INVOCATION

The Invocation was delivered by Rev. Jacqueline J. Lewis, Ph. D, Middle Collegiate Church, located at 50 East 7th Street, New York, NY 10003.

Good afternoon everyone, let us pray.

Eternal God we call upon you by many names, we call you alpha and omega, the beginning and the end,
 you are a rock in a wary land and a shelter in the time of storm,
 you're called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace,
 you're Allah, Adonai, Jehovah and Yahweh.
 Like a shepherd you make us to lie down in green pastures and pick us up when we fall down.
 Like a mother hen, you pull us under your wings for protection, when we're lost, you seek us and guide our feet home, when we're frightened, we turn our faces to you and find a way to peace, a path to enlightenment and the power to make our world just and fair.
 God of mercy and compassion and steadfast love,
 be with your people everywhere and in this place.
 Mold us and make us in your image, merciful and compassionate toward our neighbors near and far;
 and help us to love you and ourselves with generosity and humility.

Oh, say can you see what is plain to behold, though we shout liberty there are too many in chains.
 We are shackled by greed and the fear we are small, but this truth must be told there is one God who loves all.
 Won't you give me your hand and together we'll stand with radical love, he loves souls and our land.
 Oh, say can't we end all this fighting and strife and walk toward the light that we all might be free.

In your many names we pray,
 Amen.

Council Member Rivera moved to spread the Invocation in full upon the record.

The following took place during the Communication from the Speaker segment of this Stated Meeting:

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) recognized the Council's Black and Latino Caucus's commemoration of the fifth anniversary of the death of Mr. Eric Garner. The acts of commemoration took place during the Roll Call for Attendance and the Invocation segments of that day's Stated Meeting. He also expressed his outrage that the U.S. Department of Justice decided not to file charges in this case and asked that those responsible for Mr. Garner's death be held immediately accountable.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) acknowledged the 16th anniversary of the tragic assassination of Council Member James E. Davis in the Council Chambers on July 23, 2003. He wished to convey to the Davis family that the Council was still thinking of the late Council Member and appreciative of his years of public service. He reminded everyone of the plaque dedicated to the life of Council Member Davis in the Members Lounge located on the first floor of City Hall.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) also acknowledged the death of nine other 9/11 first responders since the previous Stated Meeting:

NYPD Detective Luis Alvarez, 53, a major Victim Compensation Fund advocate, passed away on June 29, 2019 from cancer contracted at Ground Zero. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) described him as one of the main heroes who fought tirelessly for the rights of 9/11 first responders.

The remaining eight names: retired NYPD Detective Andrea Rainer, 58, who worked at the 109th Precinct; retired Sergeant Jack Casey, 78, who served for nearly forty years and was honored with two medals of valor for his acts of bravery; Long Beach Fire Department Captain Michael Ornauer, 60, who supported field communications at Ground Zero; NYPD Detective Simon Koch, who passed away of 9/11 related sickness; NYPD Detective Christopher Cranston, 48, who worked for six months at the Ground Zero pile; Mr. Nicholas Poliseno, 41, who was at Ground Zero while working with Con Edison; NYPD Sergeant Thomas Fennessy, 64, who served with the Police Department for more than twenty years; and NYPD Detective Thomas Santoro, 53, who served down at Ground Zero with the Police Department. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) noted that these individuals and their families deserve our support and again asked that Congress to authorize permanent funding for the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) acknowledged the death of construction worker Rene Chavarria, 47, who was killed on July 13, 2019 during the course of his employment at a Bronx recycling plant. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) also acknowledged the death of NYPD officer Kevin Preiss. Officer Preiss was found dead on June 26, 2019 after taking his own life at the age of 53. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) noted that this was the fourth NYPD suicide within the last month and he urged members of the Police Department who were suffering to seek out the help they needed. On behalf of the Council, he offered his thoughts and condolences to the NYPD community as well as to Officer Preiss's family.

The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) also acknowledged the deaths of two leaders and advocates for New York City: labor movement leader Hector J. Figueroa and former Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau. Hector J. Figueroa was president of the 32BJ SEIU building-service workers' union and fought for better wages and working conditions for all. Mr. Figueroa passed away suddenly on July 11, 2019 at the age of 57. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) expressed his condolences to his wife and children. Robert M. Morgenthau served as the long-time District Attorney for New York County from 1975 to 2009. He passed away on July 21, 2019 at the age of 99. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) noted that D.A. Morgenthau helped transform the Manhattan District Attorney's office into one of the most respected law enforcement agencies in the country. He also worked as a civic leader and was an advocate for organizations such as the Police Athletic League and the Museum of Jewish Heritage. In addition, D.A. Morgenthau advocated for the international recognition of the Armenian genocide that took place during World War I.

In conclusion, the Speaker (Council Member Johnson) also acknowledged the death of long-time Council staff member Salena Glenn. Ms. Glenn worked at the Council for thirty-one years in various roles and served under five Speakers. She began her tenure as former Council Member Enoch William's Chief of Staff and later transferred over to the Council's central staff. The Speaker (Council Member Johnson) praised her as the embodiment of integrity and an inspiration to those around her. He offered his condolences to Ms. Glenn's family and thanked her for her life of many years of service to the Council.

At this point, the Speaker (Council Member Johnson) asked for a Moment of Silence for all those who were named and mentioned above.

REPORTS OF THE STANDING COMMITTEES

Report of the Committee on Consumer Affairs and Business Licensing

Report for Int. No. 1281-A

Report of the Committee on Consumer Affairs and Business Licensing in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to prohibiting food stores and retail establishments from refusing to accept payment in cash.

The Committee on Consumer Affairs and Business Licensing, to which the annexed proposed amended local law was referred on November 28, 2018 (Minutes, page 4563), respectfully

REPORTS:

I. INTRODUCTION

On July 22, 2019, the Committee on Consumer Affairs and Business Licensing, chaired by Council Member Rafael Espinal, will hold a vote on Proposed Introductory Bill Number 1281-A (Int. 1281-A), in relation to prohibiting retail establishments from refusing to accept payment in cash. The Committee previously heard testimony on this bill from the Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA), business groups, advocates and other interested stakeholders, and their feedback informed various amendments.

II. BACKGROUND

For businesses embracing new technologies and faster transactions, cashless purchases are a convenient option. Business owners from establishments that only accept cashless transactions have reported shorter lines and wait times for their customers, and relief that they no longer feel vulnerable to robbery.¹ While this technology clearly makes transactions swift and efficient, the overarching effects are not so benign. Rather, there are a range of negative consequences caused by prohibiting the use of cash for payment and marginalized communities tend to be disproportionately impacted.

Unbanked and Underbanked Populations

By relying exclusively on cashless payments, these establishments largely prevent unbanked customers from purchasing items or services from their stores. In an era of online shopping and payments made through apps on smart phones, one could assume that everyone is connected to a bank account and the technology that makes funds so readily available. In a financial hub like New York City, this ease in accessing cash may be expected. However, according to a report by the Urban Institute, commissioned by the Department of Consumer Affairs, there were 360,000 households in New York City (11.7% of the population) that had no bank accounts in 2013. This was well above the national average of 7.7% and the New York State average of 8.5%.² The Urban Institute report measured the frequency of households that were ‘underbanked,’ meaning that, while they may have a bank account, they still rely on other financial services to cash checks, transfer money or access a loan.³ In 2013, 780,000 households (25.1%) in New York City were underbanked, compared to the national average of 20%.⁴ For some underbanked households, the fees or overdraft fines means that a bank account stays active but the account holder cannot afford to make regular use of it.⁵

Across the City, the division of unbanked and underbanked households varies by borough. As illustrated in the graphs below, the Bronx has the highest percent of unbanked and underbanked households, and both the Bronx and Brooklyn have rates well above the national, State and City levels.

Unbanked households, 2013⁶

Underbanked households, 2013⁷

In addition to illustrating how different geographies are impacted, the figures on unbanked and underbanked households also highlight a link between poverty and unemployment rates. As seen in the graph below, the boroughs with the highest rates of family poverty also represented the greatest number of unbanked and underbanked households.

Characteristics and banking rates New York City and the five boroughs, 2013⁸

A deeper evaluation of the statistics shows this link at a neighborhood level as well. Those areas with a high share of poverty also have high rates of unbanked households. This is clearly illustrated in the graph below.

Neighborhoods with the highest shares of households without a bank account and corresponding share in poverty, 2013⁹

As these statistics show, not all communities would be affected in the same way by businesses that only accept cashless payments and poor communities are most likely impacted. Nationally, the data show a similar pattern. According to federal data from the same year (2013), “half of all Latino and African American households are disconnected from the financial system, compared to only about one in five white households.”¹⁰ This equated to 17.9% of Latino households being unbanked and 28.5% underbanked, and 21.4% of African American unbanked households and 33.1% underbanked.¹¹ Young people were also frequently unbanked with one in every four Americans under 35 either unbanked or underbanked.¹²

An exclusively cashless policy also potentially harms large numbers of immigrants and victims of domestic violence who face their own barriers to accessing bank accounts. In New York City, domestic violence survivors who live in confidential shelters are prohibited from disclosing their address. However, opening a bank account requires a physical and mailing address. This means that, in New York City, “90 percent of domestic violence shelter residents are unable to open safe and new accounts because they cannot provide a physical address.”¹³

Victims of domestic violence also face challenges when trying to close a joint account to which their abuser has access, and this impacts the victim’s ability to open a new account. Of the approximately 35,000 survivors of domestic violence in New York City who seek legal, financial and other support services, 14,000

(40%) do not have access to safe and reliable bank accounts. Meanwhile, 4,000 (13%) of these survivors have no bank account, and for 9,450 (27%) of the survivors, the bank accounts they may access are considered unsafe because their abusers also have access.¹⁴

Newly arrived or undocumented immigrants face similar challenges. They either do not have adequate paperwork and identification, face language barriers, or they are fearful of participating with official/quasi-government institutions. Immigrants also tend to be from lower socio-economic households and therefore fall under some of the categories illustrated above as minimum deposit requirements and fees pose financial barriers.¹⁵ According to national data, compared to U.S. citizens, noncitizens are three times as likely to be unbanked.¹⁶

Other Jurisdictions

Federal law does not mandate that businesses accept cash payments and rather permits states to regulate the issue by jurisdiction.¹⁷ Massachusetts was the first state to prohibit businesses from rejecting cash payments. The 1978 law frames the issue around discrimination and states that “[n]o establishment offering goods and services for sale shall discriminate against a cash buyer by requiring the use of credit by a buyer in order to purchase such goods and services. All such retail establishments must accept legal tender when offered as payment by the buyer.”¹⁸ In New Jersey, the state legislature recently enacted a bill that would make it illegal for point-of-sale retail stores to refuse cash payments and violators could face fines of up to $2,500 for a first offence.¹⁹ Similar bills have passed in Philadelphia²⁰ and San Francisco.²¹ In Chicago, Alderman Ed Burke has introduced an ordinance to prohibit retail and food establishments from refusing to accept cash, stating that “a ‘no cash’ sign is a ‘not welcome’ sign for many without ready access to credit including those who are low or fixed income, homeless, undocumented, young, or victims of identity theft”.²²

Other Issues and Concerns

By solely permitting cashless transactions, businesses may inadvertently construct a two-tiered purchasing system that stigmatizes cash purchases. Although it is legal tender, cash may become viewed as antiquated or dirty and thus those that rely on it could also be seen as inferior. While these views may be unintentional side-effects of an exclusively cashless policy, a small number of business owners have implemented cashless purchasing for precisely this reason. For example, in a widely reported quote from the co-owner of the now closed Commerce restaurant, Tony Zazula stated that “If you don’t have a credit card, you can use a debit card. If you don’t have a debit card, you probably don’t have a checking account. And if you don’t have a checking account, you probably shouldn’t be eating at Commerce to begin with.”²³ Although this view does not necessarily represent the business community as a whole, it does highlight the way that an exclusively cashless policy privileges some customers over others.

There are also flow-on effects from cash not being readily on hand by customers. As one writer articulates, “[w]hen cash is renounced you carry less of it, or maybe even none of it. And so you are not as prone to certain spontaneous acts of generosity — to put a few dollars in a tip jar where workers are underpaid or give money to a homeless person on a cold night on your way home from work.”²⁴ Studies also show that when people pay for items with cash, they feel the reality of the transaction more acutely. This means that more value is assigned to the purchase.²⁵ Switching to cash-only purchasing is also a common approach advocated by financial advisors when assisting people with budgeting as research consistently shows that people spend more when they pay with credit cards.²⁶ Paying with cash helps people budget more effectively and track their purchases more accurately,²⁷ and can therefore be a vital tool when managing one’s finances.

Given that they charge a fee for every electronic purchase, which can equate to between two and five percent of net sales,²⁸ it is clearly in the interest of credit card companies to encourage cashless transactions. In fact, in 2017, Visa declared a “war on cash” and offered up to 50 small food establishments $10,000 if they moved to a completely cashless system.²⁹ According to Visa Chief Executive Al Kelly, Visa is “focused on putting cash out of business.”³⁰ However, cashless transactions also force consumers to forgo their privacy. Like most online activities, cashless purchases allow tracking of consumer behavior. Such material is big business for data brokers. It enables them to collate, analyze and sell this information to companies, giving them an advantage by targeting their goods, services or even political messages to an identified and receptive audience. Cashless transactions also make customers vulnerable to having their account information hacked or their personal information stolen.

The unequal impact of cashless policies is cause for concern. While the technology provides a range of benefits for business owners, relying solely on cashless payments generates a segregated purchasing system. This policy poses great harm for certain parts of the populations, and statistics show that this is disproportionately felt by poor, marginalized and vulnerable communities.

III. BILL ANALYSIS

Proposed Int. 1281-A prohibits food and retail establishments from refusing to accept cash as a form of payment. Section 1 of the bill creates a new subchapter 21 in chapter 5 of Title 20 of the Administrative code, titled “CASHLESS ESTABLISHMENTS PROHIBITED.” Subdivision a of new section 20-840 sets out the definitions. Subdivision b prohibits food and retail establishments from refusing to accept payment in cash, except that they may refuse cash if bills in denominations over $20 are provided by a consumer. The exception for denominations over $20 was made after feedback regarding the circulation of fraudulent bills and the need for businesses to protect themselves. Online, phone and mail transactions are now also exempted unless the payment for such transaction occurs on the establishment’s premises. To alleviate any potential negative impacts of this bill, subdivision c was added to prohibit food and retail establishments from charging consumers who choose to pay in cash a higher price than cashless consumers. Pursuant to subdivision d, violators would face a fine of up to $1000 for a first offence and up to $1500 for subsequent offences. Subdivision e creates an exception in the bill for membership-based businesses that do not sell food, such as

RE: Finance Committee Agenda of July 23, 2019 – Resolution approving a tax exemption for five Land Use items (Council Districts 8, 9, 16, 17)

Item 1: St. Ann's Apartments

St. Ann's Apartments is comprised of 90 residential units across six buildings in the Longwood, Claremont Village, Melrose, and Mott Haven neighborhoods of the Bronx owned by St. Ann's Apartments LLC. The project contains four studio units, 19 one-bedroom units (inclusive of one superintendent unit), and 67 two-bedroom units (inclusive of two superintendent's units). There are also four commercial units throughout the properties.

Currently, a portion of the project receives an Urban Development Action Area Program (UDAAP) exemption from real property taxation which will expire in 2020, and another portion receives a J-51 exemption and/or abatement. The remainder of the portfolio receives both the UDAAP and J-51 Benefits.

The Department of Housing Preservation and Development (“HPD”) is requesting the Council to approve a full, 40-year Article XI property tax exemption. St. Ann’s Portfolio Housing Development Fund Corporation (“HDFC”) will acquire the properties and St. Ann’s Apartments LLC would be the beneficial owner and would operate the properties. The HDFC and the LLC would finance the acquisition and rehabilitation of the properties with loans from HPD and the New York City Housing Development Corporation (“HDC”), and an equity contribution from CPC Community Capital Advisors. The HDFC, LLC, and HPD would enter into a regulatory agreement that would require that five units be rented only to households earning up to 50% of the Area Median Income (“AMI”), 53 units be rented only to households earning up to 60% of AMI, and 29 units be rented only to households earning up to 80% of AMI. Additionally, there would be a 15% homeless set aside of 14 units in the project. Upon approval of the Article XI property tax exemption, the UDAAP exemption would be terminated and replaced with the new Article XI tax exemption, which would be reduced by an amount equal to any concurrent J-51 Benefits.

Item 2: 603 Pontiac Place

603 Pontiac Place is located at the corner of Jackson Avenue and Pontiac Place in the Morrisania neighborhood of the South Bronx. Once developed, 603 Pontiac Place will include

On June 21, 2016, the Council approved Resolution No. 1148 approving a full, 40-year Article XI property tax exemption for 603 Pontiac Place in the Bronx. The exemption was provided to facilitate the construction of a seven story building containing 25 residential rental units comprised of a mix of 15 one- and 10 two-bedroom apartments, and a community facility space, a commercial space, and a tenant storage space. HPD is now requesting that the Council approve a technical amendment to the prior resolution to include reference to the community facility space and to clarify that it is subject to the property tax exemption.

Items 3-5: Putnam Portfolio (The Heritage, River Crossing, Miles and Parker)

L+M Workforce Housing Fund, LP (“L+M WHF”), along with its partner Invesco VAF V Investments LLC (“Invesco”) is acquiring a 1,619-unit, four-property portfolio (River Crossing, Miles, Parker, and The Heritage) located in Central Park North and East Harlem.

The four properties were constructed between 1975 and 1980 and were operated separately as Mitchell-Lama rentals until 2005. In that year, Cammeby’s International Group (“Cammeby”) purchased all the properties and removed them from the Mitchell-Lama program. The units were not required to be rent-stabilized at Mitchell-Lama exit due to the building’s construction after 1974. As a result, the properties are not currently regulated, although tenants in occupancy at Mitchell-Lama exit earning less than 95% AMI received Enhanced Section 8 Vouchers. The properties have since changed ownership twice.

Under the proposed project, 1,084 of the units of rental housing would be preserved by placing all properties under separate Article XI regulatory agreements. The transaction would be structured as three separate Article XI preservation transactions. Upon acquisition, the new owners would invest approximately $45 million across the portfolio on repair and upgrade work, including roof and façade work, elevator upgrades, in-unit work, green upgrades, and the addition of amenities for tenants including gyms and co-working spaces for the properties with available space. All tenants who currently receive Section 8 vouchers would continue to do so and all other existing tenants would be subject only to rent increases within the Rent Guideline Board allowances for the duration of their tenancies.

HPD is requesting the Council approve a partial, 40-year Article XI property tax exemption for each of the three properties. In each case, an HDFC would acquire the property and an LLC would be the beneficial owner and operate the properties. The HDFC and LLC would finance the acquisition and rehabilitation of the properties with a loan from a private lending institution and would enter a regulatory agreement with HPD establishing certain controls over the property.

Item 3: The Heritage

The Heritage is a three-tower complex containing 600 residential units, 267 with tenant-based Section 8 vouchers, and 331 paying market rents. The remaining two units are superintendent units.

The Heritage site has over 200,000 square feet of as-of-right excess Floor Area Ratio (“FAR”) associated with the on-site parking lot. The purchaser proposes that any potential development at The Heritage would be built as per the rent and income restrictions consistent with HPD’s Extremely Low and Low-Income Affordability (“ELLA”) term sheet.

The HDFC, LLC, and HPD would enter into a regulatory agreement that approximately one-third of the units in The Heritage would remain unrestricted, while the remaining units would be restricted by regulatory tiers that would require that 134 units be rented only to households earning up to 80% of AMI, and that 268 units be rented only to households earning up to 145% of AMI. The project also includes a homeless placement requirement equal to 41 units, or ten percent of the affordable units.

Summary:

- Borough – Manhattan
- Block 1616, Lot 1
- Council District – 9
- Council Member – Perkins
- Council Member approval – Yes
- Number of buildings – 3
- Number of units – 600
- Type of exemption – Article XI, partial, 40-years
- Population – affordable rental housing
- Sponsor – Heritage Holdings Housing Development Fund Corporation, Heritage Holdings LLC, L&M Development Partners
- Purpose – preservation
- Cost to the City – $92.8
- Housing Code Violations
 - Class A – 44
 - Class B – 57
 - Class C – 9
- AMI targets – 134 units at 80% AMI, 268 units at 145%, 196 units at market-rate

Item 4: River Crossing

River Crossing consists of two 13-story residential buildings totaling 614 residential units and 12 commercial units. Of those units, 195 currently have tenants holding Section 8 vouchers, and 417 units are unrestricted. The remaining two units are superintendent units.

A portion of the River Crossing property is encumbered by a ground lease between the City and the owner of the River Crossing complex. The lease site contains a 147-unit residential project and a commercial parking garage and also provides easements for the City to operate and maintain a school on an adjacent parcel. The ground lease site is not included in this transaction or in the exemption area.

The HDFC, LLC, and HPD would enter into a regulatory agreement where approximately one-third of the units in River Crossing will remain unrestricted, while the remaining units will be rent-restricted and placed in regulatory tiers that would require that 171 units be rented only to households earning up to 80% of AMI, 185 units be rented only to households earning up to 135% of AMI, and that 154 units be rented only to households earning up to 145% of AMI. The project would also include a homeless placement requirement equal to 51 units, or ten percent of the affordable units.

Item 5: Miles & Parker

The Miles is a 32-story residential building with 341 residential units and three commercial spaces. The Parker is a nine-story fully residential building with 64 units. Combined, they hold 405 residential units, 172 units with tenant-based Section 8 vouchers and 231 units paying unrestricted rents. The remaining two units are superintendent units.

The Parker site has at least 51,000 square feet of as-of-right excess FAR associated with under-utilized open space that is currently a parking lot. The project sponsor proposes to develop the excess FAR as per the rent and income restrictions consistent with HPD's ELLA term sheet.

The HDFC, LLC, and HPD would enter into a regulatory agreement where approximately one-third of the units in Miles & Parker would remain unrestricted, while the remaining units would be placed in regulatory tiers that would require that 86 units be rented only to households earning up to 80% of AMI, 94 units be rented only to households earning up to 135% of AMI, and that 92 units be rented only to households earning up to 145% of AMI. The project would also include a homeless placement requirement equal to 28 units, or ten percent of the affordable units.

Mamma Maria Salumeria was an institution in what is amorously referred to as "Italian Williamsburg." In a changing Williamsburg, he opened his doors and his arms to all families of all backgrounds. As an immigrant himself, he also realized that this City was gritty and discriminated against newcomers. If local schools needed food catered for fundraisers, if the nearby senior center, Swinging 60's, needed support for programming, or if a family needed help clothing their newborn child, he always donated his money to help the people of the community. On September 11, 2001, he did not hesitate to help the only way he knew how by extending his business and compassion to first responders, leaving his business open for police officers and firefighters. Even thereafter, Mamma Salumeria donated food and funds for families of the deceased and for their memorial services. In Williamsburg, he is remembered as a local mayor and a kind and generous spirit. Everyone he exchanged with was an extension of his family. The Committee previously heard testimony on these bills from the Department of Small Businesses Services ("SBS"), advocates and other stakeholders, and their feedback informed various amendments.

New York City can be a challenging place for small businesses to operate. In addition to adhering to occasionally complex regulatory schemes enforced by multiple City agencies, business owners confront hurdles including rising rents, taxation, competition from chain stores and e-commerce retailers, and various zoning restrictions. Over the course of the last year, a slew of beloved local establishments across the city closed amid skyrocketing costs. Last January, Langan's Bar in Midtown shut down when its landlord tripled the rent after 25 years of operation.¹ Tortilla Flats, which had been a mainstay of the West Village since 1983, ceased operations last October due to a rent dispute.² 2018 was also the final year for Cornelia Street Café, which had been a magnet for artists, poets, and intellectuals for more than 40 years. Even though demand was sufficient to book more than 700 shows per year at the venue, the café's owner noted that its monthly rent of $33,000 was 77 times greater than it had been when it first opened.³ It is worth noting, however, that prominent closures were not limited to bars and restaurants. Lincoln Plaza Cinemas, an independent theater that had been open for 37 years, screened its last film.⁴ In July, rising rents forced North Shore Hardware in Little Neck, which had been open for nearly 70 years, to shut down permanently.⁵

a. Rising Rents

In recent years, New York City retailers have struggled to afford rent. Between 2006 and 2016, average Manhattan retail asking rents rose from $108 per square foot (psf) annually to $156, an increase of 44.4 percent.⁶ The most acute growth took place in Midtown South, where rents rose from $85 psf to $143 psf, an increase of 68.2 percent.⁷ However, rising prices are not limited to Manhattan. According to a 2017 report published by CPEX, a commercial real estate company, the number of major Brooklyn retail corridors where floor space costs $100 or more psf increased from three in 2007 to 15 in 2017, an increase of 400 percent.⁸ This trend has spanned neighborhoods including Park Slope, Williamsburg, Cobble Hill, Downtown Brooklyn, Brooklyn Heights and Boerum Hill.⁹

b. Taxation

Taxation issues also pose difficulties for New York City retailers. For years, business owners and advocates lamented the commercial rent tax (CRT), a 3.9 percent levy on annual rent applied to Manhattan businesses that pay an annualized base rent of $250,000 or more.¹⁰ In 2017, the CRT accounted for more than $800 million in revenue for the City.¹¹ However, opponents of the tax, such as the New York City Hospitality Alliance and the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, argued for its abolition on the grounds that it placed a geographically-arbitrary burden on businesses that were already struggling to afford to stay in operation.¹² In November of 2017, the Council passed, and the Mayor signed, legislation that effectively raised the threshold

c. Competition with Chain Stores

In some respects, competing with chain stores can place “mom-and-pop” retailers at a competitive disadvantage. Franchisees receive substantial assistance from parent companies in acquiring equipment, supplies and marketing products. These advantages mean that operating an outlet of a nationally-known business can be highly lucrative. According to QSR Magazine, which provides research and information about the fast-food industry, Panera, McDonalds, Chipotle, Wendy’s and Burger King all reported average sales per unit of more than $1.3 million in 2016.¹⁵ Statistics from the Center for an Urban Future (CUF) indicate that 2017 was the ninth consecutive year where there was a net increase in national chain stores citywide.¹⁶ For the ninth consecutive year, Dunkin’ Donuts has the largest presence of any national retailer, with 612 stores throughout the city. MetroPCS, Subway, Starbucks and T-Mobile complete the top five chain stores, with 445, 433, 317 and 236 locations, respectively.¹⁷ The Bronx, Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Queens all had more chain outlets in 2017 than they did in 2016.¹⁸ Between 2008 and 2017, the fastest-growing categories were frozen yogurt (283 percent), cell phones (267 percent), grocery stores (220 percent), department stores (144 percent) and wholesale clubs (117 percent).¹⁹

d. Rise of E-commerce

Additionally, the rise of e-commerce and the restrictions posed by zoning regulations cause difficulties for local business owners. Nationwide, e-commerce now accounts for approximately 10 percent of all retail sales, a significant increase from its share of less than one percent in 2000.²⁰ Moreover, between the third quarter of 2013 and the third quarter of 2016, the growth rate of online retail sales grew almost 16 percent year-over-year while brick-and-mortar retail stagnated.²¹ Between 2010 and 2016, the number of e-commerce jobs in New York City doubled to nearly 10,000.²² The City has not yet conducted a comprehensive, longitudinal study of the specific disruptive impact that e-commerce has had on traditional retail.²³ Moreover, more than eight percent of all retail space located in the city are in residential districts that lack commercial overlays, which are enhancements to residential districts that allow for limited commercial usage on lower floors.²⁴ However, if a business operates in an area that lacks a commercial overlay, it may not expand. These spaces are known as “non-conforming” to zoning and are illegal for commercial use if they are left vacant for two years.²⁵ Brooklyn has the largest number of these types of retail spaces, with more than eight million square feet, and it is followed by Manhattan, with just under five million square feet of this type of retail space.²⁶

III. NEED FOR STATISTICAL DATA

A series of informal studies conducted by elected officials have shed some light on the issue of pervasive vacancies in the retail sector. In 2017, the “Bleaker on Bleecker” study published by the office of State Senator

Brad Hoylman (D-Manhattan) found an 18.4 percent vacancy rate along Bleecker Street from 6th to 8th Avenues and a 9.8 percent overall vacancy rate along First Avenue from 10th to 23rd Streets, Second Avenue from 3rd to 14th Streets, and Eighth Avenue from 15th to 22nd Streets.²⁷ A 2017 report from Manhattan Borough President Gale Brewer found 188 empty storefronts spanning the entirety of Broadway.²⁸ Staff for Council Member Helen Rosenthal calculated vacancy rates of approximately 14 percent on Broadway and Amsterdam Avenues, both popular shopping corridors of the Upper West Side. Each of these efforts has highlighted a different aspect of the larger issue of vacancies, there is currently not enough data to ascertain the full scope of the issue.²⁹

Such dataset would contain the following data disaggregated by council district and census tract: the median and average total duration of leases; the median and average remaining term to lease expiration; the median and average size of rentable floor area per premises lease; the number of such premises reported as being leased and vacant; the median and average rent; and the number of such premises whose lease is due to expire within two years of the current calendar year. REPORTS:

I. INTRODUCTION

On July 23, 2019, the Committee on Standards and Ethics, chaired by Council Member Steven Matteo, will hold a hearing and vote on Proposed Int. No. 1272-A, in relation to amending reporting and donor disclosure requirements for organizations affiliated with elected officials. This bill was previously heard by the committee on December 3, 2018.

Campaign for One New York

In 2013, then-candidate Bill de Blasio made the proposal for universal pre-kindergarten one of the central issues of his campaign for Mayor. After winning the election, but before taking office, he announced “a grassroots campaign” that would be “an extraordinary effort, to ensure that this legislation is passed in Albany.”¹ That campaign was then called “UPK NYC,” although its name was later changed to Campaign for One New York (“CONY”), and it was incorporated in New York State as a 501(c)(4) tax-exempt organization on December 12, 2013.²

CONY did not register as a political committee with the New York State Board of Elections, but did file as a lobbyist with the New York State Joint Commission on Public Ethics.³ While CONY is the best known such organization, in May 2015 ‘The Progressive Agenda to Combat Income Inequality’ was launched by CONY as its own 501(c)(4) and in February 2016 ‘United for Affordable NYC’ was also incorporated as a 501(c)(4) with CONY being a significant source of its funding.⁴

According to the Campaign Finance Board, many of the contributions received by CONY “greatly exceeded” $4,950 “and/or were from sources that [would have been] prohibited from contributing to campaigns. Contributions have included hundreds of thousands of dollars from entities with business before the City, at least $1.3 million from unions, and more than $1 million from real estate interests. [Campaign for One New York] has also reported that it paid $500,000 to BerlinRosen, $284,000 to Hilltop Public Solutions (“Hilltop”), $325,000 to Greenberg Quinlan Rosner Research (“Greenberg”) and $1.4 million to AKPD Message and Media (“AKPD”), all companies with ties to Mr. de Blasio and his 2013 mayoral campaign (“the 2013 Campaign”).”⁵ And, Mayor de Blasio was described as actively engaging in fundraising on behalf of CONY, as well as attending its meetings.⁶

Among CONY’s efforts were public communications featuring Mayor de Blasio’s name or image. These included messages on social media platforms, three of seven videos created by CONY that featured either the Mayor or his wife, and over 200,000 robocalls that offered “some breaking news about Mayor de Blasio’s game-changing plan” for universal pre-kindergarten and stated that the NYS Assembly had just agreed to fund the Mayor’s plan, then thanked the Assembly for its leadership. Additionally, CONY paid for a mailer to homes in Brooklyn concerning Long Island College Hospital, the redevelopment of which was a distinct issue from universal pre-kindergarten, in which a Carroll Gardens resident states “I was asked by Mayor de Blasio to share my views on what this means for families in Cobble Hill, Carroll Gardens, Brooklyn Heights, Boerum Hill, downtown Brooklyn and Red Hook... The outcome is much better than we expected.”⁷ United for Affordable NYC similarly featured Mayor de Blasio in its communications.⁸

On February 22, 2016, Common Cause/NY sent a letter to the Campaign Finance Board and the Conflicts of Interest Board expressing its belief that the establishment, solicitation of funds, and transfer of funds between CONY and United for Affordable NYC, were violations of the City’s campaign finance laws and conflict of interest laws.⁹

On July 6, 2016 the Campaign Finance Board (“CFB”) issued Final Board Determination 2016-1, in the matter of Campaign for One New York and United for Affordable NYC, which addressed the complaint made by Common Cause/NY as well as the CFB’s own investigation, and Advisory Opinion 2016-1, to provide guidance for candidates about cooperating with groups that make expenditures for issue advocacy. In their determination, the CFB pointed out that CONY was established by the Mayor to support and promote his policy agenda, was run by his closest advisors, and staffed by personnel and consultants from his 2013 campaign, but their role was to determine if the expenditures made by CONY were in connection with the Mayor’s 2017 re-election campaign. Ultimately, the CFB decided that, to the extent current law and the CFB’s jurisdiction permitted them to consider the issue, the public communications spending that occurred in 2014, in support of universal pre-kindergarten, was not technically “in connection” with the 2017 re-election campaign, with the timing being a heavily weighted factor. Had such communications and spending occurred in an election year, then such communications would have been presumed to be related to the candidate’s campaign. Yet, the CFB also stated that it would monitor if goods and services provided to and paid for by CONY end up benefiting the 2017 campaign, and did not consider that matter closed.¹⁰

The CFB also called on the City Council “to pass legislation to close this loophole and amend the law to more closely regulate fundraising by elected officials and their agents for non-profit organizations, especially 501(c)(4) entities. In addition to placing clear limits on fundraising solicitations, any reform should include comprehensive public disclosure, and audits to ensure the disclosure is complete and accurate. The financial reporting we have seen to date does not meet this standard. The Campaign for One New York does not make its contributions or expenditures available for public viewing online.”¹¹

In March of 2016, CONY announced that it would disband¹² despite having continued to raise and spend money up until February of 2016, reaching a total of $4.4 million raised during its existence, the majority of which was found by POLITICO New York to be from donors either with business before or labor contracts with the City.¹³

Local Law 181 of 2016

In 2016, in response to the above described events, the City Council passed Local Law 181 of 2016, in relation to conflicts of interest and organizations affiliated with elected officials.¹⁴ That law created donor disclosure requirements for organizations closely affiliated with, or controlled by, elected officials or their agents. The disclosure requirements apply to all such organizations, whether or not they engage in elected official communications. The law also established restrictions on fundraising above $400 per year from people who do business with the City, which apply to those organizations that spend 10% or more of their budget on elected official communications. Organizations that are only required to file disclosure reports under the law are generally referred to as ‘unrestricted organizations,’ while those that are engaging in elected official communications and so have additional restrictions placed on their operations are generally referred to as ‘restricted organizations.’¹⁵

The Conflicts of Interest Board (“COIB”), which was charged with implementing Local Law 181, has previously required reporting and public disclosure on fundraising for ‘City affiliated’ not-for-profits, pursuant to Advisory Opinion 2003-4. Pursuant to that opinion, in relevant part, all City offices and agencies are required to report twice a year all donations received by a not-for-profit entity affiliated with that office or agency which exceed $5,000 in aggregate value from a single donor.¹⁶ The names of donors are required to be disclosed pursuant to AO 2003-4, albeit with some provision for anonymity where security, public safety or confidentiality concerns may warrant precluding such disclosure.¹⁷

Although Local Law 181 and AO 2003-4 are distinct, and the former was not meant to necessarily supplant the latter, by their similar subject and focus it could be expected that there would be some overlap in the organizations covered by the two. However, Local Law 181 established its own specific criteria for inclusion and it is possible that an organization might be considered affiliated for the purposes of one, but not for the other.

Additionally, Local Law 181’s reporting requirements are similar but distinct from those of AO 2003-4. While Local Law 181 requires reporting on donations, the threshold minimums are lower with any donation above $1,000 required to be reported as well as any donation of any amount from a person doing business with the City.¹⁸ However, in order to determine if a donor is doing business with the City, an organization would need to check every donor for every donation received. Organizations with large quantities of smaller donations, such as those that utilize collection boxes or membership programs, might have difficulty complying with the law as written. And, such smaller donations, as they are unlikely to be particularly influential, are not of the kind, described above, that raised such concerns that led to the passage of Local Law 181.

Additionally, in interpreting the law, COIB passed a rule setting forth the steps that would be required for organizations to follow in order to determine if a donor is doing business with the City, including: 1) checking the name of the donor against the City’s Doing Business Database, both at time of donation and 180 days after; 2) consulting the organization’s records, including prior donor written submissions, to determine if the donor was a household member of a person in the City’s Doing Business Database, 3) consulting the organizations affiliated elected official or agent, each board member of the organization, and each principal officer of the organization, to see if any of them believe the donor is a household member of a person listed the Doing Business Database, and 4) requesting the names of spouses or partners from donors so such names can be checked in the database as well.¹⁹ This elaborate process, that each organization is required to follow for each donation, stands in somewhat stark comparison to the process followed by the Campaign Finance Board, wherein it simply performs a factual check of each campaign contributor to determine if they are in the database.²⁰

As a result, concerns have been raised by unrestricted organizations that Local Law 181’s reporting requirements are unduly administratively burdensome and difficult to implement in practice.

III. LEGISLATIVE ANALYSIS

Proposed Int. No. 1272-A

Proposed Int. No. 1272-A, in relation to amending reporting and donor disclosure requirements for organizations affiliated with elected officials, would amend the requirements codified by Local Law 181 of 2016 in several ways, almost entirely in relation to unrestricted organizations.

¹⁵ See 53 R.C.N.Y. § 3-01.

¹⁹ 53 R.C.N.Y. §3-04(a)(5)

²⁰ NYC Admin. Code §3-703(1-b)

First, the bill would amend the existing law’s single reporting requirement, applicable to both unrestricted and restricted organizations, into separate reporting requirements for each.

Second, the reporting requirement for restricted organizations would be largely the same to the existing reporting requirement, albeit with a few clarifications. The determination of if a person is doing business with the City is a factual, and not subjective, determination based on if the person is listed in the City’s Doing Business Database. Therefore, the bill would remove language about reporting if the organization ‘knows’ if a donor had business dealings with the City, which could be read subjectively, and replace it with a more straight-forward requirement to report on any donations from a person or persons with business dealings with the City, which is determined by their presence in the database, on the date of such donation, or within 180 days thereafter. It would also clarify that reporting on donations in excess of $1,000 is meant to include where the aggregate value of all donations from a donor in that calendar year exceeds that amount. It would also remove the requirement to provide a certification regarding ‘elected official communications’ since every organization reporting under this requirement would already, by definition, be engaging in elected official communications and such a certification requirement would be moot. These clarifications would not change the substance of what is required to be reported by restricted organizations, and, if anything, could be read as making such reporting requirements more stringent.

Third, a new reporting requirement for unrestricted organizations would be established. Such report would require: the name of the organization; the name or names of the elected official or agent with whom the organization is affiliated; the names of the principal officers and board members of the organization; whether such organization has tax-exempt status; the website of the organization (if any); a certification that the organization did not spend at least 10% of its expenditures on elected official communications; and several new requirements regarding donations.

Instead of the prior donor reporting requirements, unrestricted organizations would now report donations in excess of an aggregate reasonable value of $5,000. It should be noted that this amount is the same threshold as is required currently under AO 2003-4, discussed above. However, if an organization wishes to accept a donation from a person that does not wish to have their identity made public, then the donation would still be required to be reported to the Conflicts of Interest Board, but the name of the donor could be substituted with anonymizing language.

Finally, the bill would require the Conflicts of Interest Board to post the information from such reports to its website in a machine readable format that permits automated processing.

The law would go into effect on January 1, 2019, provided that if it becomes law after such date then it would be deemed retroactive to such date.

Report of the Committee on Transportation

Report for Int. No. 84-A

Report of the Committee on Transportation in favor of approving and adopting, as amended, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to summer school calendars and clarifying the enforcement of parking regulations near schools.

The Committee on Transportation, to which the annexed proposed amended local law was referred on January 31, 2018 (Minutes, page 224), respectfully

REPORTS:

INTRODUCTION

On July 22, 2019 the Transportation Committee chaired by Council Member Ydanis Rodriguez, held a hearing on Int. No. 84-A, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to summer school calendars and clarifying the enforcement of parking regulations near schools, Int. No. 570-A, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to waiving parking violations when a parking sign is illegible, Int. No. 886-A, a Local Law in relation to a pilot program for allowing pet harbors to be placed on sidewalks adjacent to commercial establishments, and Int. No. 1457-A, a Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to bicyclists following pedestrian control signals.

This was the second hearing that the committee held on these items. The first hearing on Int. No. 84 was held on June 12, 2018. The first hearing on both Int. No. 570 and Int. No. 886 was held on October 29, 2018, and the first hearing on Int. No. 1457 was held on June 12, 2019. During the hearings the committee heard testimony from the Department of Transportation (DOT) and various other stakeholders.

BACKGROUND

Parking Regulations

The DOT has broad regulatory authority over the flow of traffic, parking regulations, and the use of streets.¹ The City's parking regulations govern where vehicles can stop, stand and park in the city. There are three types of signage that indicate parking rules:

- Parking prohibited signs: permit temporarily picking up or dropping off passengers whether the vehicle is attended or unattended;
- Standing prohibited signs: indicate that a vehicle cannot stop at the curb, attended or unattended, except for dropping off passengers; and
- Stopping prohibited signs: indicate that no one can stop a vehicle for any reason

In general, all of New York City is considered a "Tow Away Zone" under the State's Vehicle and Traffic law (VTL) and "double parking" is illegal at all times, including when street cleaning is occurring, regardless of location purpose or durations, even if a vehicle is occupied.²

It is frequently argued, and studies show, that the lack of enforcement of parking rules can lead to congestion. Many parking regulations such as alternate side parking (ASP), metered parking, as well as parking restrictions for commercial deliveries and trucks, all play a role vehicle movement.³

Even permanent rules and regulations related to parking can be confusing for drivers. For example, DOT's regulations restricting parking near schools indicate that parking in school zones (the streets bordering a school) is permitted when school is in recess, but some schools may be open on holidays and during summer vacations, so parking restrictions would remain in effect.⁴ Currently, the only way for a driver to be certain of whether a school is open is to contact the school directly.⁵

Alternate Side Parking

The City's Department of Sanitation (DSNY) works with DOT and the New York Police Department (NYPD) to enforce street cleaning rules, also known as Alternate Side Parking (ASP) rules. According to DOT, some areas of the city have a three-hour restriction on designated days of the week, but the specific times vary throughout the city.⁶ For example, some streets in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn have street cleaning regulations that are limited to an hour and a half on their designated day. Here is an example of an alternate side parking sign detailing street cleaning regulations:

www.nyc.gov/dot

Available parking spaces are often difficult to find in many areas of the city. ASP is an example of a measure imposed by the City to balance the public good of street cleanliness with inconvenience that some residents may experience. The City has made some concessions by suspending ASP on legal and religious holidays and under emergency circumstances such as severe snow storms.⁷ The ASP suspension calendar published by DOT indicates that the rules will be suspended for a total of 43 days in 2018.⁸

Parking Violations

Parking rules are regulated by DOT, enforced by NYPD, and fines for violating parking rules are paid to the Department of Finance (DOF). Parking rules are indicated by street signage. According to DOT, if one or more signs are posted in an area, the more restrictive sign is in effect.⁹ If a sign is missing on a block, the remaining posted signs are the ones in effect and a driver should check the block before parking.¹⁰ DOT's website includes an interactive map that allows an individual to search, among other things, the parking rules on any street in the city.¹¹

Parking fines vary by the violation code, the number of offense, and area of city as some parking violations are higher south of Manhattan's 96th Street.¹² Parking ticket amounts can range from $65 in Manhattan for parking while street cleaning is in effect to $115 for double parking citywide.¹³ If an individual receives a parking fine, they must pay the fine within 30 days or additional amounts are added to the penalty depending on the lateness of the payment.¹⁴

A person can dispute a parking ticket and DOF's website indicates several reasons for disputing tickets including if signs are missing, hard to read, or different from the regulation that is noted on the ticket. A person can submit clear photographs of the entire block from corner to corner.¹⁵

In fiscal year 2018, there were 2.7 million parking tickets issued.¹⁶ According to the 2018 Mayor's Management Report, 63.2 percent of the people who received parking tickets during fiscal year 2018 paid within 90 days.¹⁷ DOF recently implemented a "Pay or Dispute" mobile app, which now makes it possible to request a hearing as soon as a summons is received. Additionally, DOF's website "Hearings by Web" has created a more streamlined process to pay summonses online. As a result, the number of parking ticket hearings increased from over 900,000 in fiscal year 2017 to 1.1 million in fiscal year 2018.

Pet Harbors

According to the New York City Economic Development Corporation (NYCEDC), there were approximately 425,000 dogs living as pets in homes throughout the city's five boroughs.¹⁸ A 2015 survey conducted by The Harris Poll found that 95% of all pet owners consider their pets to be part of their families.¹⁹ In order for dogs to remain healthy, they need to maintain a proper diet, get regular exercise and grooming, and have routine medical check-ups with veterinarians.²⁰

In New York City, dogs are required to be licensed with the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.²¹ They must also be on leash no longer than six feet while being walked,²² unless they are in parks that have dog runs or designated off-leash areas.²³ It is also illegal in New York City to take a dog into a restaurant or any other place of business that serves food.²⁴ However, recently enacted New York State legislation allows restaurants with outdoor seating areas to permit owners to take their dogs into those outdoor areas.²⁵

Some retail businesses in the city have instituted a “no pets allowed” policy unless it’s a service dog. As a result, some pet owners might tie their dogs to a fence or a pole outside of the place of business that they are patronizing.²⁶ This can be unhealthy for pets during extreme weather days when the temperatures can be either very cold or very hot, as it may lead to frostbite and hypothermia in the winter²⁷ or heatstroke in the summer.²⁸ It may also lead to dogs barking excessively, thus creating a disturbance for people on the street.

Some jurisdictions allow for an “animal harbor” to be placed outside of businesses.²⁹ For a fee, these animal harbors allow potential customers to place their pets in an enclosed, climate-controlled environment for short period of time while they are shopping. Recently, several New York State Thruway Service Areas have allowed travelers to have access to these small animal harbors in places like Ulster County and the Village of Sloatsburg.³⁰

Leading Pedestrian Intervals

In order to increase safety for pedestrians crossing the street, DOT utilizes a leading pedestrian interval (“LPI”) at certain locations, which gives pedestrians a three to seven second head start when entering an intersection by displaying a “Walk” signal to pedestrians prior to displaying the green signal to drivers traveling in the same direction.³¹ This enhances the visibility of pedestrians in the intersection and reinforces their right of way over turning vehicles. DOT has installed LPIs at intersections throughout all five boroughs.³² A 2013 study found that 44 percent of pedestrians injured by drivers in the street in Manhattan and western Brooklyn were struck while crossing in the crosswalk with the right-of-way.³³ According to the National Association of City Transportation Officials, LPI's have been shown to reduce pedestrian-vehicle collisions as much as 60 percent at those intersections where they have been installed.³⁴ A 2016 study by DOT of 478 City intersections found that the installation of LPIs resulted in a 14 percent decrease in left-turn pedestrian and bicyclist injuries and a 56 percent decrease in deaths and serious injuries.³⁵ As of 2018, DOT has installed 2,951 LPIs across the City.³⁶

LPIs also have the potential to reduce conflicts between motorists and those using a bicycle. Int. No. 1457 would allow bicyclists crossing a roadway at an intersection follow pedestrian control signals when local law, rule, or regulation provides that those signals supersede traffic control signals.

Following the introduction of a prior version of Int. No. 1457 during the previous Council session,³⁷ DOT began a seven-month pilot that allowed cyclists to follow an LPI at 50 intersections across the City.³⁸ DOT found that “the vast majority of people biking currently proceed on the LPI and no conflicts or near misses were observed.”³⁹ Thus, DOT recommended that those using a bicycle be allowed to follow pedestrian signals citywide, provided that users yield to pedestrians and that DOT could exempt certain intersections through signage.⁴⁰

ANALYSIS OF INT. NO. 84-A

Section one of Int. No. 84-A amends the heading of Chapter 17 of Title 21-A of the Administrative Code to read “Distribution of information regarding summer school and meals”.

Section two of Int. No. 84-A amends Chapter 17 of Title 21-A by adding a new section 21-979.1. Subdivision a of this new section defines school building as any buildings, grounds, facilities, property, or portion thereof, owned or leased by the department or over which the department has care, custody and control, in which there is a public school, including a charter school. Subdivision b of this new section requires that, no later than June 30 of each year, the Department of Education shall post on its website information regarding the forthcoming summer school session, including but not limited to the locations of school buildings where summer school will be provided and the dates on which summer school will be in session at each such school building. The Department of Education would still be able to make any change to such locations and such dates after June 30, provided that the Department of Education update the information posted on its website regarding such locations and dates as appropriate. Subdivision c of this new section requires that, no later than June 30 of each year, the DOT shall post on its website information on the locations of school buildings and summer school dates posted in accordance with subdivision b of this new section, and for each such school building where there are parking restrictions on a street immediately adjacent to such school building that are in effect only on school days, that such restrictions are in effect on such summer school dates.

Section three of Int. 84-A provides that this local law takes effect September 1, 2019.

ANALYSIS OF INT. NO. 570-A

Section one of Int. No. 570-A amends Chapter 1 of Title 19 of the Administrative Code by adding a new section 19-175.7. This new section provides that, notwithstanding any rule or regulation to the contrary, when a notice of violation is issued to an owner of a vehicle for failure to observe a parking sign, it shall be an affirmative defense to such violation, with the burden of proof on the vehicle owner charged with such notice of violation, that both sides of such sign were not legible. If there are other legible parking signs on the same blockface that apply to the parking space and parking violation at issue, such affirmative defense will not be available. The term “blockface” has the same meaning as set forth in section 19-167.4.

Section two of Int. No. 570-A provides that this local law takes effect 90 days after it becomes law.

ANALYSIS OF INT. NO. 866-A

Subdivision a of section one of Int. No. 866-A defines certain terms. The term “companion animal” is defined as having the same meaning set forth in section 17-199.5 of the administrative code. The term “pet harbor” is defined as an enclosed stationary self-service container that allows an owner to leave their companion animals unattended in an enclosure for no longer than one hour. The term “service animal” is defined as an animal that performs a task or a specific set of tasks to assist a person with a disability.

Subdivision b of section one of Int. 866-A mandates that an agency or office designated by the mayor establish a pilot program for the placement of pet harbors on sidewalks adjacent to commercial establishments, and sets forth requirements for pet harbors used in the program.

Subdivision c of section one of Int. 866-A requires that the agency or office designated by the mayor to create the pilot program promulgate rules determining the geographic boundaries of the pilot program, creating requirements related to the placement and design of pet harbors, setting out procedures for educating commercial establishments about companion and service animals and creating permits and application processes.

Subdivision d of section one of Int. 866-A establishes that the pilot program will exist for a duration of at least one year, and requires that the agency or office operating the pet harbor program submit a report to the speaker of the council on the results of the program by March 31, 2020.

Subdivision e of section one of Int. No. 866-A would allow the department of consumer affairs, the department of transportation and the police department to provide for the removal of any pet harbor in violation of this local law or any rules promulgated pursuant to the law.

Subdivision f of section one of Int. No. 866-A creates a civil penalty of no more than $500 for any person found in violation of this local law or any rule promulgated pursuant to the law.

Section two of Int. No. 866-A provides that the local law takes effect 120 days after it becomes law.

ANALYSIS OF INT. NO. 1457-A

Section one of Int. No. 1457-A amends Subchapter 3 of Chapter 1 of Title 19 of the Administrative Code by adding a new section 19-195.1. Subdivision a of this new section defines certain terms. The term “crosswalk” is defined as that part of a roadway, whether marked or unmarked, which is included within the extension of the sidewalk lines between opposite sides of the roadway at an intersection. The term “intersection” is defined as the same as such term is defined in section 120 of the vehicle and traffic law or successor provision. The term “pedestrian” is defined as the same as such term is defined in section 130 of the vehicle and traffic law or successor provision.

Subdivision b of this new section provides that a person operating a bicycle while crossing an intersection shall follow pedestrian control signals except where otherwise indicated by traffic control devices. Such person would be required to yield to pedestrians in the crosswalk. Subdivision c of this new section provides that the commissioner of the Department of Transportation may promulgate such rules and regulations necessary to effectuate this section.

Section two of Int. 1457-A provides that this local law takes effect 120 days after it becomes law, except that the except that the commissioner of the Department of Transportation shall take such measures as are necessary for the implementation of this local law, including the promulgation of rules, prior to such date.

UPDATE

On July 22, 2019, the Committee on Transportation passed Int. No. 84-A, Int. No. 570-A, In. No. 886-A and Int. No. 1457-A by a vote of ten in the affirmative and zero in the negative, with one abstention.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION: Proposed Intro. 886-A would direct an agency or office designated by the Mayor to establish a pilot program in Brooklyn for the placement of privately-funded pet harbors on sidewalks adjacent to commercial establishments. Pet harbors are enclosed stationary self-service containers that allow owners to leave their companion animals unattended. The bill further provides for the removal of any pet harbor placed in violation of the law or rules and the fining of violators no more than $500 per violation.

A Local Law in relation to a pilot program for allowing pet harbors to be placed on sidewalks adjacent to commercial establishments

Be it enacted by the Council as follows:

Section 1. a. Definitions. As used in this section, the following terms have the following meanings:

Companion animal. The term “companion animal” has the same meaning as set forth in section 17-199.5 of the administrative code.

Pet harbor. The term “pet harbor” means an enclosed stationary self-service container that allows an owner to leave their companion animals unattended in an enclosure for no longer than one hour, or for a length of time as established by rule by the agency or office designated by the mayor pursuant to subdivision b of section 1 of this local law.

Service animal. The term “service animal” means an animal that performs a task or a specific set of tasks to assist a person with a disability.

b. An agency or office designated by the mayor shall establish a pilot program for the placement of pet harbors on sidewalks adjacent to commercial establishments, provided that (i) no portion of a pet harbor shall extend further than 3 feet from the building line; (ii) a width of at least nine and one-half feet is maintained on the sidewalk in front of a pet harbor without obstructing pedestrian movement; (iii) a pet harbor shall not block the accessible path of travel, entrance, or egress to and from a building and shall not impact the ability of properties or commercial establishments to add accessibility features in accordance with chapter 11 of the building code; (iv) a pet harbor shall not be bolted to the sidewalk or chained to a lamppost or other street furniture; (v) a pet harbor may only be placed on a sidewalk adjacent to a commercial establishment, and may only be available for use during the hours of operation of such establishment; (vi) no more than two pet harbors may be placed in front of any commercial establishment; (vii) the operator of the pet harbor shall receive permission from the owner of the property or commercial establishment adjacent to which it is placed; and (viii) a pet harbor is in compliance with any other law or rules promulgated by the agency or office designated by the mayor pursuant to this subdivision for the purposes of protecting the health, safety, convenience and welfare of the public, the companion animals, and to safeguard the interests of the city.

c. The agency or office designated by the mayor pursuant to subdivision b of section 1 of this local law shall by rule (i) determine the geographic boundaries of the pilot program established by section 1 of this local law, which shall constitute a geographically contiguous area within the borough of Brooklyn, in consultation with any affected community board and council member; (ii) establish requirements regarding the placement of pet harbors relating to matters including but not limited to public safety, design, consideration of the rights of adjacent property owners, and street congestion; (iii) educate property owners and commercial establishments about companion animals and service animals, using materials approved by such agency or office, to ensure that they are aware of the obligation to permit customers with disabilities to be accompanied by service animals; (iv) if appropriate, adopt an application and permit process governing the participation of an entity in the pilot program, including standards for revoking such permit in the event that a pet harbor is found to have malfunctions in design or operation or is found to be a danger to animal welfare or public safety; and (v) if appropriate, establish insurance and indemnification requirements governing participation in the pilot program.

d. (i) The pilot program established pursuant to subdivision b of section 1 of this local law shall exist for no less than one year; provided, however, that if prior to the end of the pilot program the agency or office designated by the mayor pursuant to subdivision b of section 1 of this local law determines that the pilot program is harmful to animal welfare or the public safety, or unreasonably interferes with pedestrian traffic, the mayor shall notify the speaker of the council that the pilot program is being terminated, and the reasons therefor.

(ii) No later than March 31, 2020, such agency or office designated by the mayor pursuant to subdivision b of section 1 of this local law shall submit a report to the speaker of the council regarding the results of the pilot program. Such report shall include, but need not be limited to, recommendations regarding changes in existing laws or rules that pertain to the viability of establishing a pet harbor program in the city of New York.

If a forfeiture hearing is not commenced, the owner or other person lawfully entitled to the possession of such pet harbor may be charged with reasonable costs for removal and storage payable prior to the release of such pet harbor; provided, however, that a pet harbor that is not claimed within 30 days after its removal shall be deemed to be abandoned and may be sold at a public auction after having been advertised in the City Record, the proceeds thereof being paid into the general fund or such unclaimed pet harbor may be used or converted for use by the department or by another city agency or by a not-for-profit corporation.

f. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this local law or any order issued by or rule promulgated by an agency or office designated by the mayor pursuant thereto or the terms or conditions of any permit issued pursuant thereto, or who causes, authorizes or permits such violation shall be liable for a civil penalty for each violation. Section 1. Subchapter 3 of chapter 1 of title 19 of the administrative code of the city of New York is amended by adding new section 19-195.1 to read as follows:

RESOLUTIONS

Presented for voice-vote

The following are the respective Committee Reports for each of the Resolutions referred to the Council for a voice-vote pursuant to Rule 8.50 of the Council:

Report for voice-vote Res. No. 740

Report of the Committee on General Welfare in favor of approving a Resolution calling upon the New York City Administration for Children’s Services to implement a policy finding that a person’s mere possession or use of marijuana does not by itself create an imminent risk of harm to a child, warranting the child’s removal.

The Committee on General Welfare, to which the annexed resolution was referred on February 13, 2019 (Minutes, page 458), respectfully

REPORTS:

I. Introduction

On July 22, 2019, the Committee on General Welfare, chaired by Council Member Stephen Levin, favorably voted Res. No. 740 out of committee by a vote of 5-0, with no abstentions. Res. No. 740 calls upon the New York City Administration for Children's Services (ACS) to implement a policy finding that a person's mere possession or use of marijuana does not by itself create an imminent risk of harm to a child, warranting the child's removal. The Committee on General Welfare and the Committee on Hospitals, chaired by Council Member Carlina Rivera, held a joint hearing on April 10, 2019 on this resolution, as well as oversight on the impact of marijuana policies on child welfare, and several pieces of legislation that will provide transparency and clarity on marijuana use among parents to avoid unnecessary child welfare investigations.

II. Overview of Child Welfare System

Reports of abuse and neglect go through the Statewide Central Register of Child Abuse and Maltreatment (SCR) hotline, maintained by the New York State Office of Children and Family Services.¹ SCR staff relay information from the calls to the appropriate local child protective services for investigation, which is ACS in New York City. Fifteen percent of the 34,642 allegations that were referred to ACS between July and September of 2018 were for substance abuse.² This category includes parental and child drug use.

Certain professionals such as doctors, nurses, teachers, police officers, and child care center workers are mandated by New York State law to report suspected child abuse and neglect to SCR.³ Mandated reporters must immediately make a report or cause a report to be made (e.g. ensuring that a supervisor makes the report), when in their professional role they are presented with reasonable cause to suspect abuse or neglect. “Reasonable cause” means that based on their observations of the evidence, professional training and experience they believe that the parent or legal guardian has harmed or placed a child in danger of being harmed.⁴

In regards to substance use, current state law states that a “neglected child” means a child “whose physical, mental or emotional condition has been impaired or is in imminent danger of becoming impaired” due to a parent or guardian’s failure to provide minimum care, including “misusing a drug or drugs.”⁵

As previously mentioned, once the SCR believes a report of abuse or neglect warrants an investigation, the SCR will direct ACS to begin a child protective investigation. ACS is required to investigate all reports received to ensure the safety and well-being of every child listed on the report.⁶ A Child Protective Specialist (CPS) will make an unannounced visit to the child’s home within 24 – 48 hours of the report.⁷ The CPS must see and speak to all children living in the home or with other caretakers, as well as all children/youth that are present in the home during the investigation. The CPS will also check to make sure the home is free of hazards, has adequate food, safe sleeping arrangements, etc. The CPS may also go to the child’s school, talk to family members and other people who may know the child, like a neighbor, building superintendent, teacher, doctor, nurse, the New York Police Department, etc. Within 60 days or fewer, the CPS determines whether or not the report is “indicated,” meaning the CPS found enough evidence to support the claim that a child has been abused or neglected, or “unfounded”.⁸ If a case is unfounded or indicated but determined to be a low-risk case, the family can be referred to voluntary preventive services.⁹ Higher risk indicated cases can lead to ACS filing a petition in family court, which can result in court-mandated services or removal of the child from the home.¹⁰

Further, if the CPS did not find enough evidence to support the claim that a child has been abused or neglected, parents receive a letter from the SCR that the report was unfounded.¹¹ However, even an unfounded report stays in the SCR for 10 years.¹² All reports made to the SCR are kept on record until the youngest child in the family at the time of the investigation turns 28 years old.¹³ According to child welfare and parent advocates, ACS investigations target low-income families, especially women who are Black and Latina and those with a history of domestic violence, who may be disproportionately impacted by the SCR report for at least 28 years. Maintaining an SCR record until the youngest child turns 28 years old limits employment

III. The Impact of Marijuana Use During Pregnancy

Prevalence of Marijuana Use During Pregnancy

The number of women using marijuana during pregnancy has increased in recent years.¹⁴ According to an extensive study based in California, from 2009 through 2016, the adjusted prevalence of prenatal marijuana use among pregnant enrollees in Kaiser Permanente Northern California, based on self-reporting or toxicology, increased from 4.2 percent to 7.1 percent.¹⁵ Individuals below the age of 25 experienced higher usage rates, with 22 percent of pregnant women younger than 18 years old and 19 percent of pregnant women aged 18 to 24 years old screened positive for marijuana use in 2016.¹⁶ Usage was higher based on toxicology than self-report each year.¹⁷

The increased use of marijuana among pregnant individuals may be linked to the surge of marijuana legalization in the United States.¹⁸ As of November 2018, 32 states have legalized the use of medicinal marijuana, and 10 states and Washington, D.C. have legalized marijuana for recreational use.¹⁹ Marijuana is now easier to obtain legally, and may in some cases be marketed as having the ability to assist with pregnancy-related symptoms.²⁰ A 2018 study based in Colorado found that, of 400 dispensaries contacted, 70 percent recommended the use of marijuana products to treat nausea in the first trimester, including a majority of dispensaries with medical licenses.²¹ While 81.5 percent of dispensaries recommended discussion with a health care provider, only 31.8 percent made the recommendation unprompted.²²

Potential Health Consequences

Despite an increase in use, research on the effects of marijuana during pregnancy is still in its infancy, and the current consensus is that no amount of marijuana use has been shown to be safe during pregnancy. Many medical professionals advise avoiding marijuana during pregnancy, and the research currently available has for the most part reported potentially negative impacts on children who were exposed to marijuana in the womb.²³ According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, doctors should advise their patients who are pregnant or looking to become pregnant to stop all marijuana use immediately, and to use other remedies to address any pregnancy-related or other medical symptoms.²⁴

²⁴ ACOG Committee Opinion

Doctors fear the impact tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) can have on a developing fetus. In animals, THC crossed the placenta and produced fetal plasma levels that were approximately 10 percent of maternal levels after acute exposure, and significantly higher fetal concentrations were observed after repetitive exposures.²⁵ It has been pointed out that many studies about marijuana use are dated, and thus may not accurately measure the amount of THC that can effect a developing fetus, since THC levels have increased in marijuana over time.²⁶

Marijuana use has been linked to adverse pregnancy-related outcomes.²⁷ There is no human research connecting marijuana use to the chance of miscarriage, although research has shown that pregnant people who use marijuana have a 2.3 times greater risk of stillbirth.²⁸ Marijuana use may also impact the child's development.²⁹ If a pregnant person smokes marijuana, the smoke can contain many of the same respiratory disease-causing and carcinogenic toxins as tobacco smoke, and the concentration of such chemicals can be higher in marijuana smoke.³⁰ Pregnant people using marijuana at least weekly during pregnancy were significantly more likely to give birth to a newborn weighing less than 2,500g (approximately 5.5 pounds).³¹ Studies note that children who were exposed to marijuana in utero had lower scores on tests of visual problem solving, visual-motor coordination, and visual analysis than those who were not exposed, and prenatal marijuana exposure has been associated with decreased attention span, early marijuana use, and behavioral problems.³²

Ultimately, it is hard to determine the true impact marijuana has on pregnancy for numerous reasons. Oftentimes marijuana use is compounded with other drug use and/or tobacco use, which can impact the fetus.³³ In fact, one study from 2016 concluded that marijuana use during pregnancy is not an independent risk factor for adverse neonatal outcomes after adjusting for confounding factors, including tobacco.³⁴ Poverty and its related socioeconomic conditions, such as malnutrition, can impact a child in ways that may seem similar to prenatal marijuana exposure.³⁵

Furthermore, studies examining marijuana use and pregnancy tend to be several years old and conducted on smaller groups, and therefore may not be able to accurately detect correlations between marijuana use and pregnancy outcomes.³⁶ To further complicate matters, many studies are based on self-reports from participants, which can lead to flawed data collection.³⁷ Finally, the fact that marijuana is still considered a Schedule 1 substance (a category which also includes heroine) continues to be a barrier to completing large-scale, evidence-based research around marijuana use and pregnancy.³⁸

Race, class, and other factors play a hand in hospital drug testing and reporting.⁴¹ One study from 2007 used “data from the clinical information system of a 1000-bed urban medical center to examine rates and results of testing for illicit drugs among women admitted with pregnancy-related diagnoses during the years 2002 and 2003 and among the infants born to these women.”⁴² The study makes note of research demonstrating the existence of racial disparities in infant referrals to and action by child welfare agencies, as well as findings that women who are Black are more likely to be tested for illicit substances during prenatal care and at delivery.⁴³

Of 8,487 cases of women who have had live births, 3 percent, or 244 mother-newborn pairs, were tested for illicit drug use. Women who are Black and their newborns were 1.5 times more likely to be tested than non-Black women.⁴⁴ Despite Black women receiving testing more frequently, the study found equivalent positive test rates among Black and non-Black women.⁴⁵ In addition to race, the study identified various factors that were correlated with high rates of testing. Testing was significantly associated with “Black maternal race, single or widowed marital status, lower educational status, unemployment, public or absent health insurance, and living in a neighborhood in the poorest quartile” as well as older age.⁴⁶ Clinical variables, including more than one hospitalization during the pregnancy, maternal HIV infection, and low birth weight, and obstetrical diagnoses, including placenta previa, abrupted placenta, third-trimester bleeding, and eclampsia, were also associated with drug testing.⁴⁷ Finally, absent prenatal laboratory results were also associated with drug testing.⁴⁸

V. Substance Use and the Child Welfare System

As mentioned above, ACS has 60 days to determine whether a report is indicated or unfounded. At an October 2018 NYC Council Committee on General Welfare hearing, a representative from ACS stated that ACS workers make at least biweekly visits to the family’s home during the duration of the case being open⁴⁹ and there are few cases that are closed before 60 days.⁵⁰ This means that even if the case is unfounded in the end, the family is still subjected to two months of government intrusion and invasions of privacy.

At a November 27, 2018 General Welfare Committee hearing, ACS Commissioner David Hansell stated that, “marijuana use per-say would never be the basis for an indicated finding of abuse or neglect” but that “any substance abuse that has an impact on parenting capacity or ability to provide adequate guardianship for a child” could influence a neglect case.⁵¹ When asked, Commissioner Hansell acknowledged that inadequate guardianship is a vague indicator. In a situation where a child has been removed from the home, another representative from ACS at the same hearing stated that marijuana use alone, without a history demonstrating “a substantial impact upon the safety of a child, would not necessarily lead to an argument that the child has to continue to be removed.”⁵²

According to the Drug Policy Alliance, even though New York State has a fairly stringent legal definition of caregiver neglect when substance use is a factor, “there is a lack of system-wide fidelity to this legal standard of neglect.”⁵³ The Drug Policy Alliance further stated, “The subjective interpretation of substance misuse by both ACS and family court is deleterious to caregivers who, in order to maintain custody of their children, must submit to conditions determined by both ACS and the judge.”⁵⁴ The Center for Family Representation stated that, despite ACS’s testimony to the contrary, marijuana use alone is used as a basis for removing children from homes, denying an expansion of visitation rights, and refusing to allow a child to return to the home.⁵⁵

When asked about the impact of legalizing marijuana on child welfare policies, Commissioner Hansell stated that policies will need to be reevaluated if legalization becomes a reality and compared the situation to alcohol, which is legal “but there are cases in which use of alcohol in a way that impairs parenting capacity leads to child welfare concerns.”⁵⁶

According to the Drug Policy Alliance, “Neglect accusations raised at Family Court are largely a byproduct of poverty and resource scarcity compounded by benign substance use, such as marijuana use, or problematic substance use that should be addressed compassionately and through non-punitive forms of substance use disorder (SUD) treatment. Racism and classism combine to capture caregivers in cycles of surveillance and mandated unnecessary services that sever families who can’t live up to the expectations of the court. Behaviors deeply scrutinized by ACS and Family Court judges in these cases would largely go unnoticed in more affluent white communities.”⁵⁷

VI. Analysis

Res. No. 740 - Resolution calling upon the New York City Administration for Children's Services to implement a policy finding that a person's mere possession or use of marijuana does not by itself create an imminent risk of harm to a child, warranting the child's removal.

This resolution calls upon ACS to implement a policy finding that a person's mere possession or use of marijuana does not by itself create an imminent risk of harm to a child, warranting the child's removal. The resolution details evidence of racial disparities in marijuana enforcement in New York, noting there are reasons to be particularly cautious in pursuing civil child neglect cases based merely on the possession or use of marijuana by parents.

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption.

By Council Members Lander, Levin, Treyger, Rivera, Rosenthal, Miller and the Public Advocate (Mr. Williams).

Whereas, According to a July 2010 report by the Drug Policy Alliance, “Pot as Pretext: Marijuana, Race and The New Disorder in New York City Street Policing,” marijuana arrests doubled from the mid-1990s to a peak of more than 50,000 arrests in 2010; and

Whereas, At its peak, according to the Drug Policy Alliance, marijuana arrests constituted the most frequent type of arrest in New York City at a cost to taxpayers of up to $75 million a year and an incalculable socio-economic cost for those arrested; and

Whereas, According to a 2013 report by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), “The War on Marijuana in Black and White,” despite comparable use of marijuana among Blacks and Whites, a comprehensive analysis of national, state and county arrest data for the period 2001 to 2010 exposed significant across-the-board racial disparities in the implementation of marijuana enforcement; and

Whereas, The ACLU Report found that Blacks were 4.5 times more likely than Whites to be arrested for marijuana possession in New York State, 9.7 times more likely than Whites to be arrested in Brooklyn and 9.4 times more likely than Whites to be arrested in Manhattan; and

Whereas, According to a 2015 report by the New York City Police Department, “Broken Windows and Quality-of-Life Policing in New York City,” the NYPD issued a September 2011 memorandum reiterating state guidance that those found in possession of small amounts of marijuana should be issued court summonses rather than be arrested; and

Whereas, In November 2014, according to the NYPD report, Mayor de Blasio and then-Police Commissioner Bratton issued another order outlining the NYPD’s approach to marijuana possession whereby individuals found in possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana would be issued court summonses instead of be arrested; and

Whereas, According to the NYPD report, marijuana arrests declined substantially by more than 25,000 arrests, a nearly 50 percent decline between their peak in 2010 and 2014; and

Whereas, According to an October 2014 report by the Drug Policy Alliance, “Race, Class & Marijuana Arrests in Mayor DeBlasio’s Two New Yorks”, despite decreases in overall arrests, 86% of the people arrested for marijuana possession in New York City were Black and Latino, compared to 10% for Whites and 4% for others; and

Whereas, According to an August 17, 2011 New York Times article, “No Cause for Marijuana Case, but Enough for Child Neglect” (“the New York Times article”), hundreds of New Yorkers who were caught by police with small amounts of marijuana, or who simply admitted using it, were involved in civil child neglect cases, even though they did not face criminal charges; and

Whereas, Additionally according to the New York Times article, some of these parents lost custody of their children; and

Whereas, The New York Times article stated that the child welfare system was an alternate system of justice for these parents when compared to the criminal court system; and

Whereas, Lawyers interviewed for the New York Times article said they had more than a dozen cases on their dockets involving parents who had never faced neglect allegations but whose children were placed in foster care because of marijuana allegations; and

Whereas, The Administration for Children’s Services does not automatically find that a child is in immediate risk of harm if a parent or caregiver possesses or consumes alcohol; and

Whereas, While sometimes parents were allowed to keep custody of their children when neglect had been found, serious repercussions can follow such a finding, such as prohibiting parents from taking jobs around children, barring individuals from being foster care parents or adopting children, and making it easier for Family Court judges to later remove children from their homes; and

Whereas, Since the New York Times article, there has been greater public acceptance of marijuana use across the country, which has led to the legalization of the substance for medical or recreational purposes in over 20 states; and

Whereas, On July 7, 2014, New York became the 23rd state to legalize medicinal marijuana, which act, in addition to decriminalizing the possession of small amounts of marijuana, reflects a growing national trend toward the acceptance of marijuana use; and

Whereas, Given the racial disparities in marijuana enforcement in New York that continue despite this growing trend, there are reasons to be particularly cautious in pursuing civil child neglect cases based merely on the possession of small amounts of marijuana or the admission of marijuana use by parents; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the New York City Administration for Children’s Services to implement a policy finding that a person’s mere possession or use of marijuana does not by itself create an imminent risk of harm to a child, warranting the child’s removal.

Report of the Committee on Hospitals in favor of approving a Resolution calling on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation requiring the New York State Department of Health to create clear and fair regulations for hospitals on drug testing those who are pregnant or giving birth, including informing patients of their rights before any discussion of drug use or drug testing.

The Committee on Committee on Hospitals, to which the annexed resolution was referred on February 13, 2019 (Minutes, page 474), respectfully

REPORTS:

I. Introduction

On July 18, 2019, the Committee on Hospitals, chaired by Council Member Carlina Rivera, will hold a hearing on Resolution No. 746, calling on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation requiring the New York State Department of Health to create clear and fair regulations for hospitals on drug testing those who are pregnant or giving birth, including informing patients of their rights before any discussion of drug use or drug testing. This resolution was originally heard at a joint hearing of this Committee and the Committee on General Welfare, chaired by Council Member Stephen Levin, on April 10, 2019, at which the Committees received testimony from the Administration for Children’s Services (ACS), New York City’s Health + Hospitals (H+H), child welfare advocates, legal service providers, health care providers, drug policy advocates and other interested parties.

II. Overview of Child Welfare System

Reports of abuse and neglect go through the Statewide Central Register of Child Abuse and Maltreatment (SCR) hotline, maintained by the New York State Office of Children and Family Services.¹ SCR staff relay information from the calls to the appropriate local child protective services for investigation, which is ACS in New York City. Fifteen percent of the 34,642 allegations that were referred to ACS between July and September of 2018 were for substance abuse.² This category includes parental and child drug use.

Certain professionals such as doctors, nurses, teachers, police officers, and child care center workers are mandated by New York State law to report suspected child abuse and neglect to SCR.³ Mandated reporters must immediately make a report or cause a report to be made (e.g. ensuring that a supervisor makes the report), when in their professional role they are presented with reasonable cause to suspect abuse or neglect. “Reasonable cause” means that based on their observations of the evidence, professional training and experience they believe that the parent or legal guardian has harmed or placed a child in danger of being harmed.⁴

In regards to substance use, current state law states that a “neglected child” means a child “whose physical, mental or emotional condition has been impaired or is in imminent danger of becoming impaired” due to a parent or guardian’s failure to provide minimum care, including “misusing a drug or drugs.”⁵

As previously mentioned, once the SCR believes a report of abuse or neglect warrants an investigation, the SCR will direct ACS to begin a child protective investigation. ACS is required to investigate all reports received to ensure the safety and well-being of every child listed on the report.⁶ A Child Protective Specialist (CPS) will make an unannounced visit to the child’s home within 24 – 48 hours of the report.⁷ The CPS must see and speak to all children living in the home or with other caretakers, as well as all children/youth that are present in the home during the investigation. The CPS will also check to make sure the home is free of hazards, has adequate food, safe sleeping arrangements, etc. The CPS may also go to the child’s school, talk to family members and other people who may know the child, like a neighbor, building superintendent, teacher, doctor, nurse, the New York Police Department, etc. Within 60 days or fewer, the CPS determines whether or not the report is “indicated,” meaning the CPS found enough evidence to support the claim that a child has been abused or neglected, or “unfounded”.⁸ If a case is unfounded or indicated but determined to be a low-risk case, the family can be referred to voluntary preventive services.⁹ Higher risk indicated cases can lead to ACS filing a petition in family court, which can result in court-mandated services or removal of the child from the home.¹⁰

Further, if the CPS did not find enough evidence to support the claim that a child has been abused or neglected, parents receive a letter from the SCR that the report was unfounded.¹¹ However, even an unfounded report stays in the SCR for 10 years.¹² All reports made to the SCR are kept on record until the youngest child in the family at the time of the investigation turns 28 years old.¹³ According to child welfare and parent advocates, ACS investigations target low-income families, especially women who are Black and Latina and those with a history of domestic violence, who may be disproportionately impacted by the SCR report for at least 28 years. Maintaining an SCR record until the youngest child turns 28 years old limits employment opportunities that may cause families to remain in poverty and putting them at risk of ongoing child welfare involvement.

III. The Impact of Marijuana Use During Pregnancy

Prevalence of Marijuana Use During Pregnancy

The number of women using marijuana during pregnancy has increased in recent years.¹⁴ According to an extensive study based in California, from 2009 through 2016, the adjusted prevalence of prenatal marijuana use among pregnant enrollees in Kaiser Permanente Northern California, based on self-reporting or toxicology, increased from 4.2 percent to 7.1 percent.¹⁵ Individuals below the age of 25 experienced higher usage rates, with 22 percent of pregnant women younger than 18 years old and 19 percent of pregnant women aged 18 to 24 years old screened positive for marijuana use in 2016.¹⁶ Usage was higher based on toxicology than self-report each year.¹⁷

The increased use of marijuana among pregnant individuals may be linked to the surge of marijuana legalization in the United States.¹⁸ As of November 2018, 32 states have legalized the use of medicinal marijuana, and 10 states and Washington, D.C. have legalized marijuana for recreational use.¹⁹ Marijuana is now easier to obtain legally, and may in some cases be marketed as having the ability to assist with pregnancy-related symptoms.²⁰ A 2018 study based in Colorado found that, of 400 dispensaries contacted, 70 percent recommended the use of marijuana products to treat nausea in the first trimester, including a majority of dispensaries with medical licenses.²¹ While 81.5 percent of dispensaries recommended discussion with a health care provider, only 31.8 percent made the recommendation unprompted.²²

Despite an increase in use, research on the effects of marijuana during pregnancy is still in its infancy, and the current consensus is that no amount of marijuana use has been shown to be safe during pregnancy. Many medical professionals advise avoiding marijuana during pregnancy, and the research currently available has for the most part reported potentially negative impacts on children who were exposed to marijuana in the womb.²³ According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, doctors should advise their patients who are pregnant or looking to become pregnant to stop all marijuana use immediately, and to use other remedies to address any pregnancy-related or other medical symptoms.²⁴

Doctors fear the impact tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) can have on a developing fetus. In animals, THC crossed the placenta and produced fetal plasma levels that were approximately 10 percent of maternal levels

after acute exposure, and significantly higher fetal concentrations were observed after repetitive exposures.²⁵ It has been pointed out that many studies about marijuana use are dated, and thus may not accurately measure the amount of THC that can effect a developing fetus, since THC levels have increased in marijuana over time.²⁶

Marijuana use has been linked to adverse pregnancy-related outcomes.²⁷ There is no human research connecting marijuana use to the chance of miscarriage, although research has shown that pregnant people who use marijuana have a 2.3 times greater risk of stillbirth.²⁸ Marijuana use may also impact the child's development.²⁹ If a pregnant person smokes marijuana, the smoke can contain many of the same respiratory disease-causing and carcinogenic toxins as tobacco smoke, and the concentration of such chemicals can be higher in marijuana smoke.³⁰ Pregnant people using marijuana at least weekly during pregnancy were significantly more likely to give birth to a newborn weighing less than 2,500g (approximately 5.5 pounds).³¹ Studies note that children who were exposed to marijuana in utero had lower scores on tests of visual problem solving, visual-motor coordination, and visual analysis than those who were not exposed, and prenatal marijuana exposure has been associated with decreased attention span, early marijuana use, and behavioral problems.³²

Ultimately, it is hard to determine the true impact marijuana has on pregnancy for numerous reasons. Oftentimes marijuana use is compounded with other drug use and/or tobacco use, which can impact the fetus.³³ In fact, one study from 2016 concluded that marijuana use during pregnancy is not an independent risk factor for adverse neonatal outcomes after adjusting for confounding factors, including tobacco.³⁴ Poverty and its related socioeconomic conditions, such as malnutrition, can impact a child in ways that may seem similar to prenatal marijuana exposure.³⁵

“a substantial impact upon the safety of a child, would not necessarily lead to an argument that the child has to continue to be removed.”⁵²

According to the Drug Policy Alliance, even though New York State has a fairly stringent legal definition of caregiver neglect when substance use is a factor, “there is a lack of system-wide fidelity to this legal standard of neglect.”⁵³ The Drug Policy Alliance further stated, “The subjective interpretation of substance misuse by both ACS and family court is deleterious to caregivers who, in order to maintain custody of their children, must submit to conditions determined by both ACS and the judge.”⁵⁴ The Center for Family Representation stated that, despite ACS’s testimony to the contrary, marijuana use alone is used as a basis for removing children from homes, denying an expansion of visitation rights, and refusing to allow a child to return to the home.⁵⁵

When asked about the impact of legalizing marijuana on child welfare policies, Commissioner Hansell stated that policies will need to be reevaluated if legalization becomes a reality and compared the situation to alcohol, which is legal “but there are cases in which use of alcohol in a way that impairs parenting capacity leads to child welfare concerns.”⁵⁶

According to the Drug Policy Alliance, “Neglect accusations raised at Family Court are largely a byproduct of poverty and resource scarcity compounded by benign substance use, such as marijuana use, or problematic substance use that should be addressed compassionately and through non-punitive forms of substance use disorder (SUD) treatment. Racism and classism combine to capture caregivers in cycles of surveillance and mandated unnecessary services that sever families who can’t live up to the expectations of the court. Behaviors deeply scrutinized by ACS and Family Court judges in these cases would largely go unnoticed in more affluent white communities.”⁵⁷

VI. Analysis of Legislation

Res. No. 746 - Resolution calling on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation requiring the New York State Department of Health to create clear and fair regulations for hospitals on drug testing those who are pregnant or giving birth, including informing patients of their rights before any discussion of drug use or drug testing.

This resolution calls upon on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation requiring the New York State Department of Health to create clear and fair regulations for hospitals on drug testing those who are pregnant or giving birth. Such legislation should include informing patients of their rights before any discussion of drug use or drug testing. It is unclear how hospitals determine that testing is necessary and such testing appears to disproportionately impact low-income women and women who are Black and Latina.

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption, as amended.

By Council Members Rivera, Levin, Rosenthal, Eugene, Ayala, Louis and Miller.

Whereas, Currently, hospitals will drug test patients who are giving birth and report those who test positive to the Statewide Central Register of Child Abuse and Maltreatment (SCR); and

Whereas, This testing leads to a child welfare investigation for marijuana use alone because the New York City Administration for Children’s Services is required to investigate all cases in NYC referred from SCR; and

Whereas, It is unclear how hospitals determine that testing is necessary and a Daily News article from 2012 found that testing varied by hospital and disproportionately impacted low-income women and women of color; and

Whereas, It is also unclear whether hospitals ensure that patients are aware of the child welfare ramifications for drug tests and disclosing drug history to their health care provider; and

Whereas, Studies show that marijuana is the most commonly used illicit drug during pregnancy, and its use is increasing; and

Whereas, Women should be encouraged to share their medical history, including drug use, with their health care provider without fear of a child welfare case being opened; and

Whereas, A review of the research has shown that maternal marijuana use during pregnancy is not an independent risk factor for adverse neonatal outcomes after adjusting for confounding factors; and

Whereas, Research on the topic is limited due to relying on self-reporting and the difficulty in conducting direct research with a Schedule I drug; and

Whereas, Current state law states that a “neglected child” means a child “whose physical, mental or emotional condition has been impaired or is in imminent danger of becoming impaired” due to a parent or guardian’s failure to provide minimum care, including “misusing a drug or drugs”; and

Whereas, Given the requirement of drug misuse – not just use – as well as evidence establishing that the child’s physical, mental or emotional condition has been impaired or is in imminent danger of becoming impaired, one positive drug test arguably does not fit into the definition of neglect, as defined by State law; and

Whereas, While the medical field is continuing to research prenatal marijuana use and marijuana is being legalized across the nation, New York should address marijuana similarly to alcohol and should amend laws, regulations and policies that equate marijuana use with neglectful parenting; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls on the State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation requiring the New York State Department of Health to create clear and fair regulations for hospitals on drug testing those who are pregnant or giving birth, including informing patients of their rights before any discussion of drug use or drug testing.

REPORTS:

Introduction

On July 22, 2019, the Committee on Civil Service and Labor, chaired by Council Member I. Daneek Miller, held a hearing and vote on Resolution Number 897-A.

Res. No. 897-A, introduced by Council Members Miller and Chin, is a resolution calling on Congress to pass, and the President to sign, the "Never Forget the Heroes: James Zadroga, Ray Pfeifer, and Luis Alvarez Permanent Authorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act" (H.R.1327/S.546), which would fully finance and extend authorization for the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund until fiscal year 2092.

On July 22, 2019, the Committee passed Res. No. 897-A by a vote of seven in the affirmative, zero in the negative, with zero abstentions.

Background

On September 11, 2001, 19 terrorists, associated with the Islamic extremist group al-Qaeda, perpetrated a series of airline hijackings and suicide attacks against New York City, Washington, D.C, and Shanksville, Pennsylvania that have been named the deadliest terrorist attacks on American soil in United States’ history.¹ These attacks directly caused a total of 2,977 deaths, with an indirect death and injury toll still being calculated.² The events of 9/11 triggered an enormous response from the United States to terrorism across the globe, and influenced the start and perpetuation of the U.S.’ wars in Afghanistan and Iraq.³

The 9/11 terrorist attacks in New York City left hundreds of thousands of people exposed or potentially exposed to dust, particulates, and other environmental contaminants on that day, and for months and years following.⁴ It is estimated that 2,000 tons of asbestos fibers were released into the air by the collapse of the Twin Towers, with buildings next to Ground Zero having an asbestos level 112,000 times above the legal limit.⁵ Firefighters, police officers, construction workers, transit workers, volunteers, contractors, and others from across the country came to “Ground Zero”—the colloquial term used to refer to the area where the World Trade Center (WTC) came down—in efforts to aid in the search for survivors and to aid in recovery and clean-up efforts at the site.⁶ The work took months and required employees from city, state, and federal agencies working tirelessly to rebuild the area. Following the immediate devastation caused by the attacks, there was concern that the attack could have longer-term consequences for the health of responders, clean-up workers, residents, office workers, school children, and others, with an estimated 410,000 people exposed to the contaminated air within the vicinity of Ground Zero.⁷ A growing body of evidence and research suggests that significant physical and mental health conditions, associated with exposure to the disaster, have emerged.

Funding for 9/11 Victims

The September 11 Victims Compensation Fund (VCF) was created to provide compensation for any individual or personal representative of a deceased individual who suffered physical harm or was killed as result of the 9/11 attacks or the debris removal effort that took place in the immediate aftermath of the crashes. The original VCF operated from 2001 to 2004.⁸ From 2001 to 2003, the fund received 7,408 claim submissions and awards were made in 5,560 of those cases, totaling over $7 billion.⁹ Additionally, the fund received 2,963 death claims and funds were distributed in 2,880 of these cases with an average award of $2 million, and as high as $7 million.¹⁰

In 2011, pursuant to the Zadroga Act, the VCF re-opened for a period of five years, ending in October 2016. In 2015, the reauthorization of the Zadroga Act included an extension of the VCF.¹¹ The new law extends the VCF for five years, allowing individuals to submit claims until 2020. Since its re-opening in 2011, the VCF has received 37,652 total eligibility forms and of that, 20,391 claims have been approved.¹²

A notice by Rupa Bhattacharyya, the special master of the VCF, was published concerning the risk of the fund running out of money. The fund currently has $7.4 billion allocated.¹³ Further, the fund had paid out $4.3 billion on 32,689 claims as of August 31, 2018, but more claims are anticipated, raising the possibility that not enough money has been set aside for victims.¹⁴ A bipartisan group of federal legislators from New York has urged their colleagues in Congress to permanently fund the VCF.¹⁵ Specifically, they have introduced legislation S.546/H.R.1327, “Never Forget the Heroes: Permanent Reauthorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act,” which would respond to any shortfalls in funding by permanently authorizing the VCF.¹⁶ Senator Kirsten Gillibrand (D-NY) is sponsoring the legislation in the Senate along with fellow Senators Charles Schumer (D-NY) and Cory Gardner (R-CO). Sponsorship in the House is being led by New York City Democrats Jerrold Nadler and Carolyn Maloney and Long Island Republican Peter King.¹⁷

The federal legislation would provide funds through FY2090 and also modify the VCF:

- to allow claims to be filed until October 2089,
- to require VCF policies and procedures to be reassessed at least once every five years (currently, at least once annually),
- to require claimants to be paid for the amount by which a claim was reduced on the basis of insufficient funding,
- to remove the cap on noneconomic damages in certain circumstances, and

- to adjust the annual limit on economic loss compensation for inflation.¹⁸

The legislation passed in the United States House of Representatives by a 402-12 vote on Friday, July 12. Once passed, the bill was amended, being renamed the “Never Forget the Heroes: James Zadroga, Ray Pfeifer, and Luis Alvarez Permanent Reauthorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act,” and fully financing and extending authorization for the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund until fiscal year 2092. The bill now awaits a vote in the Senate. This federal legislation is needed as the VCF is experiencing a funding shortfall and must reduce payments for pending and future claims, by at least 50 percent, as the number of illnesses being suffered by 9/11 victims has dramatically increased in the last few years.¹⁹

UPDATE

On July 22, 2019, the Committee passed Res. No. 897-A by a vote of seven in the affirmative, zero in the negative, with zero abstentions.

Accordingly, this Committee recommends its adoption, as amended.

(The following is the text of Res. No. 897-A:)

Res. No. 897-A

Resolution calling on Congress to pass, and the President to sign, the “Never Forget the Heroes: James Zadroga, Ray Pfeifer, and Luis Alvarez Permanent Authorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act” (H.R.1327/S.546), which would fully finance and extend authorization for the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund until fiscal year 2092.

By Council Members Miller, Chin, Borelli, Richards, Treyger, Cohen, Levine, Yeger, Deutsch, Brannan, Vallone, Powers, Rosenthal, Holden, Louis, Moya, Kallos and Levin.

Whereas, The September 11th Victim Compensation Fund (VCF) was created in order to provide compensation for any individual who suffered physical harm or to the family of those who have died as a result of the terrorist-related attacks of September 11, 2001 (9/11), or the recovery/cleanup efforts that took place in the aftermath of these attacks; and

Whereas, The original VCF was created in 2001 with no cap in funding and closed in 2004, paying over $7.049 billion to surviving family members of 2,880 people who died in the attacks and to 2,680 claimants who were injured in the attacks or rescue efforts; and

Whereas, After the original VCF closed in 2004, despite evidence of the growing health impacts that 9/11 had on responders, survivors and surrounding communities throughout the nation, it took years of advocacy to compel the federal government to act; and

Whereas, In October 2011, the VCF was finally reopened when former President Obama signed into law the James Zadroga 9/11 Health and Compensation Act of 2010 (Zadroga Act), which enabled the VCF to accept claims until October 2016, expanded the VCF’s eligibility criteria to include those who participated in the debris removal efforts directly after 9/11, provided the VCF a limited appropriation of $2.775 billion (with $875 million available within the first five years) to cover compensation and administrative costs and created the World Trade Center Health Program (WTCHP) to provide medical treatment and monitoring to injured and sick 9/11 survivors and responders; and

Whereas, In December 2015, the Zadroga Act was reauthorized by Congress with bi-partisan support, which allowed the VCF to take claims until December 2020, directed the VCF to pay certain past claims, ¹⁹ Hennelly, B., “Rise in WTC-Related Claims to Force VCF to Reduce Payouts at Least 50%.” The Chief Leader, Feb. 25, 2019, available at: http://thechiefleader.com/news/news_of_the_week/rise-in-wtc-related-claims-to-force-vcf-to-reduce/article_b68358e4-347d-11e9-8d10-fff00c22fedc.html.

allowed the VCF to implement specific changes to policies and procedures and extended the WTCHP's authorization for 75 years; and

Whereas, Notably, according to a recent message by the head of the VCF, Special Master Rupa Bhattacharyaa, since October 2011, the VCF has awarded nearly $5 billion in original and amended determinations for more than 21,000 claims, with 2018 alone, having compensation determinations total almost $1.5 billion; and

Whereas, This leaves only about $2.375 billion of the $7.375 billion appropriated funding available to compensate the almost 20,000 pending claims and the thousands of anticipated future claims filed by December 2020; and

Whereas, Thus, in order to accommodate this sheer number of claims, the VCF has indicated through its Seventh Annual Status Report and Third Annual Reassessment of Policies and Procedures (February 2019 VCF Report), that any claim or amendment filed for review on or before February 1, 2019 will be reduced by 50%, while any claim or amendment filed on or after February 2, 2019 be reduced by 70%; and

Whereas, As an additional setback, the VCF's authorization is set to expire in December 2020, which will leave thousands of people nationwide who were impacted by 9/11 with no place to seek compensation or help, including responders and survivors with developing physical and mental illnesses; and

Whereas, The lack of funding for the VCF has resulted in the reduction of awards to claimants and its set expiration date, which many have openly criticized, citing that the VCF's compensation offers integral support for thousands impacted by 9/11 and should not expire; and

Whereas, The decision to reduce awards to claimants will particularly impact New York City, as The Mesothelioma Center estimated that 410,000 people were exposed to toxic contaminants within the area near the World Trade Center, indicating that New Yorkers have been heavily impacted by 9/11 and could have a higher propensity to file claims within the VCF; and

Whereas, For example, the February 2019 VCF Report shows that, as of December 31, 2018 (not accounting for the claims submitted to the original VCF of 2001), specific categories of New York City claimants have filed a tremendous number of VCF claims already, with the categories of: "Responder-NYC" having 16,525 of the total 17,449 eligible claims awarded with about $3.849 billion; "Non-Responder NYC-cleaning or maintenance work" and "Non-Responder NYC-other capacity" having 3,364 of the total 3,629 eligible claims awarded with about $715 million; and "Residents within NYC Exposure Zone" having 471 of the total 513 eligible claims awarded with about $102 million; and

Whereas, Notably, the impact of 9/11 is widespread, as 9/11 responders and survivors hail from all 50 states in the United States and reside in all but one congressional district; and

Whereas, In efforts to ensure that all those who filed or intend to file a VCF claim, including many in New York City, receive the compensation that they need to deal with any current and/or future illnesses, the "Never Forget the Heroes: Permanent Authorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act" (H.R.1327/S.546) was introduced at the federal level in February 2019; and

Whereas, H.R.1327, introduced by Representative Carolyn B. Maloney, and S.546, introduced by Senator Kristen E. Gillibrand, originally would have extended authorization for the VCF through fiscal year 2090, however, on July 12, 2019, H.R.1327 passed the House of Representatives, having since been renamed the "Never Forget the Heroes: James Zadroga, Ray Pfeifer, and Luis Alvarez Permanent Authorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act" and amended to fund the VCF through fiscal year 2092; and

Whereas, S.546, under the same name and without amendment since introduction, is still awaiting a vote by the Senate; and

Whereas, The adoption of this legislation will ensure that 9/11 responders, survivors and families receive the compensation they deserve and need for years to come; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls on Congress to pass, and the President to sign, the "Never Forget the Heroes: James Zadroga, Ray Pfeifer, and Luis Alvarez Permanent Authorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act" (H.R.1327/S.546), which would fully finance and extend authorization for the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund until fiscal year 2092.

Res. No. 996

Resolution calling upon New York State Legislature to pass, and Governor to sign, legislation that require New York prisons and jails to provide plant-based food options to incarcerated people.

By Council Members Cabrera and Louis.

Whereas, Plant-based or vegan food options constitute meals that contain no animal products or byproducts, including meat, poultry, dairy, eggs, fish, or seafood; and

Whereas, According to Medical News Today, a 2017 report found that 6% of people in the U.S. identify as vegan, and this percentage is increasing; and

Whereas, Nutrition research has proven that plant-based diets are indisputably healthier and provide more preventive benefits over meat-based diets; and

Whereas, A recent article published by Harvard Medical School held that plant-based diets reduce the risk of heart disease, high cholesterol, high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and certain cancers, while strengthening mental and physical function; and

Whereas, Aside from extensive health benefits, studies have shown that the widespread adoption of plant-based food diets may save hundreds of thousands of dollars in food production and health care costs, according to an article in The Atlantic; and

Whereas, The New York State Senate recently passed legislation that would require New York hospitals to offer plant-based meals and snacks to patients; and

Whereas, However, the legislation does not require New York prisons and jails to offer plant-based meals to incarcerated individuals; and

Whereas, According to the New York Civil Liberties Union (NYCLU) prison food complaints are among the most commonly received grievances; and

Whereas, According to an article in the Times Union, the New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision (NYS DOCCS) receives on-average 21 food-related grievances per month from its population; and

Whereas, In 2018, California Governor Jerry Brown signed legislation that requires hospitals, healthcare facilities, and state prisons to offer at least one vegan option at every meal, in order to reduce the prevalence of diet-induced chronic illnesses among incarcerated individuals; and

Whereas, Since 2016, The Federal Bureau of Prisons requires every federal prison in the U.S. to provide plant-based food options to inmates; and

Whereas, New York City has taken steps to promote healthy plant-based food options for all New Yorkers; and

Whereas, For example, the New York City Council has proposed legislation calling on the New York City Department of Education to ban processed meats from public school lunches to ensure that school children receive safe, healthy food in their cafeterias; and

Whereas, Moreover, Brooklyn Borough President Eric Adams launched the Plant-Based Lifestyle Program at Bellevue Hospital, a preventative medicine program that transitions patients to a plant-based lifestyle; and

Whereas, New York State must recognize that equal access to nutritious food options that meets the dietary, religious, cultural, and ethical needs of all New Yorkers is a human right; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon New York State Legislature to pass, and Governor to sign, legislation that require New York prisons and jails to provide plant-based food options to incarcerated people.

Res. No. 997

Resolution calling on the New York Governor to pardon lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals convicted under historical, discriminatory laws.

By Council Members Dromm, Van Bramer and Menchaca.

Whereas, New York City counts over 750,000 gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) among its citizen population according to 2015 survey data; and

Whereas New York City, site of the Stonewall Uprising and, thus, the birthplace of the LGBT rights movement, possesses cultural and historical import to the LGBT community; and

Whereas, However, the legal system has a history of discrimination against the LGBT community that has too long been unacknowledged and unatoned for; and

Whereas, For example, in 1787 sodomy laws punished same-sex intimacy as a capital offense, which was reduced to life imprisonment in 1801; and

Whereas, These laws characterized physical intimacy among men and among women as “deviate sexual intercourse” and remained in effect in New York until 1980, when the State Court of Appeals ruled in People v. Onofre that such laws were unconstitutional; and

Whereas, In 1923 the State enacted laws criminalizing loitering with the intent to solicit another man for sex; and

Whereas, Despite a successful lawsuit brought against the State in 1983 in which the loitering law was declared unconstitutional, the State continued to enforce it through 2010; and

Whereas, In 1937 Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia instituted a policy that required persons convicted of sex crimes – including “deviate sexual intercourse” – be under medical observation and committed to Bellevue Hospital if they were found to be insane; and

Whereas, Until 2011 New York enforced laws criminalizing a person’s dressing “in a manner to conceal his being identified” against men and women who wore clothes purportedly designed for the opposite sex; and

Whereas, Law enforcement officers carried out such statutes by forcibly investigating individuals’ biological sex and mandating that they wear at least three articles of clothing that conformed with said sex; and

Whereas, Authorities have used many other laws throughout New York’s history directly and indirectly to prosecute and persecute the LGBT community; and

Whereas, Arrests and convictions disrupted the lives of LGBT individuals, leading to loss of jobs and careers, ostracization from family and neighbors, and harm to mental health, sadly leading to suicide in some cases; and

Whereas, Other countries have rejected their past discrimination against the LGBT community and taken affirmative steps to remedy those injustices; and

Whereas, In 2016, for example, Germany pardoned LGBT persons who suffered under Section 175, which criminalized homosexual acts, and, the following year, made reparations to individuals convicted and incarcerated under the law; and

Whereas, In 2017 the United Kingdom reckoned with its own history by posthumously offering a royal pardon to men in England and Wales who had been convicted under legislation that outlawed homosexual acts; and

Whereas, The United Kingdom issued a specific pardon to Alan Turing, one of the founders of computer science and a hero of World War II, who was arrested for “gross indecency” and chemically castrated when it was discovered that Turing was in a same-sex relationship; and

Whereas, In 2018 Scotland, following the lead of England, passed similar laws, which pardoned those convicted under prior anti-homosexuality laws and posthumously pardoned those convicted but who have since died;

Whereas, In 2018 Canada expunged the records of those criminalized under anti-LGBT laws; and

Whereas, New York may only reconcile its relationship with its LGBT populations by acknowledging its past wrongs and offering a legally substantive resolution; now, therefore be it

Resolved, That the New York Governor pardon lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals convicted under historical, discriminatory laws.

Res. No. 999

Resolution calling on the U.S. Congress to pass, and the President to sign, S.1227/H.R.2376, the Prescription Pricing for the People Act of 2019.

By Council Member Holden.

Whereas, When it comes to prescription drug prices, New York City is the most expensive city in the Country; and

Whereas, According to 2018 data, New York City residents pay more than 20% above the national average for their medications; and

Whereas, The New York Times reports that the average cash price for the five most commonly used drugs are far more expensive in New York City than they are in other cities; and

Whereas, For example, Metformin, which is used to treat diabetes, costs $66.23 in New York City; and

Whereas, In comparison, a person in San Francisco only pays $49.36 and a person in Boston only pays $43 for the same medication; and

Whereas, For Paroxetine, a generic for Paxil that is used to treat depression, New Yorkers pay $73.55 while those in San Francisco and Boston only pay $53.78 and $47.34, respectively; and

Whereas, At the federal level, the U.S. Senate has been examining the ever increasing price of prescription drugs; and

Whereas, Earlier this year the Senate Committee on Finance held a three part hearing on drug pricing in America; and,

Whereas, During the third hearing, the Committee looked at the role that Pharmacy Benefit Managers (PBMs) have in increasing the cost of pharmaceuticals for the consumer; and

Whereas, PBMs are considered ‘middlemen’ in the prescription drug pricing scheme; and

Whereas, PBMs are themselves large corporations, and the three largest – OptumRx, Express Scripts and CVS Caremark – control 70% of the market; and

Whereas, The role of PBMs is to negotiate with the drug manufacturers, using their buying power to get the best deal on medications on behalf of insurance companies and their customers; and

Whereas, However, many have argued that PBMs act only to increase their bottom line and that consumers are paying the price; and

Whereas, The National Community Pharmacists Association, for example, argues that PBMs will select medications for inclusion on a plan according to the rebate that is paid to the PBM rather than the consumers' best interests; and

Whereas, The Community Oncology Alliance also produced a report, in 2017, on the ways that PBMs drive up prices for consumers; and

Whereas, Part of the difficulty in assessing the actions of PBMs, however, stems from the fact that there is little regulation of the industry and it lacks transparency because the PBMs argue that they need to keep their processes secret to protect their negotiating power; and

Whereas, According to Ted Okon, Executive Director of the Community Oncology Alliance, "we have come to a point where not only are PBMs not doing anything good, they are actually doing the opposite. Delays, problems with access and higher prices are all resulting from how PBMs are operating. They are pushing drug prices higher and placing extreme pressure on pharmacies because they want to steer that business toward themselves"; and

Whereas, The problems identified with PBM operations is a driving force behind the Prescription Pricing for the People Act of 2019; and

Whereas, Introduced by Congressmen Doug Collins (R-GA) and Jerry Nadler (D-NY), this bill requires the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to examine whether the actions of pharmacy benefit managers amounts to anti-competitive behavior; and

Whereas, Given that New Yorkers already pay the highest amount for their prescription drugs, it is vital that Congress act to drive prices down; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the U.S. Congress passes, and the President signs S.1227/H.R.2376, the Prescription Pricing for the People Act of 2019.

Res. No. 1000

Resolution calling upon the United States Congress to pass, and the President to sign, legislation to protect citizens against surprise medical bills.

By Council Member Holden.

Whereas, According to a study by the University of Chicago published in 2018, 57 percent of Americans have had problems with surprise medical bills; and

Whereas, According to the Health Care Cost Institute, one in seven patients, on average, across thirty-seven states, including New York, have received a surprise bill despite seeking care at an in-network hospital; and

Whereas, According to the Kaiser Family Foundation, about one in six emergency visits and hospital stays had at least one out-of-network charge in 2017; and

Whereas, Among New Yorkers with large employer coverage, 30 percent of emergency visits had at least one out-of-network charge in 2017; and

Whereas, According to the New York State Department of Health (DOH), 3,853,470 emergency visits occurred in New York City in 2014; and

Whereas, According to DOH, the adjusted rate of emergency department visits for New York City between 2012-2014 was 4,557.8 per 10,000 people; and

Whereas, According to the Health Care Cost Institute, even when patients seek care from in-network physicians, they are often unable to predict whether or not their entire team of physicians are in-network; and

Whereas, A common example of this is when one seeks surgery from an in-network physician at an in-network hospital, yet their anesthesiologist is out-of-network; and

Whereas, The Health Care Cost Institute found that anesthesiology accounts for the largest share of out-of-network claims from in-network hospitals; and

Whereas, According to a 2016 survey by the Kaiser Family Foundation, seven out of ten people who received a surprise bill due to obtaining care from an out-of-network provider did not know that the provider was out-of-network at the time of service; and

Whereas, According to a report by the New York State Department of Finance published in 2012, the average surprise medical bill for insured patients who received care from an out-of-network physician was $3,778; and

Whereas, According to National Public Radio (NPR), surprise bills are detrimental for hospitals, and in 2016 hospitals faced $40 billion in uncompensated costs, in part due to patients who are unable to pay surprise bills; and

Whereas, Several legislators are concerned about this issue and have proposed ideas to address surprise medical bills; and

Whereas, The New York State Surprise Bills for Health Care Services Law, which went into effect in 2015, has reduced the percent of out-of-network emergency department services that were billed in the state from 20.1 percent in 2013 to 6.4 percent in 2015; and

Whereas, Despite these gains, individuals in New York State with self-funded health plans are not protected by New York State Law because self-funded plans are governed by federal law; and

Whereas, 54 percent of New Yorkers with employee provided health insurance are considered to have self-funded health plans, and are therefore not currently protected; and

Whereas, Senate Bill S. 1531, titled, “Stopping the Outrageous Practice (STOP) Surprise Bills Act of 2019,” sponsored by Senator Bill Cassidy, would prohibit surprise billing; and

Whereas, Senate Bill S. 1895, titled, “A Bill to Lower Health Care Costs,” sponsored by Senator Lamar Alexander, would protect patients from surprise billing and reduce the price of prescription drugs; and

Whereas, The US House of Representatives has shown dedication to this issue by creating draft legislation known as, the “No Surprises Act” and holding a hearing to gain insight to the complex problem of surprise billing; and

Whereas, The President of the United States has issued an executive order requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services to propose regulations for hospitals, health care providers and insurance companies to inform patients about out-of-pocket costs prior to receiving care; and

Whereas, Ensuring transparency and access to affordable health care is an important public health goal; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the United States Congress to pass, and the President to sign legislation to protect citizens against surprise medical bills.

Res. No. 1001

Resolution calling upon the United States Congress to pass and the President to sign legislation to fully repeal the Institutions for Mental Diseases Exclusion from the Social Security Act to allow states to use federal Medicaid funding to provide mental health and substance use disorder treatment services to adult Medicaid beneficiaries at Institutions for Mental Diseases.

By Council Member Holden.

Whereas, The Institutions for Mental Diseases (IMD) Exclusion rule has been in place since the beginning of the Medicaid program in 1965 and prohibits the use of federal Medicaid funds to finance services for adults ages 22-64 residing in institutions for severe mental illness, which include hospitals, nursing homes, or other institutions with more than 16 beds that primarily provide diagnosis, treatment, or care for persons living with severe mental illness; and

Whereas, The New York State Office of Mental Health (OMH) operates inpatient mental health care at 24 state psychiatric centers that are classified by the federal government as IMDs—9 of which are known as “Forensic” facilities and serve justice-involved children and adults—and regulates roughly 100 programs operated within general hospitals, also known as “Article 28” facilities; and

Whereas, According to the most recent OMH Patient Characteristics Survey of 2017, there were approximately 865,000 adults living with serious mental illness in New York, and approximately 239,000 adults living with serious mental illness in the New York City (NYC) region, of which only 139,403 and 72,363 adults living with serious mental illness respectively received public mental health services; and

Whereas, Nationwide, the public mental healthcare system has shifted from an inpatient to an outpatient treatment model through a process referred to as “deinstitutionalization” to reduce the number of individuals in psychiatric centers; and

Whereas, Under the Cuomo administration, deinstitutionalization efforts were made through the Transformation Plan, which relies on community-based mental health treatment to reduce the average daily census and total number of beds at state psychiatric centers; and

Whereas, Deinstitutionalization has inadvertently placed a heavy financial burden on general hospitals, homeless shelters and NYC jails, all of which have a limited capacity to provide services to individuals living with mental illness; and

Whereas, In New York state, there are more adult psychiatric-care beds located in general hospitals than in state psychiatric centers, which include 4,676 beds in general hospitals compared to only 2,336 beds in state psychiatric centers; and

Whereas, NYC Health + Hospitals (H+H) is the leading provider of inpatient psychiatric care in NYC with 11 H+H facilities that provide 1,218 beds for adult inpatient psychiatric care; and

Whereas, In 2018, there were a total of 28 mental health shelters in NYC and the number of New Yorkers experiencing homelessness and living with serious mental illness increased by about 2,200 between 2015-2017; and

Whereas, As of 2018, Rikers Island jail complex is one of the three largest providers of psychiatric care in the United States, at which over 40% of their population had a mental health diagnosis and over 10% had a serious mental health diagnosis; and

Whereas, In 2016, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) updated the IMD managed care rules to allow federal reimbursement of short stays only of 15 days or fewer in IMDs in Medicaid managed care systems; and

Whereas, In 2018, Congress partially repealed IMD Exclusion by passing the Substance Use-Disorder Prevention that Promotes Opioid Recovery and Treatment for Patients and Communities Act or the “SUPPORT for Patients and Communities Act,” which provides federal funding for residential substance-use disorder treatment; and

Whereas, A full repeal that extends to all Medicaid beneficiaries and removes inpatient-day limitations, would allow for better outcomes and provide treatment to adults living with acute and chronic serious mental illness at IMDs; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon United States Congress to pass and the President to sign legislation to fully repeal the Institutions for Mental Diseases Exclusion from the Social Security Act to allow states to use federal Medicaid funding to provide mental health and substance use disorder treatment services to adult Medicaid beneficiaries at Institutions for Mental Diseases.

Res. No. 1002

Resolution calling upon the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation that adds a gravely disabled standard to the civil commitment law.

By Council Member Holden.

Whereas, Every state has civil commitment laws that establish criteria for determining when involuntary treatment for individuals with severe mental health needs who cannot seek care voluntarily is necessary; and

Whereas, New York State has such standards that include the use of court ordered treatment known as Assisted Outpatient Treatment or (AOT), which 47 states and Washington, DC have adopted, and such laws have led to a reduction in hospitalization, arrest, incarceration, homelessness and violence related to mental illness; and

Whereas, According to a 2017 count by the National Institute of Mental Health and Census Bureau, in New York State, there are approximately 173,000 and 345,000 adults with schizophrenia and severe bipolar disorder, respectively, which are deemed severe mental health illnesses; and

Whereas, The Treatment Advocacy Center, a national organization dedicated to removing barriers to effective severe mental health treatment, espouses a standard of a minimum of 50 public psychiatric beds per 100,000 people in order for states to adequately meet the need for treatment; and

Whereas, State psychiatric facilities in New York City lost 15 percent of their total bed capacity for adults between 2014 and 2018, and yet between 2015 and 2017, the number of severely mentally ill homeless people in the city increased by over 20 percent; and

Whereas, New York State lost 1,742 beds between 2010 and 2016, with 16.3 beds per 100,000 people, which is far below the minimum standard in order to adequately address the need for severe mental health treatment; and

Whereas, In 1969, California enacted the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act or LPS Act, which established a standard for mental health commitment due to an individual being either an imminent danger or due to “grave disability,” in which a person is unable to meet their basic needs in order to survive, and the LPS Act served as a model for others states in crafting civil commitment laws; and

Whereas, “grave disability” is generally defined as an individual’s inability to provide themselves with personal basic needs such as food, clothing or shelter, with some states, such as Alaska, using a definition that also encompasses a standard of the disability being so severe as to cause a substantial risk that the individual will experience harm, according to the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration; and

Whereas, New York State’s current standard for the involuntarily commitment of an individual is of they are deemed in need of inpatient psychiatric treatment by physicians, are unable to make the determination of need for themselves and present a threat of harm or a danger to themselves and others; and

Whereas, New York is one of four states along with Washington, DC that has failed to incorporate a grave disability standard into its standards for civil commitment of those with mental illnesses and the Treatment Advocacy Center urgently calls for the standard to be adopted into state law; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, legislation that adds a gravely disabled standard to the civil commitment law.

Res. No. 1003

Resolution calling on the United States Congress to pass, and the President to sign, and on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, a law that would authorize the transfer of the regulation of special education from the Department of Education to the Department of Mental Health and Hygiene.

By Council Member King.

Whereas, Over 200,000 students in New York City, nearly 20 percent of the City’s public school students, are eligible for special education services outlined in their Individualized Education Program (IEP), which sets forth the educational goals and services needed for that particular student; and

Whereas, Students with IEPs may have a wide variety of needs, including learning disabilities, emotional disturbance, speech or language impairments, and other health impairments defined as “limited strength, vitality or alertness” resulting from chronic or acute health problems like a heart condition, asthma or an attention deficit disorder; and

Whereas, Complaints filed against the New York City Department of Education (DOE) regarding the needs of special education students have dramatically increased since 2014 according to a May 2019 report of New York State Education Department data, the number of complaints jumped 51 percent between the 2014-2015 and 2017-2018 school years; and

Whereas, As reported by the New York Times in October 2018, nearly 50,000 students with disabilities did not receive the specialized instruction they were entitled to receive in the 2016-2017 school year and, in the year prior, over 40 percent of students with disabilities did not receive such instruction; and

Whereas, According to the New York City DOE Compliance Assurance Plan, as of February 21, 2019, the City received 7,448 due process complaints related to special education students and their needs, which was greater than the total complaints for the 2017-2018 school year; and

Whereas, In 2016, then-Public Advocate Letitia James filed a lawsuit against the DOE regarding the lack of sufficient tracking through the City’s Special Education Student Information System (SESIS), which is intended to facilitate IEPs for special education students and to ensure their needs are being met; and

Whereas, the lawsuit alleged $356 million in Medicaid dollars were lost over the years due to the inadequacies and glitches of SESIS; and

Whereas, Despite rising graduation rates in recent years, only 43.4 percent of students with disabilities finished high school on time in 2017 in DOE schools; and

Whereas, Schools are supposed to assign therapists to students with disabilities based on their needs as outlined in their IEP at the beginning of the academic year and if they are unable to do so, families must locate such specialists with the use of a voucher; and

Whereas, According to the 2017 report released by then-Public Advocate James, nearly half of the 9,164 vouchers for the 2015-2016 school year issued to families for services such as speech therapy, physical or occupational therapy for disabled students went unused, as families were unable to locate providers; and

Whereas, The resolution process for complaints filed with the DOE is lengthy and burdensome, with the average complaint remaining open for 202 days, and the DOE only conducted 126 mediations, one of the methods of complaint resolution, in the 2017-2018 school year and; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the Federal United States Congress to pass, and the President to sign, and on the New York State Legislature to pass, and the Governor to sign, a law that would authorize the transfer of the regulation of special education from the Department of Education to the Department of Mental Health and Hygiene.

b. Where a parking regulation zone affects a portion of the street, the department shall post signs at the locations where the parking regulation begins and where such regulation ends. Such signs shall include arrows clearly marking the parking regulation zone. The department is not required to post signs at the end of the area when the parking regulation zone extends to the end of the street.

Res. No. 1004

Resolution calling upon New York State to prohibit the practice of allowing medallion lenders to classify medallion deals as business loans rather than consumer loans.

By Council Members Levin, Cabrera and Louis.

Whereas, In 1937, New York City enacted the Haas Act which regulated the taxi industry by creating the medallion system that is currently still in place today; and

Whereas, For many low-income and immigrant drivers, the goal of owning their own individual taxi medallion was viewed as a path to the middle class since medallions were considered assets that could be later sold and allowed drivers to keep all their earnings and set their own schedules; and

Whereas, Since the taxi medallion system was established in the City, for almost eighty years the value of medallions sold in the open market kept rising steadily over time and hovered at around the $200,000 price range in 2002; and

Whereas, In 2004, the City of New York began auctioning new medallions as a way of raising revenue for the City and providing additional hail service to New Yorkers, the first time in several decades that new medallions were added to the industry; and

Whereas, When the City began auctioning new medallions in 2004, many new drivers took out large loans to finance their medallion purchases, lured by the promise of being able to participate in a “once in a lifetime opportunity” and by ads that stated that an investment in a taxi medallion was “better than the stock market”; and

Whereas, Some of the lending institutions that financed taxi medallion loans in the City were banks and credit unions chartered under the New York State Department of Financial Services, with credit unions having additional oversight by the National Credit Union Administration; and

Whereas, Banks offered business loans to medallion buyers, sometimes at terms that were less favorable to the borrower; and

Whereas, Many taxi drivers chose to take out loans through credit unions because they are not-for-profit entities that have historically offered better loan terms and benefits to their members; and

Whereas, Under federal guidelines in place since 1998, credit unions that provide loans in the taxi industry have been exempt from some of the statutory member business lending cap rules that apply to other credit unions under the federal oversight of the National Credit Union Administration; and

Whereas, In 2004, the National Credit Union Administration issued a waiver that exempted credit unions from requiring borrowers to put at least a 20% down payment for the purchase of their taxi medallions; and

Whereas, Spurred by a flurry of medallion sales activity between 2002 and 2014, the taxi industry in the city saw the value of medallions grow exponentially during that time with the value of some peaking at $1.3 million in 2014; and

Whereas, Since the peak in 2014, the taxi industry in the city has seen the value of taxi medallions drop, with some selling recently for as low as $150,000 in the secondary market; and

Whereas, Recent reports have indicated that due to the drop in medallion values and a decrease in the overall earnings of taxi drivers, many medallion owners have significant amounts of debt and some are unable to earn enough money to make their outstanding loan payments; and

Whereas, Currently, New York State Banking regulations allows lenders to classify financing for taxi medallions as business loans, rather than consumer loans; and

Whereas, Business loans tend to be more complex, have shorter payback periods, usually carry a higher rate of interest and, according to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, are not subject to most federal consumer protection laws and regulations; and

Whereas, Consumer loans tend to provide borrowers with greater state and federal financial protections and regulations; and

Whereas, Current consumer protection laws cover loans established primarily for personal, family, or household purposes; and

Whereas, Some of the protections for consumer loans include requiring lenders to show the cost of credit as an actual dollar amount, list an annual percentage rate, disclose terms in a meaningful and uniform manner and prohibit abusive, unfair, or deceptive collection practices; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon New York State to prohibit the practice of allowing medallion lenders to classify medallion deals as business loans rather than consumer loans.

A Local Law to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to requiring the police department to report the state, territory or country in which a seized firearm was purchased

Be it enacted by the Council as follows:

Section 1. Subdivision a of section 14-150 of the administrative code of the city of New York, is amended by adding a new paragraph 9 to read as follows:

9. A report, where known, of the number of firearms seized, disaggregated by the type of firearm and the state or territory of the United States, or the country, where such firearm was purchased originally, and, if applicable, where such firearm was resold. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "firearm" means any weapon which will or is designed to or may readily be converted to expel a projectile by the action of an explosive, including any pistol, revolver, shotgun or a rifle, but not an antique firearm.

§ 2. This local law takes effect immediately.

Res. No. 1005

Resolution calling upon the United States Federal Aviation Administration to ban all non-essential helicopter travel, including tourist and chartered helicopter flights over New York City.

By Council Members Levine, Rosenthal, Chin, Kallos, Rivera, Constantinides and Holden.

Whereas, A large number of tourist helicopters fly over the city of New York every day; and

Whereas, There have been several notable accidents over the City's airspace, raising congestion and safety issues; and

Whereas, In May of this year, a charter helicopter crashed into the Hudson River while the pilot, who only suffered a hand injury, was moving the aircraft from the fueling area to the customer section of the West 30th Street Heliport; and

Whereas, A month later in June of this year, a helicopter crashed on the roof of a building in Manhattan, killing the pilot who was the sole person in the aircraft; and

Whereas, Before these incidents, there have been several other notable accidents over the City's airspace; and

Whereas, In April 1997, a corporate helicopter taking off from a heliport on East 60th Street, crashed into the East River, killing one passenger and injuring three others; and

Whereas, Later that same year, a helicopter was forced to make an emergency landing after clipping a Manhattan building, resulting in damage to the helicopter's rotor; and

Whereas, In 2007, a tour helicopter had to make an emergency landing in the Hudson River on its emergency pontoons; and

Whereas, On August 8, 2009, a helicopter operated by Liberty Helicopter Tours collided with a small private plane over the Hudson River resulting in the deaths of all nine individuals aboard both crafts making the incident one of the deadliest helicopter accidents in New York City history; and

Whereas, In October 2011, a woman was killed and four others were injured when a tour helicopter crashed into the East River; and

Whereas, In June 2013, a tour helicopter carrying a family of four and their pilot made an emergency landing in the Hudson River after the helicopter lost power; and

Whereas, More recently, in March 2018, another helicopter operated by Liberty Helicopter Tours crashed in the East River resulting in the deaths of five passengers on board, however the pilot survived; and

Whereas, This accident was the third involving Liberty Helicopter since 2007 and since this incident, the United States Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) banned flights that use restraints in which passengers cannot easily free themselves ; and

Whereas, These accidents are reminders of the dangers associated with helicopters in an urban setting; and

Whereas, In addition, helicopter noise and traffic has substantially increased in the Lower Manhattan and Brooklyn areas as a result of helicopters being rerouted to the Downtown Manhattan Heliport (DMH) near South Street Seaport after the West 30th Street helipad closed to sightseeing helicopters; and

Whereas, DMH now has approximately 200 takeoffs and landings per day, 70 percent of which are sightseeing flights; and

Whereas, According to the Natural Resources Defense Council's 1999 study "Needless Noise: The Negative Impacts of Helicopter Traffic in New York City and the Tri-State Region," studies have shown exposure to frequent overhead flights to be associated with a number of health effects in children, including high blood pressure, neuroendocrinological issues, impaired psychological and cognitive functions, learned helplessness, poorer long-term memory, and diminished reading comprehension; and

Whereas, Helicopters emit air pollutants such as particulate matter, nitrogen oxide, and formaldehyde, which are known to cause asthma, cancer, and other illnesses; and

Whereas, The federal government regulates airspace and the FAA is the entity that is charged with developing airspace regulations; and

Whereas, In an attempt to make the airspace over New York City safer, on September 2, 2009, the FAA announced new recommendations which would include new training programs for pilots, air-traffic controllers, and the tourist helicopter operators, set new mandatory speed limits for these vehicles and require all pilots to tune into the same radio channel; and

Whereas, Despite these proposed safety measures, some public officials felt the recommendations did not go far enough, because air traffic controllers would still not be required to monitor aircraft below 1,000 feet; and

Whereas, In April 2010, the New York City Economic Development Corporation (EDC) released a Helicopter Sightseeing Plan (the Plan) to address the problems presented by tourist helicopter flights operating on city-owned property; and

Whereas, The Plan eliminated short tours, sightseeing tours over Central Park and the Empire State Building and sightseeing flights over Brooklyn; and

Whereas, The Plan also improved sightseeing tour routes and added an enhanced 311 protocol directing helicopter complaints to 311 representatives for input, improving EDC's ability to track complaints and allowing the agency to report data on noise complaints more effectively; and

Whereas, In January 2017, the New York City Economic Development Corporation (NYCEDC) reduced tourist helicopter traffic and noise in half by limiting the number of flights departing from Manhattan's Pier 6 heliport to 28,000 per year and ending all Sunday flights; and

Whereas, The NYCEDC, working with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), five helicopter tour operators, and the Eastern Region Helicopter Council, has also established agreed upon rules to limit the impact of helicopters on the public; and

Whereas, However, the airspace above New York City remains dangerous for these types of vehicles; and

Whereas, A great deal of public outcry for relief from harms caused by helicopter tours in New York City still exists, including from a wide range of public officials; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of New York calls upon the United States Federal Aviation Administration to ban all non-essential helicopter travel, including tourist and chartered helicopter flights over New York City.
