1986, an additional tax at the rate of 5 percent on the rent or charge was imposed.¹² As a result of the additional tax, tax collections increased from $26 million in 1986 to $79 million in 1987.¹³ In 1990, faced with tough economic times, the City increased the additional tax on hotels by 1 percent, from 5 percent to 6 percent, which triggered the tourism dedication requirement.¹⁴ In 1994, both the State and City acted to reduce the hotel occupancy tax burden. In 1994, the City repealed its 1 percent tax increase, returning the rate to 5 percent.

RECENT INCREASE TO HOTEL TAX

Similar to 1990, in 2008 the City increased the tax to 6 percent when the City faced tough economic times.

In order to maintain core services that are vital to our City, the Council had to make difficult choices in deciding where and how to generate additional revenue to close the budget gap for Fiscal 2009, 2010 and the outyears. One option was to raise the hotel tax rate.

A main concern with this option was whether increasing the tax might impact industry sales and prices. However, hotel occupancy and room rates are determined by a variety of factors, including domestic personal income and wealth, the level of safety and amenities of the locality, and the exchange rate and economic growth overseas. The hotel tax is a relatively small part of overall costs of business or vacation travel.

In 2008, the City Council passed legislation to increase the tax imposed upon the occupancy of hotel rooms from a rate of 5 percent of the daily rent of each room to 5.875 percent.¹⁵ In November 2011, the Council extended the rate of 5.875 percent to November 30, 2013.¹⁶ In November 2013, the Council extended the rate of 5.875 percent to November 30, 2015.¹⁷

According to the Mayor's Memorandum of Support for the legislation authorizing the 2011 increase, during the years of the rate increase, the City actually experienced a roughly 17 percent increase in room nights sold over such period. From September 2009 through September 2011, hotel revenues per room have grown by about 20 percent, further evidence that visitors to New York City are not deterred by the current rate of hotel room occupancy tax.

According to the Memorandum of Support for the legislation authorizing the 2013 increase, from January 2013 through June 2013, hotel revenues have grown approximately 6% compared to the same period in 2012, and approximately 14% compared to the same period in 2011. Visitors to New York City have not been deterred by the current rate of hotel room occupancy tax. New York City tourism hit an all-time high in 2012 with 52 million visitors, and is continuing to grow with similar momentum in 2013.

Without the extension of the current rate, the City would lose approximately $59 million in revenue in Fiscal 2016 and over $80 million in Fiscal 2017.¹⁸

PROPOSED INT. 982-A

Proposed Int. 982-A would extend the 5.875 percent rate of the tax from December 1, 2015 until November 30, 2019. The local law would take effect immediately except that if it becomes law after December 1, 2015, it is retroactive to and deemed to have been in full force and effect as of December 1, 2015.

¹ See §11-2502 of the Administrative Code. The following are exempt from the hotel tax: A permanent resident, defined as a person who occupies a room for at least 180 consecutive days; New York State, a public corporation, or a political subdivision of the State; the United States; the United Nations; and a not-for-profit organization that was formed and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, or educational purposes.

² See §11-2501 (5).

⁴ See §11-2502 (a)(3).

¹⁸ The November 2015 Financial Plan for Fiscal 2016-2019 assumed an extension of the 5.875 percent rate. The Plan also assumed the rate would be extended prior to its expiration date on December 1, 2013. For these reasons, it is estimated that there will be no fiscal impact as a result of this legislation.

PROPOSED INTRO. NO: 982-A COMMITTEE: Finance

TITLE: A Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to extending the rate of the additional tax on the occupancy of hotel rooms.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION: The current rate of the additional tax on the occupancy of hotel rooms is five and seven-eighths percent. Under existing law, on December 1, 2015, this rate will change to five percent. This bill would extend the current rate of five and seven-eighths percent through November 30, 2019. Beginning on December 1, 2019, the rate would change to five percent.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This bill would take effect immediately, except that if it becomes law after December 1, 2015, it would be retroactive to and deemed to have been in full force and effect as of December 1, 2015.

FISCAL YEAR IN WHICH FULL FISCAL IMPACT ANTICIPATED: Fiscal 2017

FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT:

	Effective FY16	FY Succeeding Effective FY17	Full Fiscal Impact FY17
Revenues	$0*	$0*	$0*
Expenditures	$0	$0	$0
Net	$0	$0	$0

IMPACT ON REVENUES: *Although the City would forgo approximately $59 million in Fiscal 2016 and $80 million in Fiscal 2017 if the rate were not extended, it is estimated that there would be no impact on revenue as a result of this legislation because the Fiscal 2016 November Plan already assumes an extension of the 5.875 percent rate prior to its expiration date on December 1, 2015.

IMPACT ON EXPENDITURES: There would be no impact on expenditures as a result of enactment of this legislation.

Report for Res. No. 911

Report of the Committee on Finance in favor of approving a Resolution authorizing an increase in the amount to be expended annually in the Metrotech Area Business Improvement District in the Borough of Brooklyn, an extension of the Metrotech Area Business Improvement District, and a change in the method of assessment upon which the district charge in the Metrotech Area Business Improvement District is based, and setting the date, time and place for the public hearing of the local law authorizing such changes as set forth in the amended District Plan of the Metrotech Area Business Improvement District.

The Committee on Finance, to which the annexed preconsidered resolution was referred on November 24, 2015, respectfully

REPORTS:

BACKGROUND

Pursuant to the authority granted by chapter 4 of title 25 of the Administrative Code of the City of New York (hereinafter the “Law”), the Mayor and the Council are authorized to establish and extend Business Improvement Districts (hereinafter “BIDs”) in New York City and thereafter amend each BID’s district plan or authorize an increase in annual expenditures. BIDs, which are specifically established areas, use the City’s property tax collection mechanism to approve a special tax assessment with which to fund additional services that would enhance the area and improve local business. The additional services are normally in the areas of security, sanitation, physical/capital improvements (lighting, landscaping, sidewalks, etc.), seasonal activities (Christmas lighting) and related business services (marketing and advertising). The District Management Association of a BID carries out the activities described in the BID’s district plan.

The Metrotech Area BID was first established in 1991 and was centered on the City-sponsored Metrotech Office Development. The BID’s main focus at that time was to provide services to the office development and on the blocks that surrounded the complex. In 2004, the City Planning Commission created a new plan for the area, including zoning changes, new public open spaces, and pedestrian and transit improvements. One other provision of the plan was to create a cultural district centering around the Brooklyn Academy of Music that would provide new performance and rehearsal spaces, office space for a diverse group of local arts organizations, public plazas, a library, a cinema, and housing.

The Metrotech Area BID is requesting that the Council approve amendments to its district plan so that it can provide services to the business, cultural, and arts organizations in this cultural district. Specifically, the BID is requesting the following changes:

- 1) an expansion of its boundaries to include ten new blocks surrounding the Brooklyn Academy of Music, other cultural facilities, and the Atlantic Center Mall;
- 2) a change in the method by the assessments are calculated by creating two assessment sub-districts; and

- 3) a $1 million increase in its annual assessment from $2,624,492 to $3,624,492.

Boundary Expansion

The BID is proposing to include ten new blocks in the BID surrounding the Brooklyn Academy of Music, other cultural facilities, and the Atlantic Center Mall. There are currently 1,154 properties within the existing BID boundaries, and there are an additional 306 properties in the proposed expansion area. The proposed expansion area contains a mix of building types, including large and small mixed-use complexes, large and small commercial properties, and residential owner-occupied units. The Metrotech Expansion Steering Committee conducted outreach to the property owners and tenants who would be part of the expanded BID, including going door-to-door to the businesses, working with residential property owners to inform tenants, attending residential building meetings, working with commercial landlords to connect with national store management when applicable, conducting telephone and digital outreach, and posting information in public places.

Change in Method of Assessment

The Metrotech Area BID is proposing to create two sub-districts within the BID, each of which would have its own budgets and be assessed using its own formula. Specifically, the BID is proposing that the existing boundaries of the BID would comprise a North Sub-district and the newly expanded area within the BID would comprise a South Sub-district. In both sub-districts, both commercial and residential properties would be fully assessed.

The method of assessment of the North Sub-district would be the same formula currently used, which means that the assessment amounts of the property owners in this area would remain the same. Currently, development sites/utility properties are assessed using a formula based upon assessed value and zoning floor area, commercial/industrial and residential properties are assessed using a formula based upon assessed value, vacant land and unbuilt City development sites are assessed $1.00, and not-for-profit and government-owned properties are exempt from assessment.

The method of assessment of the South Sub-district would be a new formula based on assessed value, specifically a rate of approximately 0.0023 per dollar of assessed value. All commercial and residential properties within the South Sub-district would be assessed using this formula, while not-for-profit and government-owned properties would be exempt from assessment.

The following is a breakdown of the high, low, average, and median assessments expected to be paid under this proposed assessment scheme for each sub-district:

	North Sub-district	South Sub-district
High	$ 292,743.18	$ 59,185.76
Low	$ 24.71	$ 0.61
Median	$ 182.77	$ 65.99
Average	$ 2,341.21	$ 662.25

Increase in Annual Expenditures

The Metrotech Area BID is proposing to increase its annual expenditures from $2,624,492 to $3,624,492. The $1 million increase would represent the budget of the South Sub-district whereas the budget of the North Sub-district would be $2,624,492.

PRECONSIDERED RES. 911

This Resolution is required by law to set the public hearing date, time, and place for the consideration of the local law which would amend the district plan of the Metrotech Area BID. The public hearing will be held on December 7, 2015, in the City Council Committee Room, 2nd Floor, City Hall at 10:00 a.m. before the Committee on Finance.

Because the proposal involves an amendment to the BID's district plan that would increase the amount it expends annually and change the method of assessment, the Resolution directs the Metrotech Area District Management Association to, not less than ten nor more than thirty days before the date of the public hearing, mail a copy of the Resolution or a summary thereof to each owner of real property within the BID at the address shown on the latest City assessment roll, to such other persons as are registered with the City to receive tax bills concerning real property within the BID, and to the tenants of each building within the BID. The Resolution also directs Small Business Services (hereinafter "SBS") to arrange for the publication of a copy of this Resolution or a summary thereof at least once in the City Record or a newspaper in general circulation in the City, the first publication to be not less than ten nor more than thirty days before the date of the public hearing. The resolution further directs the Metrotech Area District Management Association to publish in a newspaper having general circulation in the BID, not less than ten days prior to the public hearing, a notice stating the time and place of the public hearing and stating the increase in the amount to be expended annually in the BID.

(For text of the Amended District Plan for the Metrotech Area BID, please refer to the Office of the City Clerk at 141 Worth Street, Executive Offices, First Floor, New York, N.Y. 10013)

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption.

In addition, the Commission is empowered to make rules of practice for its proceedings. [Charter § 164(a).]

The Commission determines the final assessed valuation or taxable assessed valuation, or the actual assessment or transition assessment, or the proper class designation of the real property of each applicant. The final assessed valuation or taxable assessed valuation of real property may be the same or less than the original assessment or, if determined to be unlawful, the same shall be ordered stricken from the roll or, where appropriate, entered on the exempt portion of the roll. If it is determined that the real property is misclassified, the correct class designation or allocation of assessed valuation shall be entered on the roll. [Charter § 164(b).]

Applications for correction of assessment of real property assessed at seven hundred fifty thousand dollars or more are dealt with between the first day of February and the first day of September. [Charter § 164-a (a).]

The final determination of the Commission upon any application for the correction of an assessment shall be rendered not later than the twenty-fifth day of May. Otherwise, the assessment objected to shall be deemed to be the final determination of the Commission. [Charter § 165 .] A proceeding to review or correct on the merits any final determination of the Commission may be had as provided by law, and, if brought to review a determination mentioned in Charter § 165, must be commenced before the twenty-fifth day of October following the time when the determination sought to be reviewed or corrected was made. [Charter § 166.]

The President or any Commissioner may enter upon real property and into buildings and structures at all reasonable times to ascertain the character of the property. Refusal by the owner or his agent to permit such entry shall be triable by a judge of the Criminal court and punishable by not more than thirty days' imprisonment, or by a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or both. [Charter § 156.]

The Commission shall issue an annual report to the City Council and to the Mayor not later than the first day of March in each year. [Charter § 155.]

Report of the Committee on Technology

Report for Int. No. 890-A

Report of the Committee on Technology in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to the retention of data on the open data portal.

The Committee on Technology, to which the annexed amended proposed local law was referred on September 17, 2015 (Minutes, page 3372), respectfully

REPORTS:

I. INTRODUCTION

On November 23, 2015, the Committee on Technology, chaired by Council Member James Vacca, will hold a vote on Proposed Int. No. 890-A, in relation to the retention of data on the open data portal; Proposed Int. No. 898-A, in relation to the creation of a data dictionary for every data set; Proposed Int. No. 900-A, in relation to the standardization and geocoding of address data; Proposed Int. No. 914-A, in relation to response timelines for public requests on the open data portal; and Proposed Int. No. 915-A, in relation to the timely updating of certain data sets. The Committee previously held a hearing on this legislation on October 1, 2015.

II. LOCAL LAW 11 OF 2012 – OPEN DATA LAW

On March 7, 2012, the City of New York enacted Local Law 11, generally referred to as the ‘Open Data Law.’ This law added a new Chapter 5 to Title 23 of the Administrative Code of the City of New York, entitled “Accessibility to Public Data Sets.”¹

The law mandated the creation of a single web portal through which agency “public data sets” could be made accessible to the public. The data sets are to conform to the technical standards published by DoITT, in a format that permits automated processing and be updated as necessary to protect their integrity and usefulness. If a public data set cannot be made available prior to December 31, 2018, then the agency is required to report the reason and the date by which the agency expects such data set will be available.² The legislation charged DoITT with the responsibility of maintaining the web portal as well as an online forum to encourage feedback and discussion,³ although the Mayor’s Office of Data Analytics (MODA) has also played a significant role in its implementation.

III. OPEN DATA PORTAL IMPLEMENTATION

Documentation of Metadata

Metadata, as defined by the current Technical Standards Manual (TSM) for the Open Data Portal, is “[c]ontextual information that makes the public data sets easier to understand and use.”⁴ The TSM requires, for every published data set, that certain minimum information be included by the providing agency, such as: Contributor (the agency that supplied the data), Date (when the data was modified; this is auto-generated by Socrata), Description (a brief description of the data set), frequency of update, and similar information.⁵ Regarding more detailed information about data sets, the TSM states that “[a]lthough metadata for columns within a data set is not required, it should be provided when the column identifiers do not provide a user with enough information to use it effectively. For example, the metadata for a column containing restaurant inspection letter grades should indicate the possible values and their meanings.”⁶

The Federal open data website (data.gov) often provides metadata for its data sets via a link to a page hosted by the relevant agency. For example, a data set on feed grains explains not just when and how the data was collected, but also provides useful conversion factors (such as how much a bushel of corn, barley or oats weighs, each of which is different) and explains terms used in the data (such as ‘heifer/corn ratio’ or ‘feed unit’).⁷ And, the documentation for a data set on food access includes not just background information on why and how food access is studied, but it also contains a section on “Changes in methods between 2006 and 2010,” which might be critical information for anyone seeking to study possible trend changes over those years.⁸ Likewise, a data set on a monthly retail trade survey is accompanied by lengthy documentation on the methodology behind the surveys – such as the sampling frame used, how and when estimates are used and possible error rates.⁹ While not every Federal data set may have such documentation, they are present in significant numbers and provide a great deal of relevant information.

In practice, a handful of data sets on the NYC portal (e.g. restaurant inspection data¹⁰ and ACRIS¹¹) do have more than the minimum required metadata documentation, but they are exceptions. Further, they can be easily overlooked, since the additional metadata is generally not provided under the ‘Meta’ section (in the ‘About’ tab) where some of the required metadata can be found, but rather under the ‘Attachments’ section, as one or more downloadable files, sometimes without any clear labeling as to what it is. For instance, the filename for the additional ACRIS metadata is simply “NYC_OpenData_ACRIS_Datasets.doc,” with no outward indication as to what the document contains.

The vast majority of city public data sets, however, have no additional documentation, despite having difficult to understand terminology or highly technical subjects. For example, the Taxi and Limousine Commission’s Green Taxi Trip data set contains obvious columns such as “passenger count” or “fare amount” but also includes a column labeled “store_and_fwd_flag,” which has no obvious meaning.¹² Similarly, some of the Department of Environmental Protection data sets use terms such as “Transparency (Secchi) ft,”¹³ “Enterococcus (#/100 mL) Top,”¹⁴ and “Carbonaceous Biochemical Oxygen Demand – INFL (mg/L)”¹⁵ which are likely incomprehensible and unusable to a lay person without further definition and context. Comments on some of the data sets clearly express a desire for such information:

As the above example shows, there is a column listing various permit types, with abbreviations such as PL, AL, EW and FO. A user of the site named ‘Trudy’ asked, twice, for some explanation as to the meaning of the abbreviations used because there is no documentation accompanying this data set. In fact, shortly after the above screenshot was taken, another user, named ‘Wendy,’ posted a third comment: “Can someone provide codes for the permit descriptors? This dataset needs a codebook. Thanks very much!”¹⁶ This lack of documentation is exacerbated by the additional lack of official response - despite the first two questions having been posted four months ago (this will be discussed further in the next section).

Public Responsiveness

The Open Data Portal provides space for public comment and discussion. Each data set contains a discussion tab where that data set can be discussed, and there is a general data set suggestion section, where the public can request data they would like to see added to the portal. Unfortunately, official responses to the public have been uneven at best, and more often non-existent.

For instance, the data set suggestion section has been receiving requests since October 2011, yet almost all of the requests are listed as ‘Open’ (i.e. still pending determination). As of November, 2015, of around 170 requests, 7 have been rejected and 6 have been approved, with the remainder marked as ‘Open.’ This is especially peculiar because for a few of these requests, a reply comment has been posted by ‘NYC OpenData’ with a link to where that data can now be found, yet the request remains officially open.¹⁷ Recently, an effort does seem to have been made to begin replying officially to the most recent of these requests – a few official replies were posted on Sept. 10, 2015.¹⁸ The majority of requests, however, have still received no official reply of any kind.

The discussion sections of individual data sets do not require official replies or interactions (since they are meant for general discussion) but users nonetheless often post questions that are clearly directed at the portal’s administrators and here too there is a similar lack of official replies or interaction. Fig. 1, above, provided one example, and another is below, although many others can be found:

Responsiveness to public questions, comments and requests can play an important role in the utility of the portal to the general public, but the current practices do not seem to be consistent or sufficient.

Address Formatting and Geocoding

The Technical Standards Manual states that “Data sets providing information on location in tabular format can be automatically geocoded by the OpenData platform” and then provides a suggestion on how such data should appear for the automatic geocoding to be possible.¹⁹ However, an additional benefit of uniformity of location/address data would be the ease of combining or comparing data from multiple data sets. Lack of uniformity potentially adds additional steps, time and effort on the part of anyone seeking to do an analysis and ultimately makes the data less usable. As was expressed by one comment on DSNY’s Public Recycling Bins data set: “is there any data with a better address field? It’s very manual to geocode in ArcMap.”

In practice, such uniformity does not currently exist on the Open Data Portal. The committee’s research found at least eight significantly different presentation formats for address information, and it is quite possible that even more exist. Some data sets provide as many as seven different columns for addresses data (ex: DCA’s Legally Operating Businesses data set - [Street Name] [Secondary Street Name] [Unit Type] [Unit] [City] [State] [Zip]). While other data sets provide only one column for address data, but even here there is no uniformity since the data put into that one column also varies – some contain just mailing address information, while others also include latitude and longitude data in that single column.²⁰ This lack of uniformity even extends to Block and Lot information, which is sometimes presented as two columns and sometimes as a single column.²¹

Perhaps due, at least in part, to the different presentations of address/location data, not all data sets are geocoded (with either State X/Y coordinates or Latitude and Longitude). The most significant data sets found without geocoding were DOHMH’s Restaurant Inspection data set and DOF’s Parking Violations Issued data set, although other examples exist. In still other data sets, some individual entries will be inexplicably missing geospatial information, for instance DSNY’s Public Recycling Bins data set is inexplicably missing that information for one entry (Pier 25, Hudson River Park), despite two adjoining entries with the same exact location being geocoded. It also seems that entries for locations outside of the city’s boundaries are generally not geocoded (for example DCA’s Legally Operating Businesses data set is missing geospatial information for addresses in Mineola, Baldwin and Mount Vernon).

Data Retention

Data sets gain value over time, as they build up information that allows for longitudinal studies of trends over multiple years. Yet some data sets, by their very nature, are ever-changing and so only ever display ‘current’ or ‘active’ data on the topic, making longitudinal analysis impossible. When a licensee or permittee is no longer ‘active,’ they might simply vanish from a data set, leaving no record they had ever been there. For example, DCA's Legally Operating Business data set consists of all those businesses legally operating with DCA licenses or temporary operating letters, but if a business was to lose their license, or simply to close, this public record of their having been in business would seemingly vanish as well. Many data sets are potentially susceptible to this, for instance The Brooklyn Public Library's Catalog data set (albeit infrequently updated) would likely not contain any record of books it removes from its catalog. Yet, it is that record over time that can add greater value to these data sets. Fittingly, a comment on DSNY's Public Recycling Bins data set asked "is there any way to look at this data set over time?" Similarly, there may be a concern that historic data will be removed from especially large data sets if they eventually grow unwieldy. For some data sets this is taken into account – for instance, while the 311 Service Request data set is 2009-Present, prior years are available as individual data sets. Likewise, the TLC 'Medallion Drivers – Active' data set seems to be regularly rewritten, but a TLC 'Medallion Drivers – Status Change Log 10/28/2013 – Present' data set seems to provide some record of no longer active drivers. This practice is not widespread however, and some data is regularly lost.

Timeliness of Updates

One of the issues raised in this committee's October 27, 2014 open data oversight hearing was the significant difference in the timeliness of updates for certain data that is double posted - both on an agency's website and on the Open Data Portal. At that hearing a lag in the timeliness of the update of Department of Buildings permit data on the portal was questioned and Albert Webber of DoITT replied that while most of data on the portal was "timely maintained," that particular DOB data contained timeliness gaps that allowed it to fall significantly behind the BIS data posted on the agency's own website.²² Although DoITT was then working to resolve that particular automation issue, it did highlight a concern that data on the portal be kept relevant and updated compared to the same data made available elsewhere. For instance, data sets such as DOF's Acris data, HPD's Violation data and others are currently updated at monthly frequencies, despite more current information being accessible on those respective agencies' websites.

This creates situations where, as illustrated below, in a search for housing maintenance code complaints for 245 Sullivan Place in Brooklyn, HPD's website revealed six complaints, dating as far back as Sept. 7, 2015, that (as of Sept. 29, 2015) had not yet been updated to appear on the relevant data set on the Open Data Portal:

Summary of Proposed Int. No. 890-A

Proposed Int. No. 890-A amends Section 23-502 of the administrative code to require the Department of Information Technology and Telecommunications (DoITT) to preserve row data that is subject to permanent removal or replacement as well as to create and preserve archival copies of data sets, in accordance with guidelines in the Technical Standards Manual. The bill also amends Section 23-505 of the administrative code to require DoITT to update the Technical Standards Manual to include guidelines on the division of large data sets into smaller ones when technical, archival or practical concerns necessitate such division.

Changes to Proposed Int. No. 890-A

In addition to technical amendments, Proposed Int. No. 890-A has been amended in the following manner:

- The requirement to preserve data has been amended to include a more specific focus on the preservation of row data within data sets.
- The requirement to create and preserve archival copies has been amended to utilize the guidance of the Technical Standards Manual.
- The effective date is now one year after it becomes law.

Summary of Proposed Int. No. 898-A

Proposed Int. No. 898-A amends Section 23-505 of the administrative code to require that a plain language data dictionary accompany each data set on the NYC Open Data Portal. The bill describes the metadata information that should be included within a data dictionary, including explanations of any acronym or technical term, a description of units of measure, ranges of possible values, and contextual information, such as method of collection. The bill also requires upload and generation dates to be included directly on the Open Data Portal.

Changes to Proposed Int. No. 898-A

In addition to technical amendments, Proposed Int. No. 898-A has been amended in the following manner:

- The implementation of the requirement that every data set be accompanied by a data dictionary has been amended so that all data sets currently on the portal are required to have a data dictionary by December 31, 2017 and all data sets being added between then and now having 30 days after those datasets are made available.
- For data dictionaries, the format, layout and any additional content requirements not specified in the bill, shall be determined by the Technical Standards Manual.
- Upload and generation dates are now required of every data set, and shall be included directly on the portal.

Summary of Proposed Int. No. 900-A

Proposed Int. No. 900-A amends Section 23-505 of the administrative code to standardize the layout and presentation of addresses in the NYC Open Data Portal, require the inclusion of the relevant community district and require the geocoding of that address information. If a public data set could not meet such standard, the agency would be required to report the reasons why it cannot and the date by which such agency expects that such standard could be met. The bill also requires, in an unconsolidated section, the convening of a working group, including members of the public, to recommend the standard that should be used and for the Technical Standards Manual to be updated by the Department of Information Technology & Telecommunication after the working group has reported its recommendations to DoITT and the Council.

Changes to Proposed Int. No. 900-A

In addition to technical amendments, Proposed Int. No. 900-A has been amended in the following manner:

- The bill now requires the convening of a working group, containing public members, to develop recommendations regarding the technical standard to be used for address and geospatial data. The group's recommendations shall be sent to both the Department of Information Technology & Telecommunications and to the Council, and be taken into account by DoITT when updated the Technical Standards Manual to include the new standard.
- The bill now requires the inclusion of the corresponding community district, when address information is present in a data set.
- The bill now requires that any public data set that cannot meet the new standard, once adopted, must be reported by its relevant agency to both DoITT and the Council, along with the reasons why it cannot and the date by which the agency expects to be able to use the standard. Such information shall also be included in the agency compliance plan.
- The effective date is now one year after it becomes law, except for the second section of the bill which takes effect immediately.

Summary of Proposed Int. No. 914-A

Proposed Int. No. 914-A would amend Section 23-503 of the administrative code to require the Department of Information Technology & Telecommunication to respond to public data set requests on the NYC Open Data Portal within two weeks and for the relevant agency to make a final determination within two months. The bill also includes an unconsolidated section addressing the backlog of requests by requiring that response timelines for those requests begin tolling as of the law's effective date.

Changes to Proposed Int. No. 914-A

In addition to technical amendments, Proposed Int. No. 914-A has been amended in the following manner:

- The bill has been amended to require the final determination on a request to be issued by the relevant agency within two months of receipt.
- The effective date is now 30 days after it becomes law.

Summary of Proposed Int. No. 915-A

Proposed Int. No. 915-A amends Section 23-502 of the administrative code to require that data available on other agency and city websites that is also available on the Open Data Portal be updated within ten days, unless that information is automatically updated on the agency or city website in which case it is required to be updated on the portal within one day. If a public data set could not meet such standard, the agency would be required to report to DoITT, for inclusion in the agency compliance plan, the reasons why it cannot and the date by which such agency expects that such standard could be met.

Changes to Proposed Int. No. 915-A

In addition to technical amendments, Proposed Int. No. 915-A has been amended in the following manner:

- The update timeline has been amended into two timelines: data sets that are automatically updated on their agency website are to be updated on the Open Data Portal within one day and all other data sets are to be updated within ten days.
- The bill now requires that any public data set that cannot regularly meet the update timeline must be reported by its relevant agency to DoITT, along with the reasons why it cannot and the date by which the agency expects to be able to, for disclosure of such information in the agency compliance plan.
- The effective date is now one year after it becomes law.

TITLE: A Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to the retention of data on the open data portal.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION: Proposed Intro. No. 890-A would require the Department of Information Technology & Telecommunications (DoITT) to preserve row data on the City's Open Data Portal that is subject to permanent removal or replacement. It would also require DoITT to create guidelines on the dividing of large data sets into smaller data sets, when archival, technical or practical concerns require such division.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This local law would take effect one year after it becomes law.

FISCAL YEAR IN WHICH FULL FISCAL IMPACT ANTICIPATED: Fiscal 2018

FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT:

	Effective FY17	FY Succeeding Effective FY18	Full Fiscal Impact FY18
Revenues	$0	$0	$0
Expenditures	$90,563	$161,684	$161,684
Net	$90,563	$161,684	$161,684

IMPACT ON REVENUES: It is estimated that there would be no impact on revenues resulting from the enactment of this legislation.

IMPACT ON EXPENDITURES: An Integration Developer would be needed to build out automatic connections to regularly update agency data, and also create change logs of datasets so that individual record level data can be retained. DoITT estimates that the cost of this developer would be $115,000 plus an added 35 percent for fringe benefits annually. Additionally, depending on volume, DoITT would likely need to purchase the 'Extra capacity bundle' annually, or less frequently, to address storage space for data archival. Archival would be done on the single web portal to allow for a consistent user experience. The estimated cost of this "bundle" would be $6,434 annually not accounting for inflation. Regarding the creation of guidelines on the dividing of large data sets into smaller data sets, there is no additional cost because current resources would be used. Overall, it is estimated that the impact would be an additional $161,684 per year in expenditures once this bill becomes law.

Such manual shall identify the reasons why each technical standard was selected and for which types of data it is applicable and may recommend or require that data be published in more than one technical standard. The manual shall include a plan to adopt or utilize a web application programming interface that permits application programs to request and receive public data sets directly from the web portal. The manual shall also include guidelines for the division of large data sets into groups of smaller data sets, disaggregated by discrete time units, when technical barriers, archival necessity or practical concerns require such division. Such manual shall be updated by the department as necessary.

Be it enacted by the Council as follows:

Section 1. Section 23-505 of the administrative code of the city of New York is amended by adding a new subdivision c to read as follows:

c. Each data set on the single web portal shall include a plain language data dictionary; provided that for any data set available on the single web portal before the effective date of the local law that added this subdivision, a data dictionary shall be added to such data set no later than December 31, 2017; and provided further that for any data set made available on the single web portal on or after the effective date of the local law that added this subdivision and before December 31, 2017, a data dictionary shall be added to such data set no later than thirty days after such data set is made available on the single web portal. Such data dictionary shall provide a description for each column heading used within the data set and shall include a description of any acronym, technical term, unit of measure, range of possible values, relationship between or among columns within the data set, frequency of updates to the data set, and other information or description that can provide context to the data, such as the method of collection, a history of modifications to the data set format, data or methods of collection, or any other contextual information that the agency providing the data deems relevant or the technical standards manual requires. Such data dictionary shall be in a format and layout to be determined by the technical standards manual. The data dictionary accompanying each data set, or a link to such data dictionary, shall be included directly on the single web portal. TITLE: A Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to requiring a data dictionary for every data set on the open data portal.

SPONSORS: Council Members Kallos, Gentile and Constantinides.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION: Proposed Intro. No. 900-A would require that every public data set on the City’s Open Data Portal containing address information present that information in the same format, along with geospatial reference data, such as latitude and longitude. In addition, the legislation would also require the Mayor to convene a working group, which would include members of the public, to develop that format standard and make recommendations to the Department of Information & Technology (“DoITT”) and the Council.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This local law would take effect one year after it becomes law, except that the provision relating to the working group would take effect immediately.

FISCAL YEAR IN WHICH FULL FISCAL IMPACT ANTICIPATED: Fiscal 2018

FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT:

	Effective FY17	FY Succeeding Effective FY17	Full Fiscal Impact FY18
Revenues	$0	$0	$0
Expenditures	$66,938	$114,750	$114,750
Net	$66,938	$114,750	$114,750

IMPACT ON REVENUES: It is estimated that there would be no impact on revenues resulting from the enactment of this legislation.

IMPACT ON EXPENDITURES: DoITT estimates that it would need to hire an Operations Analyst at a cost of $85,000 with an additional 35 percent for fringe benefits annually to help work with agencies to understand their needs and make recommendations for publishing the data. The Analyst would also work to ensure the appropriate attributes are included in data that is released, be responsible for the identification of datasets to which this local law would apply, and gather requirements from agencies to ensure compliance. This position would be part of the working group to create geospatial standards.

d. The manual described in subdivision a of this section shall include a technical standard requiring every public data set containing address information to utilize a standard field layout and presentation of address information and include corresponding community district and geospatial reference data. If there is a public data set for which an agency cannot utilize such standard field layout and presentation of address information, such agency shall report to the department and to the council the reasons why it cannot, and the date by which the agency expects that it will be able to utilize such standard field layout and presentation of address information, and such information shall be disclosed in the compliance plan prepared pursuant to section 23-506.

§ 2. Within 30 days of the effective date of this section, the mayor shall designate an agency or official to convene a working group, which shall include members of the public, to recommend a standard field layout and presentation of address information and corresponding geospatial reference data for data sets available on the single web portal pursuant to section 23-502 of the administrative code of the city of New York. Within 10 months of the effective date of this section, such agency or official shall report such working group's recommendations to the department of information technology and telecommunications and to the city

TITLE: A Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York,

SPONSORS: Council Members Torres, Constantinides, Arroyo

in relation to establishing response timelines and Gentile for public requests on the open data portal.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION: Currently, the Department of Information & Technology (“DoITT”) is required to have an online forum to engage with the public on open data policies and datasets available on the City’s Open Data Portal. Proposed Intro. public data sets on the open data portal.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION: Proposed Intro. No. 915-A would require that any public data set that is made available on both the City’s Open Data Portal and through a City or agency website should be updated on the Open Data Portal so as to keep it current with the other publicly available copy of the data.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This local law would take effect one year after it becomes law.

FISCAL YEAR IN WHICH FULL FISCAL IMPACT ANTICIPATED: Fiscal 2018

FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT:

Revenues	$0	$0	$0
Expenditures	$208,376	$148,840	$148,840
Net	$208,376	$148,840	$148,840

IMPACT ON REVENUES: It is estimated that there would be no impact on revenues resulting from the enactment of this legislation.

IMPACT ON EXPENDITURES: The Department of Information & Technology (“DoITT”) estimates that it would need to hire one Specialist 3 level consultant resource for one year to work with agencies to identify datasets that qualify under this legislation. The consultant resource would also help build the automation infrastructure necessary to automate the flow of data from nyc.gov to the Open Data Portal and all work done after one year would be maintained by the Open Data team. This resource would also work on building an automated data transfer mechanism from the Open FOIL Portal to the Open Data Portal. At a rate of 196.27 per hour, DoITT estimates that the cost of the one-year consultancy would cost a total of $357,216.

INTRODUCTION AND READING OF BILLS

Res. No. 908

Resolution calling upon the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, A.8364-A, legislation relating to the prosecution of cases involving civilian deaths and injuries by law enforcement officers, and calling upon the Special Prosecutor and district attorneys to proceed with such cases with preliminary hearings instead of grand juries until the passage of A.8364-A.

By Council Members Barron, King and Richards.

Whereas, Recent high-profile cases of police killings of unarmed civilians, especially cases that result in non-indictments by grand juries, have focused intense attention on the grand jury process; and

Whereas, A prosecutor typically presents all felony cases to a grand jury, which, during a secret proceeding sealed to the public, returns an indictment if it decides there is “reasonable cause to believe” that the defendant committed an offense; and

Whereas, Prosecutors secure indictments from grand juries in an overwhelming majority of cases, according to data from the U.S. Department of Justice showing that grand juries returned indictments in more than 99.9 percent of the 162,000 cases brought by federal prosecutors in 2010; and

Whereas, However, there is evidence that in cases involving police killings of civilians, a very small proportion of officers are indicted; and

Whereas, Research by the Bowling Green State University found that during a seven-year period ending in 2011, 2,600 “justifiable” police homicides across the country were reported by police departments to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, when only 41 police officers over that same period were indicted on murder or manslaughter charges for shootings while on duty; and

Whereas, In New York City, from 1999 to 2014, at least 179 people were killed by on-duty officers of the New York City Police Department (NYPD), resulting in only three indictments and one conviction with no jail time, according to an analysis by the New York Daily News; and

Whereas, In the case of Eric Garner, an unarmed black man who died in July of 2014 after an alleged chokehold by NYPD officer Daniel Pantaleo, a grand jury failed to return an indictment against Pantaleo, causing outrage among many police reform advocates; and

Whereas, In response, New York City Public Advocate Letitia James, the Legal Aid Society, the New York Civil Liberties Union, the New York Post, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People petitioned a New York state judge to release records of the grand jury proceedings; and

Whereas, In July of 2015, an appellate court upheld the trial court’s denial of the requested disclosure, claiming that “curbing community unrest and restoring faith in courts and prosecutors did not represent a compelling and particularized need, as is necessary to overcome the presumption of confidentiality attached to grand jury proceedings”; and

Whereas, In an attempt to remove the secretive grand jury process from cases involving civilian deaths and injuries stemming from police encounters, New York State Assembly Member Charles Barron introduced A.8364 in August of 2015, subsequently amended as A.8364-A, legislation that would prohibit a grand jury

November 24, 2015

from inquiring into an offense that involves a shooting or use of excessive force by a peace officer that led to the death or injury of a civilian; and

Whereas, A.8364-A seeks to address the lack of transparency highlighted in the grand jury process of the Garner case, with the aim of increasing accountability of police behavior; and

Whereas, Another effort to address the perceived unfair indictment process is the examination of district attorneys' ability to objectively prosecute police officers, whom they almost always use as witnesses in prosecuting cases; and

Whereas, In July of 2015, New York Governor Andrew Cuomo appointed New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman as Special Prosecutor in cases where a law enforcement officer kills an unarmed civilian, including cases where there is uncertainty as to whether the civilian is armed and dangerous; and

Whereas, Until A.8364-A is in effect, district attorneys prosecuting cases involving armed civilians as well as Special Prosecutor Schneiderman should avoid commencing a case with the confidential grand jury process but instead file a felony complaint; and

Whereas, Pursuant to Section 180.60 of the New York Criminal Procedure Law, a felony prosecution may proceed with a grand jury indictment or a preliminary hearing; and

Whereas, A judge determines in such a hearing whether there is "sufficient evidence to warrant the court in holding him [or her] for the action of a grand jury"; and

Whereas, A preliminary hearing is an open hearing, unlike the grand jury process, which is closed to public scrutiny; and

Whereas, Before more permanent reform is enacted by A.8364-A, prosecutors should utilize preliminary hearings to provide the transparency sought in cases involving civilian deaths and injuries resulting from police encounters; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, A.8364-A, legislation relating to the prosecution of cases involving civilian deaths and injuries by law enforcement officers, and calls upon the Special Prosecutor and district attorneys to proceed with such cases with preliminary hearings instead of grand juries until the passage of A.8364-A.

Referred to the Committee on Public Safety.

Res. No. 909

Resolution calling on the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development to support New York City's application for National Disaster Resilience Competition funding.

By Council Members Chin, Treyger, Eugene, Gentile, Johnson, Richards and Rose
(by request of the Manhattan Borough President).

Whereas, Superstorm Sandy hit New York on October 29, 2012 with unprecedented force, causing record breaking water levels across much of the City due to the storm's size, low barometric pressure, westward trajectory and timing with respect to tidal cycles; and

Whereas, Superstorm Sandy resulted in the deaths of 44 New Yorkers and caused $19 billion in damages and lost economic activity within the City; and

Whereas, Superstorm Sandy's impacts on the City were devastating, as 88,700 buildings were flooded; 23,400 businesses were impacted; subway tunnels were shut down and flooded; 2,000,000 residents were left without power for weeks; and severe gas shortages lasted for over a month; and

Whereas, The storm highlighted the City's vulnerability to coastal storms and projected impacts of climate change and rising sea levels; and

Whereas, The New York City Panel on Climate Change projects that by 2050, in New York City, extreme weather events are likely to worsen: for example, heat waves and heavy downpours are likely to increase in frequency, intensity, and duration and coastal flooding is likely to increase in frequency, extent, and height; and

Whereas, In the aftermath of Superstorm Sandy, the City launched the New York City Special Initiative for Rebuilding and Resiliency which culminated in the release of a comprehensive, actionable plan to rebuild communities impacted by the storm and to increase the resilience of infrastructure citywide to prepare for the future impacts of severe weather events; and

Whereas, In June 2015, the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) invited several states and communities from across the country, including New York City, to compete in the second and final phase of the National Disaster Resilience Competition (NDRC), which is a two-phase competition that will conclude with the awarding of nearly $1 billion in HUD Disaster Recovery funds to successful competition applicants; and

Whereas, The NDRC encourages eligible communities to consider how they can recover from a recent past disaster and also how they will avoid and mitigate future losses due to disasters; and

Whereas, According to HUD, applicants to the NDRC are required to submit a detailed proposal for a "resilience-enhancing disaster recovery or revitalization project or program that addresses their identified risks, vulnerabilities, and community development opportunities" tying their proposal to the disaster from which they are recovering as well as demonstrating how they are reducing future risks and advancing broader community development goals; and

Whereas, At the conclusion of the NDRC, HUD anticipates awarding grants to multiple winning applicants in amounts ranging from $1 million to $500 million; and

Whereas, In October 2015, New York City submitted an application to the NDRC seeking $500 million to complement $100 million that the City has already committed for resiliency measures in Lower Manhattan and the Two Bridges area; and

Whereas, HUD is currently reviewing all NDRC applications and will do so until December 2015; and

November 24, 2015

Whereas, HUD is expected to announce the successful proposals in January 2016; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls on the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development to support New York City's application for National Disaster Resilience Competition funding.

Referred to the Committee on Recovery and Resiliency.

Res. No. 910

Resolution calling on the State Legislature to pass and the Governor to sign a law amending the Electronic Equipment Recycling and Reuse Act to allow the City to collect electronic waste for recycling.

By Council Members Espinal, Johnson, Koslowitz, Rose and Wills.

Whereas, On May 28, 2010, New York State enacted the Electronic Equipment Recycling and Reuse Act (the "Recycling Act").

Whereas, Pursuant to the Recycling Act, manufacturers are required to provide electronic waste ("e-waste") recycling to consumers in New York State; and

Whereas, The Recycling Act requires that collection methods be "convenient to consumers" and provides that these methods can include mail or ship-back return programs; manufacturer collection events; fixed acceptance locations; partnerships with local governments, stores, sales outlets and not-for-profit organizations to provide collection facilities; and community collection events; and

Whereas, Pursuant to the Recycling Act, as of January 1, 2015, no individual or household is allowed to place e-waste for collection which is intended for disposal at a solid waste management facility; and

Whereas, Although New York City has a number of programs to recycle e-waste, including e-cycleNYC, in which residential buildings larger than 10 units can apply for e-waste bins; SAFE Disposal Events where residents can discard their e-waste, and NYC Stuff Exchange, which allow residents to donate, sell, buy, rent, or repair gently used materials, including electronics, these programs all require residents to carry or otherwise transport their e-waste to these locations; and

Whereas, Many older electronics, especially televisions and computers, are very heavy and difficult or impossible to carry even short distances; and

Whereas, These materials could be put out for collection and ultimately be recycled by the New York City Department of Sanitation (DSNY) if authorized by state law; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the State Legislature to pass and the Governor to sign a law amending the Electronic Equipment Recycling and Reuse Act to allow the City to collect electronic waste for recycling.

b. No information that is otherwise required to be reported pursuant to this section shall be reported in a manner that would violate any applicable provision of federal, state, or local law relating to the privacy of student information or that would interfere with law enforcement investigations or otherwise conflict with the interest of law enforcement. If the category contains between 0 and 9 students, or allows another category to be narrowed to be between 0 and 9 students, the number shall be replaced with a symbol.

Res. No. 913

Resolution calling upon the New York City Department of Education (DOE) to ensure that all students have equitable access to after-school athletic activities and associated funding.

By Council Members Reynoso, Cabrera, Chin, Eugene, Gentile, Johnson, Rose and Wills.

Whereas, According to DOE and Public Schools Athletic League (PSAL) data collected by the Small Schools Athletic League (SSAL), PSAL’s current funding methods disproportionately affect high schools with high rates of poverty, students of color, and English Language Learners (ELL), leaving some high schools with a disparate or even a complete lack of access to after-school athletic activities; and

Whereas, In an effort to provide after-school athletics opportunities to smaller schools that received no PSAL funding, the Small Schools Athletic League (SSAL) was created in 2011 with the individual financial commitments of eight small schools, and has since grown to include nearly 40 high schools and field 100 teams in four sports; and

Whereas, PSAL's financing practices have been the subject of a recent civil rights complaint by advocates to the United States Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights (OCR), claiming that students of color in New York City public high schools do not have equitable access to high school interscholastic sports; and

Whereas, The complaints used statistical data provided by the DOE and PSAL to find that high schools where most of the students of color and ELL students have the lowest number of interscholastic teams, and that 70% of students who attend schools with mostly white students have access to more than 20 teams when only 15% of students who attend a school where most of the students are students of color access to more than 20 teams; and

Whereas, In an October 2014 "Dear Colleague Letter" on Resource Comparability, the OCR stated that "Chronic and widespread disparities in access to rigorous courses, academic programs, and extracurricular activities... further hinder the education of students of color today."; and

Whereas, As reported in the Wall Street Journal, in February 2015, the OCR had found that for years, the NYC DOE had been violating Title IX provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 for failing to provide girls with equal opportunities to play high school sports; and

Whereas, As reported in the New York Times, PSAL's method of budget allocation does not offer extracurricular athletics programs to students who attend schools that do not meet the required level of interest at the school, have sufficient coaches available, or enough students who could satisfy the league's academic eligibility rules, among other criteria; and

Whereas, The New York Times reported that it was a "statistical delusion" that the DOE's representation that 90 percent of NYC students attend a school with access to PSAL programs; and

Whereas, While the support of funding from the New York City Council has facilitated the merging of the DOE and SSAL the FY 2015, there remain serious concerns as to the continued financing of the SSAL; and

Whereas, The importance of extracurricular athletics for students is widely accepted to benefit academic performance, enhance interpersonal skills, social skills, mental wellness, a defined sense of community, and to decrease in juvenile arrests, teen births, school dropout, drug use, depression and suicide; now, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the New York City Department of Education to ensure that all students have equitable access to after-school athletic activities and associated funding.

Res. No. 914

Resolution calling upon the State Legislature to pass, and for the Governor to sign, legislation to allow bicycles to treat stop signs and red lights as yield signs.

By Council Members Reynoso and Koslowitz.

Whereas, New York State Vehicle and Traffic Law (“VTL”) section 1231 requires bicyclists to obey all traffic laws and regulations, including stopping and yielding signs and signals; and

Whereas, Over the past decade, New York City’s transportation infrastructure has become increasingly diversified; and

Whereas, In addition to traditional means of transportation, such as motor vehicles and public transit, a growing number of City residents and businesses are using bicycles for pleasure, work and as a commuting alternative; and

Whereas, The growing popularity of bicycles has prompted some cities and states to reevaluate their traffic laws; and

Whereas, In 1982, Idaho adopted section 49-720 (the “Idaho stop”), which allows bicycles to treat stops signs as yield signs and to proceed through a red light, but only when it is safe to do so; and

Whereas, Instead of making a full stop at a stop sign, bicyclists in Idaho are allowed to slow down, and if necessary, to stop; and

Whereas, According to the League of American Bicyclists, in addition to Idaho, Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Washington, and Wisconsin, have adopted some version of the Idaho statute; and

Whereas, According to the New York Times, San Francisco is currently debating the adoption of its own version of the “Idaho stop”; and

Whereas, The adoption of the “Idaho stop” would have no impact on a pedestrian’s right of way, because bicyclists would still have to slow down in order to insure that the intersection is clear of pedestrians, vehicles and other bicycles; and

Whereas, Moreover, riding a bicycle raises distinct safety needs and requirements; and

Whereas, Individuals who ride bicycles do not pose the same safety hazards to pedestrians because bicycles generally travel at a slower speed and bicyclists have the ability to more quickly see and respond to surrounding traffic; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the State Legislature to pass, and for the Governor to sign, legislation to allow bicycles to treat stop signs and red lights as yield signs.

Res. No. 915

Resolution calling upon the New York State Legislature to introduce and pass, and the Governor to sign, a law that would provide a property tax abatement to owners of small buildings who rent apartments to eligible low- and moderate-income tenants at below market rate.

By Council Members Williams, Chin, Eugene, Gentile, Rose and Wills.

Whereas, The City and State of New York offer a number of property tax abatements, which reduce certain property owners' taxes by applying credits to the amount of taxes they owe; and

Whereas, Such property tax abatements include the Cooperative and Condominium Tax Abatement, which addresses disparities in tax burdens between owners of apartments and owners of one-, two-, and three- family homes, the Green Roof Tax Abatement, for property owners who install green roofs, and the Solar

Electric Generating System Tax Abatement, for property owners who use solar power; and

Whereas, The City and State of New York have recognized the benefits of going green and have passed legislation to reward property owners who install green roofs and use solar power; and

Whereas, Property owners of small buildings who rent apartments to eligible low- and moderate-income tenants at below market rate should also be rewarded; and

Whereas, According to the most recent New York City Housing and Vacancy Survey, approximately 68.1 percent of households in the City are renter households; and

Whereas, Of the City's approximately 2,105,000 renter households, 61 percent or 1,293,000 are living in accommodations that are rent regulated by some form of federal, state, or city law or regulation; and

Whereas, Rent regulation, including rent control and rent stabilization, offers tenants a number of protections against illegal rent increases, unlawful harassment and unwarranted evictions; and

Whereas, The remaining 39 percent or 812,000 renter households live in unregulated units where they do not enjoy the same legal protections as rent regulated households and where their rents are based on current market rates; and

Whereas, According to a brief by the NYU Furman Center entitled, "Profile of Rent Stabilized Units and Tenants in New York City," at least 55.7 percent of market rate tenants are rent burdened, which means they spend more than 30 percent of their income on rent, and at least 30.8 percent of market rate tenants are severely rent burdened, which means they spend more than 50 percent of their income on rent; and

Whereas, A property tax abatement for owners of small buildings, including one- to four-family homes, would allow and encourage such owners to rent to eligible low- and moderate-income tenants at below market rates, thereby alleviating certain rent burdened and severely rent burdened tenants; and

Whereas, Eligible low- and moderate-income tenants are those whose gross income does not exceed 85 percent of the median income of their census tract, whose annual rent is at least 30 percent of the household's net income, and who have resided in the same apartment for at least one year; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the New York State Legislature to introduce and pass, and the Governor to sign, a law that would provide a property tax abatement to owners of small buildings who rent apartments to low- and moderate-income tenants at below market rate.
